TVA SCANDAL SPLITS SENATE

Can't Obtain Names; Suspects Purge.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—Congress today sought to solve the outstanding mystery of the administration's tax bill — the identity of the 300 to 600 corporations which would be penalized by a new surtax on companies owned by families or by a few individuals.

A. P. Lamneck.

Members of the house ways and means committee have tried vainly to obtain from the treasury department a list of the corporations which would be affected. Both Democratic and Republican members have asserted a suspicion that the new surtax is intended to punish companies who have criticized President Roosevelt's policies.

Resolution Asks List.

Convinced that the treasury would not disclose the names except under congressional compulsion, Representative Arthur P. Lamneck [D., Ohio], member of the committee majority, introduced a resolution directing Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau to compile the list and send it to the committee.

"A study of this new tax shows it to be utterly unjust and discriminatory," Lamneck told the house. "Just who are meant to be punished by this section? Is it certain newspapers who do not agree with administration policies? Is it Henry Ford? I have asked many times for this information but have never been able to get it. The treasury seems to be afraid to give it. It is impossible to escape the conclusion that somebody, somewhere, is after some corporations, or a group of corporations."

Treadway of Like Opinion.

The same opinion was voiced by Representative Allen T. Treadway [R., Mass.], ranking minority member of the committee.

"Undoubtedly, one purpose of this section is to provide the administration with a means of retaliation against certain corporations controled by a few individuals who differ politically with the administration and who have resisted certain administration policies with which they do not agree," he said.

"The proposed tax takes on the character of a political weapon for purging the business structure of the nation of some of the outstanding opponents of the President. These methods have no place in a constitutional democracy."

Warns Southern Members.

Another Democratic member of the committee, Representative John R. McCormack [D., Mass.] flayed the proposed surtax and warned southern members they might have to answer for it at the polls.

"Now let me tell you southern members something," McCormack declared, shaking his finger at them. "The south is going to suffer more from this tax than any other section of the nation—far more than the east.

"The whole new economic structure in the expanding south today is built on the closely-held and one-family corporation. Only in the New England states is this also true.

"You gentlemen had better be considering the political as well as economic phases of this proposal. The smart thing politically is to vote against this, and I say that as one good Democrat to another."

Lamneck charged that the committee majority was against the proposed surtax and would not have recommended it except under White House and treasury department pressure.

Describe Inequalities.

"Members of this committee have not been allowed to express their honest convictions in regard to this part of the bill," he declared.

"Practically all the large corporations with incomes of more than a million dollars annually are widely held and will pay only the flat rate of 20 per cent while smaller corporations, with smaller incomes, which are closely held will pay more than 31 per cent.

"In the case of two rival corpora-

WHY BOYS TURN THIEF! 17 TELL WHY THEY DID

Gangs Blame Easy Money Craving.

Motives which lead boys to become criminals were disclosed last night in the cases of 17 of the 22 boys arrested over the week-end for holdups and burglary. Their ages range from 12 to 19 years, with the average 15 years.

The 17 boys questioned were members of two gangs. One, an older group with nine members, operated on the south side; the other in the northwest part of the city. The south siders are made up largely of pupils and former pupils at Calumet High school; the eight boys from northwest Chicago are 13 to 16 years old and, for the most part, are pupils at Steinmetz High school.

Refuse to Blame Girls.

The south side boys denied that the desire to get money to entertain girls was responsible for their predicament. Craving for easy money was the reason given by all for breaking the law.

Here are short sketches of the nine south side youths, their backgrounds, and the reasons for entering on criminal careers which included 30 holdups and thefts of automobiles:

Robert Kern, 17 years old, 739 West 80th street: Three years at Calumet High school. Quit school a year ago. Other boys, his friends, told him they were stealing and it seemed a way to get easy money.

Michael Sullivan, 19, of 8126 Elizabeth street: Two years at Calumet High. He went to parties attended by the gang. He had no job and burglary looked easier to him than finding work.

Son of Policewoman Held.

Harry Callahan, 18, of 7802 Carpenter street: Son of Policewoman Fleda Callahan. He is still a pupil at Calumet High. Young Callahan found robbery "pretty soft." "Nothing to it," he told police. "You stick a hand in your pocket and make 'em think it's a gun. Then you stick a hand in their pockets and get their dough."

John Scanlon, 18, of 1215 West 78th place: A pupil for two years at St. Leo High school. He has been out of school for a year and has been working steadily. Holdups were a source of easy money to him.

Thomas Little, 19, of 8122 May street: Three years at Calumet High. He left school two months ago. He has "just been hanging around with the gang."

Returns to the Gang.

John O'Brien, 18, of 8123 Sangamon street: Attended De La Salle High school for two years, but left three years ago. He said he worked a while on several jobs, then found employment hard to get. He has no job now. O'Brien said he quit the gang when he found work, but went back to crime because it produced "easy money."

Kenneth Cameron, 16, of 8057 Loomis street: A third year pupil at Calumet High school. He said he started to steal cars because it was so easy.

Paul Raver, 19, of 8025 Carpenter street: A former pupil at Tilton High school. He quit school two years ago. He had a job when arrested, but "it didn't pay much." Crime brought in extra money.

William Hughes, 19, of 8104 Elizabeth street: Attended Calumet High until two months ago. He has never had a job. Robbery seemed to present opportunities for money without drudgery.

Visited by Parents.

All the boys were interviewed at Burnside station last night, where they were held after questioning by the state's attorney. They were booked on robbery charges and will be arraigned today. Most of the boys were visited by their parents at the station during the evening. The parents told police they could not understand why their sons had broken the law.

The eight other boys from the northwest part of the city were behind the bars at Cragin station last night. The oldest is 16 years old. Altogether they had confessed more than thirty burglaries. The ringleader, they said, was a child 13 years old. The story of their background and motives for their crimes follow:

Norbert Reet, 13 years old, of 2816 North Mulligan avenue: He is a pupil at Steinmetz High school. His ambition is to be a lawyer. He and a companion stole a slot machine

Albany, Ga., March 7.—(AP)—The winter resort county of Dougherty today voted 1,274 to 197 to legalize liquor, ending Georgia's 22 year ban against whisky.

New Violet Ray Kills Bacteria; Makes Air Pure

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—The latest weapon in man's warfare against disease, the annihilation of harmful bacteria by ultraviolet radiation, was shown here tonight. An audience of 1,000 public health officials, physicians, and scientists attended the first public demonstration of the Rentschler-James sterilization process.

The lethal ray from the new ultraviolet lamp opens up vast possibilities for the preservation of meat and baked goods as well as the sterilization of such carriers of disease as the public drinking glass, according to the sponsors. The lamp is also being used to cleanse the air in the operating rooms of hospitals.

Dr. Harvey C. Rentschler, director of research for the Westinghouse Lamp laboratory and co-developer of the process, conducted the demonstration.

Shown Killing Wrigglers.

First a drop of New Jersey pond water wriggling with tiny, one celled life, was placed under the lens of a microscope by Dr. Rentschler. Then the scene was magnified many thousands of times and thrown on a movie screen at the front of the hall. What the audience saw was about fifty paramecia, slipper-shaped microorganisms, swimming about in the fluid.

Dr. Rentschler threw a switch which sent electricity through his lamp and radiated the field about the microscope. The paramecia slowed down and finally became rigid. Blisters appeared on their forms. Within a few seconds the tiny organisms burst and disintegrated.

The lamp which shot the death ray into the drop of water was a slender gas-filled tube thirty inches long and about the size of the little finger in diameter. While the tube when operating was faintly blue in color, Rentschler explained, the radiation which kills bacteria but is harmless to human beings is invisible. That portion of the ultra-violet spectrum which is most deadly to the microorganisms is utilized in the lamp.

Time of Treatment Varies.

The length of time required to kill the bacteria varies with the nature of the organism and the distance from the lamp. At a distance of four inches, Rentschler said, the radiation would kill 95 per cent of the typhoid germs in clear water in about eight seconds, while at the same distance about 19 minutes was needed for killing black mold.

Handlers and processors of foodstuffs evinced interest in the new process. While ultraviolet sterilization does not do away with refrigeration, according to its sponsors, it is possible to raise the temperature level of necessary refrigeration from 34 to 45 degrees Fahrenheit with savings in equipment, operation and maintenance.

There is more controversy over the use of the lamp in the operating room. Dr. Deryl Hart, surgeon in chief of Duke hospital at Durham, N. C., asserted that the lamp installed in his hospital two years ago had reduced the infections in wounds from 4 per cent to less than one-half of 1 per cent. A total of 800 operations was performed in the field of sterilized air at Duke.

On the other hand, several members of the medical profession at the meeting expressed skepticism over the value of the ray in the operating room.

Oklahoma City, Okla., March 7.—(AP)—Fireman Ed Apelt was all set to marry Assistant Fire Chief Luke Chenoweth's daughter, Vera, but a stubborn fire in a cotton oil mill threatened to smolder for a day or more. ROBS LOOP DRUG STORE OF $1,100; SHOOTS MANAGER

A gunman held up the Liggett drug store at 2 South State street early this morning and escaped with $1,100, the day's receipts, after wounding the night manager, Edward Neverman, 58 years old, of Palatine road, Arlington Heights.

Neverman had locked the store at midnight and gone to his office on the balcony when the robber ordered him to open the safe. In his nervousness the bandit's gun was discharged, wounding Neverman slightly. Neverman opened the safe and the bandit seized the money and fled. Donald Matesi of 1038 Grand avenue, a soda clerk, who was preparing to leave, called police and ten squads responded. Several hundred persons were attracted to the scene by the uproar. Neverman was taken to St. Luke's hospital for treatment of his wounds.

Bukharin Calls Assassin Plot Charge False

MOSCOW, March 7.—(AP)—Nicolai Bukharin tonight steadfastly denied accusations leveled by the prison worn woman who once headed Russia's dread secret police that he plotted to assassinate both Nicolai Lenin and Josef Stalin.

In a husky monotone Barbara Yakovleva, now a faded prisoner of the police she once headed, told the treason trial court of assassination plans she said Bukharin backed in 1918 during the Red revolution's dawning days.

Fails to Shake Bukharin.

But her dramatic digging into the revolution's past failed to shake Bukharin as he adroitly conducted his own defense before the packed courtroom.

Bukharin's denial was the first attempt at any defense among the twenty-one defendants since N. N. Krestinsky denied his own guilt early in the trial but quickly retracted.

Bukharin apparently wished to face the firing squad which, he said, was inevitable, without the blot on his revolutionary record of having plotted to kill Russia's two leaders. Five hours of testimony against him and questions rained by the prosecutor left the former editor of the government newspaper Izvestia unmoved.

Says He Expects to Be Shot.

"You arrested me, and I probably shall not continue to live," the defendant said on one occasion. "I am quite sure I shall not."

Mme. Yakovleva accused Bukharin of giving preliminary approval to the assassination in 1918 of the German ambassador to Russia, Count Wilhelm Mirbach-Harff, a plot carried out apparently in an attempt to break up peace negotiations between Germany and Russia.

The former revolutionary heroine said Bukharin's aim was to kill Lenin and Stalin so Russia's separate peace of Brest-Litovsk would not be concluded.

"What secret service ordered you to prepare the assassination of Lenin?" asked Prosecutor Andrei Vishinsky.

Bukharin Denies Everything.

"I emphatically deny everything," Bukharin retorted.

In a final effort to pry an admission from him before the trial recessed until tomorrow morning Vishinsky said: "Both former social revolutionaries and former left communists say you instigated, hurried and instructed on that plan."

"They do not speak the truth when they talk of that plan," the defendant returned with unruffled dignity.

He said he merely wanted to arrest Lenin and Stalin if they insisted on peace with Germany.

Quotes Former Leader.

Mme. Yakovleva, a large woman of 53, who went to prison last November after having been commissar of finance, was the chief witness against Bukharin.

Speaking in a slow, quavering monotone, she testified that a certain Stukov, opposing the signing of the Brest-Litovsk treaty, told a group within the Moscow inner circle of the communist party:

"We should not stop short of the arrest of Lenin, Stalin, and Jacob Sverdlov [an early leader of the revolution], and if they continue to insist on their line we should not stop short of their destruction."

Calls Trotzky Plot Leader.

She said Stukov told her that he acted on Bukharin's instructions and that this was confirmed to her later by Bukharin, who ordered the minutes of the meeting destroyed in May, 1918.

Bukharin, who interrupted her frequently, said: "Under no circumstances did we speak of killing them."

He testified that Leon Trotzky, ex-

MORGAN BATTLE CAUSES CRISIS FOR ROOSEVELT

Faces Test in Effort to Block Inquiry.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—Having failed in its efforts to liquidate Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Roosevelt administration faces a crisis tomorrow in its efforts to prevent a congressional investigation of the half billion dollar experiment in socialism.

The crisis will come on a motion of Senator George W. Norris [Radical, Neb.], who likes to be called the father of the TVA, to discharge the senate commerce committee from further consideration of the King-Bridges resolution calling for a thorough TVA investigation. Norris wants the resolution transferred to his agriculture committee, where it could be killed, and the investigating left to the Federal Trade commission as proposed by his own resolution.

Norris Obtains Floor.

Just before the senate adjourned Norris obtained the floor for a speech tomorrow in which he will assail Dr. Morgan and demand that the commerce committee be discharged.

That the administration is opposed to any investigation at all, particularly a congressional investigation, was plainly indicated today by Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, who reflects the wishes of the White House in everything he says.

Asked whether he favored an investigation by the Federal Trade commission, as opposed to a congressional inquiry, Barkley replied: "I'm not certain that there will have to be an investigation."

There is a widespread belief in congress, however, that a congressional inquiry cannot be prevented, because of the overwhelming demands of both friends and foes of the TVA.

Quiz Proponents to Confer.

Senators William H. King [D., Utah] and H. Styles Bridges [R., N. H.], co-authors of the nonpartisan senate investigating resolution, will meet with Representative Maury Maverick [D., Tex.] tomorrow morning to consider proposing a joint senate and house inquiry, as suggested by Chairman Morgan.

Maverick, an extreme radical, has been one of the most fervent supporters of the TVA, but he looks with misgivings upon the authority's sale of power, under exceptionally favorable contracts, to private corporations which have been denounced as monopolistic by the administration.

Reports Expenditures Challenged.

Reports that the controller general's office has challenged as illegal almost $5,000,000 of TVA expenditures are expected to increase the congressional clamor for an investigation. An official of the controller general's office said that a report soon to be completed would show that for the fiscal year 1934 expenditures totaling $2,013,326 were challenged. Audits for the two succeeding fiscal years bring the total to $4,748,505, he said.

Republican Leader Bertrand H. Snell of New York challenged the Democratic leadership on the floor of the house today to block an investigation of the TVA.

"In view of the further amazing statement by Chairman Morgan, containing charges of definite dishonesty; in view of the statement of the other two directors, and in view of the demands coming from all parts of the country for an investigation of the TVA, I do not believe the Democratic leadership can overlook the request of Chairman Morgan for such an investigation," Snell said.

Charges in Morgan Letter.

The "further amazing statement" by Chairman Morgan was made public yesterday in the form of a letter to Representative Maverick, in which Morgan charged his fellow directors, Harcourt A. Morgan and David E. Lilienthal, with "conspiracy, waste, evasion, and intrigue." He also made it plain in that letter that he would not be "purged" from the TVA.

President Roosevelt virtually requested Dr. Morgan to resign when he made public last week a statement by Harcourt Morgan and Lilienthal accusing Chairman Morgan of trying to rule or ruin the TVA.

Mr. Roosevelt made this statement public after Dr. Morgan had accused his fellow directors of trying to make a deal with Senator George L. Berry [D., Tenn.] to settle out of court his $5,000,000 claim for alleged marble deposits flooded by the Norris dam. Dr. Morgan forced a court proceeding, and the Berry marble claim was declared worthless by a special commission.

Refuses to Hold up U. S. Aid.

With the TVA controversy raging in congress, Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes announced today that he would not hold up loans and grants for the construction of municipal power plants pending efforts of the TVA to buy private electrical systems.

Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern corporation, who proposed that the TVA purchase the private utility properties in the Tennessee valley instead of constructing duplicate systems to put them out of business, requested the suspension. His request was made on the theory that the utility operators could not negotiate freely with the TVA while their power systems were being menaced by federally subsidized municipal competition.

"The private utilities have tried in many ways to block the municipal power program. They tried to dissuade towns from building their own systems, and when that failed they tried to tie us up with injunctions.

"The Supreme court, however, ruled that in our favor, and many contracts have been made between municipalities and PWA. The PWA attitude is that we will abide by these contracts. We will not back down in any way, and won't act in any way on Mr. Willkie's proposal."

Reject Gilbertsville Project.

The administration and friends of the TVA suffered a serious reversal today when the house conferees on the $1,422,000,000 independent offices appropriation bill agreed to disagree on a senate amendment to begin construction on the $112,000,000 TVA dam at Gilbertsville, Ky. The senate amendment added $2,730,000 for the beginning of construction on the Gilbertsville project.

The house conferees flatly refused to accept it, pending a congressional investigation of the whole TVA undertaking, and reported a disagreement to the house. A separate house vote will be required and if the conferees are sustained by a substantial majority the senate ultimately will be forced to recede.

TRIO PUT ON TRIAL FOR CONSPIRACY TO EVADE TAXES

Edmond F. La Voie, former state sales tax investigater, and two other men went on trial yesterday before Judge Rudolph F. Desort charged with conspiracy to defraud the state of $30,000 in sales taxes. Four jurors were selected.

The other defendants are William H. McFadden, president of the McFadden Motor Sales company, 3210 Jackson boulevard, and David K. Springwater, former manager of the concern.

These were the first arrests made after Sam Nudelman, state finance director, started a campaign against tax evasion. He discharged 16 investigaters for accepting graft and inattention to duty.

Hoodlums Shoot Through Tavern Window; Wound 1

A mysterious gun atack was made at midnight on the tavern at 480 West 25th place. A customer, William Ahr, 30 years old, 517 West 26th street, was wounded in the right ankle and later taken to the People's hospital. An investigation by Sergt. William Doyle of the Deering station revealed that several hoodlums drove past the saloon in a car and fired half a dozen shots through the front windows. Joseph Naponiello, the owner, said he knew of no reason for such an attack.

3 YOUTHS PLEAD NOT GUILTY IN RICHARD KILLING

They are: Charles J. Schmidt Jr., 19 years old, 1654 Melrose street; Robert Trams, 16, of 1552 Melrose street, and Jack Kroske, 17, of 1708 Melrose street. Schmidt's father is president of the printing company.

Young Schmidt was represented by Attorney Benedict J. Short, and the others by Morton Anderson, assistant public defender. Police said they slugged Richard because of a dispute between him and the elder Schmidt. The case was assigned to Judge Robert J. Dunne for trial on April 4.

LABOR TERRORIST MURDERERS ARE STILL FREE MEN

25 Days Pass Without Suspect in Custody.

Yesterday was the twenty-fifth day since a hoodlum employed as a strike picket swung a baseball bat against the head of Lloyd Rourke, an independent laundry driver, killing him. The murderous assault, latest outburst of violence in Chicago's recurring labor union troubles, occurred behind the Fairfax hotel, 1639 Hyde Park boulevard, early in the afternoon of Feb. 10.

A survey of law enforcement agencies last night disclosed that although a dozen men have been seized and questioned and that almost 100 detectives and investigators for the state's attorney's office have worked on the case from time to time, little or no progress has been made. No one is in custody in connection with the crime at this time and police say they do not know the identity of the slayer.

Gangsters Struggle for Power.

They charge, however, that the murder of Rourke, who was a contractor carrying laundry finished in the Del Prado hotel to other neighborhood hotels and apartment buildings, was merely an incident in a struggle for power among gangsters and labor union racketeers who seek to gain control of several recently organized laundry workers' organizations.

These professional criminals, according to the police, are the real powers behind the scenes. They do not hestitate to use murder in enforcing their will upon hapless members of the unions they control. Terrorism still is their chief weapon.

This picture of the slaying fits the pattern of other blood purges in Chicago labor unions in recent years. It focuses attention upon earlier murders which, directly or indirectly, were connected with the rise to power of gangsters and hoodlums who preyed upon legitimate labor union organizations.

Tommy Maloy Case Cited.

For instance, there was Tommy Maloy, who for 15 years reigned as the czar of the strong Motion Picture Operators' union. Maloy became business agent of this organization, which was an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. He ruled it with an iron hand until he was slain on Feb. 2, 1935.

During those years, aided by a group of enterprising and ruthless associates, he collected fees from members, tribute from the motion picture theater owners of the city, and an enormous private tarif from so-called "permit" men who, although not members of his union, were allowed to work as motion picture operators.

Maloy's system for putting permit men to work kept many full time members of his union out of jobs. Opposition grew, and Jacob D. Kaufman became identified as one of the leaders of the anti-Maloy faction. Then on the evening of June 20, 1931, Kaufman was shot down in a garage behind his home at 9527 Princeton avenue. The crime never was solved.

Another Rival Is Slain.

Two years later, Fred F. Oser, another opponent of Maloy, was shot and killed in the union offices by Ralph O'Hara, a Maloy henchman. O'Hara charged he killed Oser in self-defense after the former had drawn a revolver and threatened him. A jury freed O'Hara, and Maloy continued to dominate the union.

But not for long. On that February morning in 1935, Maloy and his bodyguard, Dr. Emmett C. Quinn, left an apartment on the south side where the union leader had maintained a chorus girl friend. They turned into the Outer drive, headed for the loop. At 24th street a small car pulled alongside. Two shotgun blasts ended Maloy's career. The killers never were apprehended.

The blood purge, however, was not ended in the Motion Picture Operators' union. Six months later Clyde Osterberg, recalcitrant operator who had been one of Maloy's chief enemies, was shot and killed. The purge is not yet ended, it is apparent, for on Nov. 24, 1937, Fred C. Blacker, an obscure motion picture operator who had been known as a slugger and bomber for the union, was killed as he stood with his wife at 75th avenue and 62d place in Summit.

Bloody Story of Teamster Unions.

Another bloody history is that of George [Red] Barker's muscling into control of the city's independent teamster unions with a membership of 35,000. He assumed control by virtue of his guns and the aid of an array of Al Capone gangsters, including William [Three Fingered Jack] White, Murray Humphries, and Edward [Klondike] O'Donnell. Together they formed the Trucking and Transport exchange known as TNT and proceeded to dictate prices to all employers.

A long series of strikes, sluggings, shootings, and murders immediately began. Two Barker gunmen were slain in Forest Park. In retaliation Timothy J. Lynch, business agent for the General Teamsters and Chauffeur's union, was killed in the rear of his home in Maywood. A few days later Dan Tagnetti, business agent for a Barker associate union, was killed in Riverside.

Meanwhile Barker, not satisfied with the TNT, was expanding into the milk wagon driver's union. He met with opposition by one group headed by Steve Sumner, watchdog of a $700,000 treasury built up by the members. He also ran afoul of Paddy Berrell, another gang leader who had control of a second faction of the milk wagon drivers' organization.

Machine Gunners Get Barker.

Barker's enemies arranged for a machine gunner to cut him down in front of 1502 North Crawford avenue on the evening of June 17, 1932. The underworld blamed Berrell and one month and four days later he was slain by a shotgun squad that raided his resort home at Shawano, Wis.

Even then the killings did not end. James Tribble, an ex-convict, was fatally wounded on Sept. 8, 1933, when he raided the outlaw union headquarters with gangsters. And on Jan. 23, 1934, Jack White was killed in an apartment at 920 Wesley avenue, Oak Park.

Four other labor leaders have been killed in Chicago since Jan. 1, 1936. None of these crimes has been solved, although in each instance union difficulties have been considered the motives for the murders.

FALLS FROM LADDER IN EVANSTON.

John Pearson, 47 years old, 1109 Washington street, Evanston, suffered a fractured spine and a head injury yesterday when he fell from a ladder at 3230 Thayer street, where he was employed as a carpenter. He was taken to the Evanston hospital.

DESCRIBE 'PASS' BY WHICH POLICE FREE PRISONERS

Suspension of Detectives Starts Investigation.

State's Attorney Courtney began an investigation yesterday into the prevalence of the so-called "police pass"—the unauthorized release of prisoners without taking them to the station—startlingly exemplified in the case of Detectives Frank McKune and Earl Flannery.

The two detectives, attached to the Town Hall police station, have been stripped of their stars and suspended for freeing two men accused of being bandits who had been arrested by brother officers.

Far From Rare, Courtney Thinks.

Turning the prisoners free is commonly described in police circles as giving them a pass. Since the practice has its own specific term in police parlance, Courtney said, he suspected that allowing prisoners freedom at the discretion of the police is far from rare.

His inquiry disclosed that giving a pass is a phrase generally used to mean giving liberty to one who is not entitled to it. Freeing a prisoner instead of taking him to the station and filing charges against him, therefore, is known as giving him a pass. Failure to arrest a person who should be arrested is known by the same phrase. And, Courtney said, the officer who gives a pass frequently charges for it.

For Favored Persons.

"The expression applies in raids," Courtney said, "when certain favored persons are not arrested and others are. It was a common expression during prohibition for allowing a cargo of liquor to proceed or for giving a speakeasy proprietor special consideration.

"In this case, Flannery said he told Policeman Harold Thompson: 'This man is a friend of mine. Will you give him a pass?' And Thompson, who was in uniform, replied: 'No. Take him to the station.'

"Peters and the other prisoner were arrested in the act of robbing the employé of a handbook owner known to both Flannery and McKune. There was no occasion for a friendly pass or a noncommercial release of the prisoners. Freeing robbers under circumstances of this kind amounted to an attempt to obstruct justice and will be so regarded by my office."

Allman Defends Department.

Police Commissioner Allman defended his department. He said:

"Giving passes is not customary in the police department. The best proof of that is the fact that we locked up McKune and Flannery, who said they had given a pass to some friends."

Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago Crime commission, said:

"A pass implies something free. When police have a chance to give two criminals a free ride to prison, and instead allow them to retain their liberty, the natural assumption is that it is not a free pass."

Plans Grand Jury Quiz.

Courtney said after investigating the so-called pass that he will place the case of the suspended detectives in the hands of the grand jury this week.

McKune and Flannery were suspended last Tuesday on complaint of Policemen Peter Frank and Harold Thompson. They said that on the previous Saturday, they arrested Kenneth Peters of 3434 Broadway and a companion known only as Tip in a holdup at Leland avenue and Dover street. McKune and Flannery came along soon afterward, volunteered to take the prisoners to the station and eventually released them.

SEEK STRICTER ORDINANCE FOR SEX OFFENSES

Need for changes in city ordinances to cover minor sex offenses has been brought to the attention of Chief Justice John Sonsteby of the Municipal court, it was learned yesterday.

Judge Cecil Smith wrote Justice Sonsteby stating that, while sitting recently in Jury court, he found a number of cases covered neither by the disorderly conduct section nor by the criminal code definition of sex offenses. Among these were cases of "peeping Toms," indecent proposals, advances made in a theater, and enticing a child into a secluded place. Assistant Corporation Counsel Edmond L. Mulcahy drafted an amendment making the changes.

Escapes Bridewell

Sigmund Berkowski, parolee, whose escape from the Bridewell Sunday morning was discovered by police when he was captured during flight from burglary.

Running to the first floor of the Bridewell, Berkowski crawled to a high window. Pushing a screen outward, he crawled through a six inch space between time dulled spikes and the masonry. Then on the front lawn he escaped over a four foot fence.

Edward J. Denemark, superintendent of the Bridewell, yesterday suspended two guards pending an investigation after a paroled ex-convict sawed his way out of a cell early Sunday. Sigmund Berkowski, 25 years old, the prisoner, was caught Sunday night by Marvin Bates, 2316 Lunt avenue, who surprised the parolee in his apartment.

The suspended guards are James Tatusek and James Flynn, whose job it was to patrol the Bridewell corridors at the time Berkowski cut the bars of his cell door with a hacksaw he said was given to him by another prisoner.

Berkowski, who described his escape to Acting Captain Charles Essig of the Rogers Park police, was committed to Pontiac reformatory in 1932 for burglary, paroled in 1935, and seized for parole violation last May. He was sentenced to a year in the Bridewell for tampering with an automobile and still faces action for the parole violation.

Gets Year's Probation After Taking a Taxicab

James Cummings, 37, 842 Diversey parkway, yesterday was placed on probation for a year by Judge Francis Borrelli of the Municipal court, after pleading guilty of driving an automobile without the owner's consent and reckless driving. On Dec. 21, while intoxicated, he purloined a taxi, and went for a wild ride which ended in a crash against a parked car and a safety zone.

INDICT KILLER OF MOTHER ON MURDER CHARGE

Jurors Consider Youth's Case 20 Minutes.

Theodore Danielsen Jr. was charged with murder in a true bill reported to have been voted by the grand jury yesterday. It is expected the indictment will be returned this morning and that the boy will be arraigned tomorrow. An immediate trial will be asked, according to Morris G. Meyers, assistant state's attorney. Meyers affirmed his earlier statement that the state will not ask the death penalty.

Danielsen, who is 16 years old, stabbed his mother to death last Thursday in the family home at 5316 Lieb avenue when she scolded him for playing truant and misleading her about the grades he received at Carl Schurz High school.

1 to 14 Year Term Possible.

If convicted of murder, Danielsen faces punishment ranging from 14 years to life in prison. As is customary in murder cases, however, the true bill will contain a manslaughter count, on which the youthful killer may be sentenced to 1 to 14 years' imprisonment.

The grand jury, just impaneled for March under the foremanship of Joseph C. Beckmann, wholesale milliner, required only 20 minutes for its consideration of the case.

Mrs. Max Behm of 5318 Lieb avenue, was the first witness. She told of seeing the youth's mother, Eleanor, dead in the home. Mrs. Behm's husband told of being summoned by the elder Danielsen.

Tell Details of Confession.

Capt. Patrick Collins of the Des Plaines street police testified that the boy had denied the crime when first questioned after his arrest last Friday in a West Madison street hotel, and then told of the admissions the young killer made.

Capt. Herbert Burns of the Jefferson Park police gave the details of young Danielsen's complete confession.

Meyers said after leaving the grand jury room that the state will take no action toward a sanity hearing, because the prosecutors believe young Danielsen legally sane. Should the defense ask a mental examination, Meyers said, the state will insist that it be conducted by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, head of the Criminal court behavior clinic, or that Dr. Hoffman at least be present when the examination is made.

Defense Plans Undecided.

While the jurors were considering his case the youth was near hysteria in the county jail, where he wept and trembled when other prisoners attempted to talk with him. Several times he asked them to leave him alone.

Funeral services for his mother were held earlier in the day in the chapel at 4559 Milwaukee avenue. The Rev. Frederick Lindenmyr, pastor of the Jefferson Park English Lutheran church, which the Danielsens attended, delivered the sermon. When the chapel and all the adjoining rooms were filled it became necessary to close the doors before the services began. Several hundred persons who were unable to get in waited outside.

The elder Danielsen seemed composed as he listened to the funeral sermon. No effort was made to bring his son to the services.

Burial will be today at Mrs. Danielsen's family home, Ripon, Wis.

POLICE STUDY CONFESSION IN NURSE SLAYING

Although Mack Hickerson, colored rapist, yesterday confessed the sex murder last August of Miss Anne Kuchta, student nurse at the Chicago hospital, police found a number of discrepancies in his story. They were working last night to determine his place in the mystery. A mental examination was ordered and lie detector tests will be given, police said.

"Hickerson may have raped and killed Miss Kuchta," said Lieut. Otto Erlanson, head of the sex homicide bureau. "He apparently has raped so many women that he may be confused as to the details in this case. But his story as he tells it does not fit the facts as we know them."

The ex-convict was arrested after he had been found loitering on the rear porch of the nurses' home of Michael Reese hospital. He served two prison terms for raping white women and has been arrested and imprisoned numerous times for robbery and other crimes.

BALK LIE TESTS AT INQUIRY INTO DEATH OF BRIDE

Pekin, Ill., March 7.—(AP)—Authorities investigating the mysterious death of Mrs. Betty Crabb, bride of a banker's son, imported a lie detector to help them today, but counsel for the family of Willis Crabb, in whose home the young woman was found fatally shot a week ago, declined to approve the use of the instrument because they said they believed it is not entirely reliable.

Although the elder Crabb and his son, James, husband of the dead woman, did not submit to lie detector tests, their counsel, County Judge W. J. Reardon and J. M. Powers, said the Crabbs would waive their constitutional rights and testify at the inquest, scheduled to be resumed tomorrow. The Crabb home is in nearby Delevan.

Participating in the investigation are Supt. T. P. Sullivan and four assistants from the state bureau of investigation, State's Attorney Rayburn L. Russell, and Coroner Nelson Wright. But Sullivan asserted the inquiry was not yet completed.

MISHAP EXPOSES FUGITIVE; EAGER TO MAKE AMENDS

Buchanan, Mich., March 7.—[Special.]—Expressing gratification over the confidence of his friends and neighbors and their efforts in his behalf, Kohler Holdsclaw tonight said he wanted to go back to prison, get his record straightened out and then return here.

Until last week residents of Buchanan knew Holdsclaw as Frank Bentley, a hard working, respected resident of the town for twelve years. Then through a mishap Bentley was exposed as an escaped convict from North Carolina, where he was under sentence for the killing of a rival in a gun fight over a girl.

Once Sentenced to Die.

Holdsclaw's friends here contend his sentence to death, later commuted to thirty years, for the mountain shooting was too severe; they insist he has rehabilitated himself fully. According to Holdsclaw, the fight was forced upon him by John W. Gabriel of Newton, N. C., who while married, was a rival for the affections of Holdsclaw's fiancée.

Gabriel threatened to kill him, Holdsclaw said, if he did not stay away from the girl. They met by chance, both drew revolvers and Holdsclaw was quicker.

In Prison Six Years.

Holdsclaw served six years in a North Carolina prison. He was cultivating corn on a prison farm when he left the team standing between the rows, and walked away.

While a wide hunt went on about him, Holdsclaw worked for six months in Raleigh, N. C. Then, in 1926, he came here.

Under the name of Bentley, the escaped convict first worked here for the Clark Equipment company. In 1931 he was employed in the service department of the Indiana and Michigan Electric company. With a steady job and his past apparently well covered, Holdsclaw married in 1932 after telling his fiancée about his escape.

Exposed by Mishap.

Two weeks ago he was driving to Cassopolis and he offered a ride to Mrs. Gladys L. Shaner of Niles and Roland Rupple, who wanted to go there.

They were riding along a road near Niles when Holdsclaw's car hit a semi-trailer which was stalled across the road. Mrs. Shaner died on Feb. 28. In the investigation his finger prints were taken and they revealed his past.

Confronted with his prison record, Holdsclaw signed a waiver of extradition. He was under treatment for a time in the Cassopolis hospital and now is recovering from his injuries in a jail cell, pending the arrival of North Carolina officers to return him to prison.

POLICEMAN SHOT IN PISTOL DUEL WITH BURGLAR

Surprised in Home; Thief Escapes.

Policeman William O'Brien of the Rogers Park station was critically wounded yesterday in a revolver duel with a burglar in O'Brien's apartment at 6710 Sheridan road. The burglar escaped.

O'Brien was alone in the apartment, resting for his night shift, when he was awakened by some one moving about. He called, believing his brother had come in, and when he heard no reply he investigated.

In the dining room he found a 200 pound burglar who had gathered up the family silver in a table cloth. The burglar also had taken one of the three revolvers O'Brien kept in the apartment.

Routs Foe with Gun.

Unaware that the intruder was armed O'Brien leaped upon him. The burglar drew the gun and shot him over the heart. O'Brien grabbed his service revolver and returned the fire, routing the burglar.

The wounded man's cries brought his brother, Joseph, who was visiting in the apartment below. A call to Policeman O'Brien's station brought officers, who took him to St. Francis hospital in Evanston.

Recovery Is Expected.

Although it was at first thought he was dying, he rallied and surgeons said last night they believed he would recover.

Capt. Charles Essig took a statement from him at the hospital. Essig said the burglar's description fits that of a burglar sought in the district for several weeks.

O'Brien, 31 years old, is known in police circles as an athlete. Last year he was the Rogers Park station team's star pitcher in the police baseball games.

UNION ORGANIZER GETS 1-10 YEARS FOR TERRORISM

CRIMINAL COURT.

Raymond Cole, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Cornelius J. Harrington.

Judge Joseph Sabath of Criminal court yesterday sentenced Gus Novotny, business agent of local 18 of the Upholsterers and Furniture Workers' union, to one to ten years in prison. A jury convicted Novotny Jan. 19 of malicious mischief. He was accused of hiring hoodlums to break windows and plant stench bombs in shops which refused to let him organize their employés. Novotny's lawyer said he would appeal.

BUKHARIN DENIES PLOT TO MURDER LENIN AND STALIN

iled and now in Mexico, was "the real instigator and leader" of the plots against the soviet régime.

At times there were spirited exchanges between Bukharin and Mme. Yakovleva. Once she shouted: "Bukharin lies!"

Accused of Killing Gorky.

He had asserted that Vyacheslav Menzhinsky, once head of the secret police, and Valerian V. Kuibishev, chief of the first five year plan, had been members of his group. Three of the defendants, eminent physicians, are accused of causing their deaths and that of Maxim Gorky, the writer. All of them previously had been believed to have died of natural causes.

The alleged poisoning of Gorky was brought into the testimony when a statement by a Dr. Bielostotsky, one of the Kremlin physicans who attended Gorky, was read into the record. It indicated he suspected something was wrong with the writer's death.

He said his doubts were aroused by the instructions of Dr. L. G. Levin, one of the defendants, to inject various medicines in large quantities. Ten days before Gorky's death, he said, Dr. D. D. Pletnyev, another defendant, remarked cynically: "Let's give the sick man something to ease him out."

Probe Gorky's Death.

Prosecutor Vishinsky charged that two other of the accused, Genrikh G. Yagoda and P. P. Bulanov, had tried to kill Nicolai Yetzhov, present head of the secret police. The prosecutor said the plot was discovered before enough poison was administered.

The court appointed four medical experts to present findings on the methods of treatment and circumstances surrounding the deaths of Gorky, Kuibishev, and Menzhinsky.

Bukharin steadfastly denied any personal part in espionage for foreign powers, but accepted the responsibility for any spying his subordinates may have done, whether Japanese, German, or British.

VAIL WINS COURT TEST TO PLACE NAME ON BALLOT

Springfield, Ill., March 7.—[Special.]—In an oral opinion Circuit Judge L. E. Stone this afternoon ruled that the nominating petition of Charles Vail, Chicago Republican, as a candidate for clerk of the state supreme court, should have been accepted for filing on Feb. 21 by Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes. Hughes' office rejected the petition because it was not presented for filing on the final day until after 5 p. m., the hour Hughes' office regularly closes. Vail brought a mandamus suit in Sangamon county circuit court contending the deadline was at midnight. The ruling means that Vail's name must be placed on the ballot.

Two Gangs Blame Easy Money Craving.

which they found under a porch. They knew about such devices, because they had played gum machines near their school. Later Norbert found a skeleton key in a basement he and his friend had entered. Soon they began to open all doors the skeleton key would fit. Pretty soon they became bolder, Norbert said, and if the key wouldn't fit they'd break in the door.

Held in Burglaries.

Gordon Urquhart, 14, of 2901 North Narragansett avenue: He is the close friend of Norbert Reet. Nine burglaries were recorded against Gordon. He said theft looked pretty easy to him after he and Norbert began breaking in doors.

Daniel Reet, 15, of 2816 North Mulligan avenue: Daniel said he was told of the easy rewards of burglary by his brother and young Urquhart. After that crime seemed a simple way to get money.

Robert Weber, 14, of 2722 North Mulligan avenue. A pupil at Steinmetz High. He has a workshop in his basement. Robert said he needed money to buy paint for the objects he made. His father, a guard at Dunning asylum, gave him some money, he said, but he needed more. He is held for seven robberies.

Arthur Kargus, 15, of 2642 North Mulligan avenue: Also a pupil at Steinmetz. He said the "boys just asked me to go along." He stayed with the gang because burglary looked like "easy money" to him.

Steals to Repair Bicycle.

Peter Dudesek, 15, of 2744 North Mulligan avenue: Attending Steinmetz High, and is a close friend of Robert Weber. He said he broke his bicycle and needed money to repay his parents for repairing it. He stole an electric motor, police were told, and Norbert Reet made out a fake bill of sale so he could take it home. His success with this crime led him to become a burglar.

Irwin Bryll, 14, of 2819 North Mulligan: A pupil at Steinmetz High and is ambitious to become a Deisel engineer. His father, owner of a gasoline filling station, promised to get a car to satisfy the boy's interest in automobiles. When the family failed to get a car, he planned to steal one, but six burglaries intervened.

Walter Smieszkol, 15, of 3504 North Hamlin avenue, a pupil at Schurz High school. He said he knew Daniel Reet in the neighborhood. Walter had been employed for a short time and grew accustomed to having spending money. Burglary seemed the easiest way to get money and also to pay his debts to the lunchroom across the street from the school.

The other five boys of the 22 seized, ranging from 12 to 16 years old, were held at the Juvenile home on charges of the theft of seven automobiles.

HEAR U-BOAT PASTOR HAS BEEN PLACED IN SOLITARY DETENTION

BERLIN, March 7.—(AP)—The Rev. Martin Niemoeller, taken last week to the Nazi Sachsenhausen concentration camp near Oranienburg, today was reported to have been placed in solitary confinement. Further details of the treatment of the militant Protestant opponent of the Nazi church program were not available.

Some of Niemoeller's associates indignantly denied the reason given by the GSP [secret police] for holding the former submarine commander. The police had maintained that his release might lead to demonstrations against him.

The pastor's associates said measures had been taken to prevent such demonstrations and that friends had bought him a railway ticket to a remote part of Prussia immediately after the court verdict last week which technically freed the pastor.

They added that Niemoeller would have slipped away quietly to recover from his long detention if he had not been placed under "protective" arrest.

GIRL, 5 YOUTHS SEIZED IN CHILD EXTORTION PLOT

Five youths and a girl were arrested by South Chicago police last night in connection with an alleged plot to extort $200 from Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Cross, 38 years old, 7939 Escanaba avenue. A little boy known as Billy Cross, 4 years old, was the lure.

The prisoners, who will be held for the state's attorney, are John Roche, 17 years old, and his sister, Florence, 20, both of 11132 Edbrooke avenue; Arthur Kerr, 20, of 30 East 113th street; Alfred Marwick, 17, of 11256 Eggleston avenue; Thomas Cosgrove, 18, of 11349 Indiana avenue, and John Kenny, 19, of 11251 Vernon avenue.

Four years ago Mrs. Cross procured the boy now known as Billy Cross through the Catholic Charities. She was allowed $20 a month maintenance. About six weeks ago the child was taken from her and placed in the home of Mrs. William Roche, 6609 Ingleside avenue, aunt of John and Florence Roche. Mrs. Cross has been trying in vain to get the boy back.

Recently a woman posing as a case worker telephoned Mrs. Cross and told her she could have Billy back on payment of $200. She called again last night. Mrs. Cross agreed to pay the money. At the appointed time Marwick and Cosgrove called at the Cross home. Lieut. Thomas Flannigan and Detectives Martin Keenan and Thomas Flynn arrested them, and Roche, Miss Roche, who is said to have posed as the case worker, and Kerr.

Police said that Roche and Kerr confessed hatching the plot. Marwick and Cosgrove said they had no knowledge of the plot, but simply called on Mrs. Cross for a package. Kenny said he was merely riding with the others.

U. S. WORSE OFF WITH ROOSEVELT, LYONS CHARGES

G. O. P. Senate Candidate Opens Campaign.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Richard J. Lyons.

Five years of Roosevelt management has left the country in worse shape than it was in 1933, Richard J. Lyons, Republican slate choice for United States senator, declared yesterday. He made his charge before a meeting at Woodstock as he and five running mates on the indorsed state ticket opened their campaign for nomination in the April 12 primaries.

Lyons charged the business recession to antics in Washington and said the brain trust has contributed more unemployment and greater disintegration of American life.

Debt Raised to 38 Billions.

After five years, he said, the people are tired of golden promises and are demanding results from the national administration. He proposes, he said, to be constructive, but first to present as a principal duty of the Republican party an audit of Democratic books. Here are extracts from his audit:

"In the five years since 1933 the present administration has spread a host of experimental legislation on the statute books, spent 17 billion dollars outright, incurred some 5 billions of contingent liabilities such as HOLC bonds, and increased the national debt to 38 billions. But this country is farther from recovery today than it was five years ago.

"Even the President admits conditions are grave and unemployment increasing. In his message to congress Feb. 10, asking for an additional 250 millions for relief and work relief, he states that 3 million men lost their jobs in November, December, and January, and that by reason thereof it was necessary to have an additional appropriation for funds.

"After wasting billions and billions of dollars we find that today we are in a worse position than we were in 1933, when the Roosevelt administration took over the destinies of the United States. This is the same administration that advertised and said over the radio that there would be work for everybody and security for all."

Wants Straitjacket Removed.

Lyons challenged those who insist many of the unemployed will remain so permanently.

"Such statements," he declared, "are not only un-American but are unsound and untrue. It cannot be that the American people will permit conditions to exist that would force any significant portion of the population into a class that would be permanently unemployed. Admittedly, there are world-wide causes for unemployment. But we feel that these forces have been accentuated by the policies, the utterances, and the attitudes of the present administration."

Admitting a necessity for what he called a reasonable regulation of business, the young candidate for senator called in the next breath for a removal of the straitjacket from enterprise, the abolition of uncertainties, and the improvement of the federal tax structure.

"The undistributed profits tax and the capital gains tax must be repealed for the reason that they are highly instrumental in paralyzing business and destroying jobs," Lyons asserted.

Promising to expand his views on how to bring the country out of the recession, Lyons turned to the wars and threats of wars on other continents and declared that America must not be drawn into foreign conflicts.

"The Republican party," he said, "must take its place definitly as the anti-war party of the United States. This does not mean that we are opposed to adequate defense. But it does mean that we are most vigorously opposed to collecting and spending American tax dollars for the defense of other nations with whom the present administration may have entered into secret treaties.

Plenty of Work Without War.

"There is sufficient work before us in this country in our war on the depression that must be done without mixing into foreign wars."

With Lyons were Senator Simon Lantz, Congerville, and Frederick A. Virkus, La Grange, candidates for congressmen-at-large; William R. McCauley, Olney, candidate for state treasurer, and George E. Lambur Jr., Chicago, candidate for clerk of the Supreme court.

Today the Republican slate candidates will speak at La Salle in the morning and Joliet in the afternoon. Tomorrow they will appear at the state meeting of the John Ericsson Republican league at Elgin.

HORNER FORCES SEEK TO REBUILD MACHINE OF '36

Martin J. O'Brien Named Committee Chief.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Following a long conference on Sunday with Gov. Horner, leaders of the Horner-Courtney forces began yesterday to concentrate on reassembling their 1936 organization for the Democratic primary struggle.

That organization two years ago brought out a vote in Cook county of 370,013 for Horner in his fight against the Nash-Kelly forces, which produced 526,116 for Dr. Herman Bundesen, their candidate for the governorship nomination. The total vote this year is not expected to be so large since this is not a presidential-governorship year, but the Horner followers believe they can maintain their ratio to the Kelly-Nash vote if the old Horner organization is revived.

O'Brien to Run Campaign.

As a step in this direction they announced from the Hotel Sherman headquarters that Martin J. O'Brien, committeeman for the 29th ward and an experienced county campaign manager, has been appointed chairman of the committee on organization and finance.

O'Brien was appointed by Gov. Horner three years ago as public administrator for Cook county, a fee office that is considered the plumpest plum at the disposal of the state administration. Morover, O'Brien and his partner in the insurance business, A. J. Horan, chief bailiff of the Municipal court, receive the lion's share of the state's surety bond business.

Whalen Support in Doubt.

O'Brien was one of two ward committeemen who openly supported Gov. Horner in the 1936 primary fight. The other was James M. Whalen, sanitary district trustee, who represents the 6th ward on the county committee. The Horner people have hinted that Whalen may be seen in their lineup again this year.

On the other hand, a brother of the committeeman's, Roger Whalen, recently resigned a comfortable post as chief inspector for the state athletic commission, and it was said he did so because Brother Jim and he intended to support the regular ticket.

One other committeeman, City Clerk P. J. Brady of the 18th ward, has lined up with the Horner forces, openly this time, as his political sponsor, State's Attorney Courtney, has done. It has been understood ever since 1936 that Brady secretly aided Gov. Horner in that primary.

Welcome Sullivan's Daughter.

The Hotel Sherman headquarters yesterday welcomed as the head of its women's organization Mrs. Frances Sullivan Cummings, a daughter of the late Roger C. Sullivan, the first Chicagoan to be known as a Democratic boss of the city.

The headquarters directed attention jubilantly to the withdrawal during the day of Samuel H. Block as a candidate for county judge. This change left the race for that office a contest between the incumbent, Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, and the county committee candidate, Circuit Judge John Prystalski. Block announced that he withdrew to aid Judge Jarecki.

A second withdrawal was that of Thomas E. Ryan, 2625 North Shore avenue, as a candidate for clerk of the Probate court in the Democratic primary.

Igoe Campaigns Downstate for Support in Senate Race

Jacksonville, Ill., March 7.—[Special.]—History books were dusted off by the Igoe-Campbell-Martin slate of Democratic candidates tonight to answer the campaign argument of the Horner slate that the unwritten law of politics calls for a downstater for senator this time. Instances when both Illinois senators serving in Washington came either from Chicago or from downstate were cited by Michael L. Igoe, United States district attorney, candidate for the senate in the April 12 primaries.

The Igoe caravan held courthouse meetings and handshaking matinées at Petersburg and Virginia this afternoon and tonight all six candidates spoke here and at Carrollton.

Quotes Lincoln in Argument.

On the road from Springfield, Igoe motored through New Salem, historic homesite of Abraham Lincoln. Of the Chicago versus downstate issue he took occasion to toss a Lincoln quotation against sectionalism at the Horner slate—"A house divided against itself must fall."

"Only by dividing our household in a bitter primary campaign," said Igoe, "can Republicanism hope to have a rebirth in November.

"Why all this talk, sponsored by my opponent, that having two senators from Chicago at the same time would shatter a ninety year old precedent and a rule that Cook county and downstate shall have one senator each.

"It's ridiculous, Illinois political history repudiates them. Eighty years ago in the days of the Lincoln debates two men who lived in Chicago served in the senate at the same time. Stephen A. Douglas and Lyman Trumbull were the men. Downstate didn't complain or threaten to secede. And Illinois was well represented.

Cites Downstate Doubles.

"But how about the downstate side of the picture? The most interesting of all situations is now disclosed: two men from Springfield, John M. Palmer and Shelby M. Cullom were elected and served in the United States senate at the same time. These two men lived in the same voting precinct . . . two blocks apart from each other. But Chicago and Cook county didn't complain and nobody charged that Chicago was being deprived of due representation. And the state still survives.

"On two other occasions since the Civil war two senators living outside Cook county and two senators residing in Chicago served.

"The most recent of these was within the last decade when Deneen, senior senator, and Otis Glenn, transplanted from Murphysboro, both lived and practiced law in Chicago and served together in Washington. But before that Shelby Cullom of Springfield and Albert J. Hopkins of Aurora were Illinois' United States senators. The issue of sectionalism is never raised by a big man nor heeded by any but a little mind."

Other Candidates Busy.

On his first day's swing through counties adjacent to Springfield, Igoe was accompanied by John C. Martin, candidate for congressman at large, and John Wieland, state superintendent of schools.

A second caravan was composed of Bruce A. Campbell, candidate for state treasurer; Walter J. Orlikoski, for Supreme court clerk, and Lewis M. Long, congressman at large. Orlikoski, who is a Chicago alderman, has been making a hit with downstate audiences. At night the speakers shuttled back and forth for the Carrollton and Jacksonville meetings, much like covering ward meetings in Chicago.

Mr. Campbell, Democratic state chairman, on the downstate issue, said he did not believe that downstate Democrats considered Igoe as a Chicago man but as an honest, patriotic citizen of Illinois.

JAPANESE CLAIM CONTROL OF ALL SHANSI PROVINCE

Advance to Yellow River at Six Points.

SHANGHAI, March 8 [Tuesday.]—(AP)—Japan's North China armies fought their way into position today for assaults both against the strongholds of Chinese communist armies and against the vital Lunghai railway.

The Japanese asserted they had gained control of virtually all of Shansi province, one of the richest in China. The Rising Sun flag floated from heights commanding three principal passes along the western border and from three points on the north bank of the Yellow river, Shansi's southern border.

From the northermost of the passes—Hoku, where the great wall casts its shadow over barren foothills of northwest Shansi—Japanese were in position for a westward drive across the Yellow river into the heart of Chinese Red territory.

Menace Railway Point.

Within 24 hours Japanese conquered Hotsin, the second pass at the confluence of the Fen and Yellow rivers, and Chaotsun, just across the Yellow from Tungkwan, Lunghai railway point.

Chaotsun is at the "big bend" of the Yellow, where the stream swings east along the Lunghai, backbone of the area which separates Japanese conquered portions of North China and the Yangtze river valley.

East of Chaotsun, the Japanese have reached the north bank of the Yellow at Pinglu, which is north of Shenchow in Honan province; at Menghsien, northeast of Loyang, and at Fengkiu, north of Kaifeng. The Chinese claim to be holding a salient north of the river above Chengchow.

Japanese sent word that beaten, broken Chinese armies were fleeing in disorder across the Yellow river north of Hotsin and at Tungkwan.

Chinese Resist in Mountains.

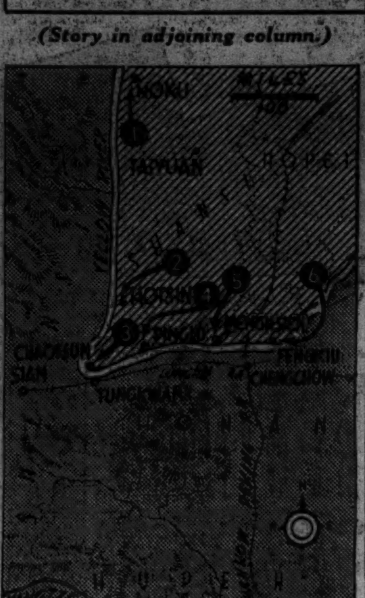
The northern advances, made through a snowstorm, gave the Japanese a chance to try to make good their often repeated declaration that the real object of the present hostilities was to wipe out communist influences in North China.

With Chinese resistance in Shansi confined to isolated bands in mountain gorges, Japanese northern columns had only to cross the Yellow river to reach northern Shansi communist strongholds.

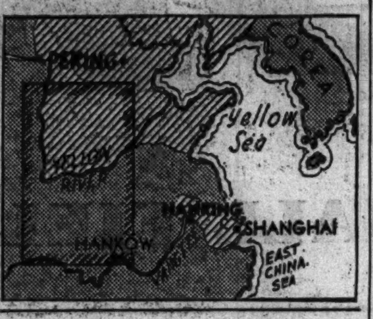
The north Shensi area has been the stamping ground of Gen. Chu Teh's Chinese communist armies. Yenan, in the north central portion of the area, is the capital.

Japs Drive to River

(Story in adjoining column.)



Japanese today announced the success of drives which placed their armies on the banks of the Yellow river at six points. Columns at (1) Hoku, (2) Hotsin, and (3) Chaotsun were poised for a new drive against Shensi province. Columns at (4) Pinglu, (5) Menghsien, and (6) Fengkiu have the Lunghai railway as their objective. Diagonal line shading represents Japanese controled territory. The location of area mapped above is designated by the rectangle in the map below.



FINLAND ARMS TO KEEP OUT OF WAR, PREMIER STATES

Molds Policy to Protect Baltic Nations.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, March 7.—Although international morality has collapsed and idealism has encountered a depression, the situation in Europe is not hopeless, according to Aino Kaarlo Cajander, Finnish premier, who addressed a meeting of the Progressive party, of which he is leader, at Abo today.

He declared Finland would continue to resist attempts being made to attract her into one of the opposing groups now crystalizing in Europe. He expressed the hope that the mutual interests of the Scandinavian countries would enable them to remain neutral during the difficulties which he foresees approaching.

Will Increase Armament.

The premier declared Finland considered the continued independence of Estonia as a vital part of her foreign policy, adding that he believed the Scandinavian countries were beginning to realize that their future safety depends upon the freedom of the Estonian, Latvian, and Lithuanian republics.

Smaller countries of northern Europe, he said, could not depend upon the great powers to maintain the international status quo, and therefore Finland had decided to increase greatly her armament in order to defend her neutral position.

Ridiculing the idea that Finland's plans may embody a threat to the soviet government of Russia, Cajander declared that the dictatorship in Russia could not be considered as a serious defender of the idea of democracy and would not attract the really democratic nations of Scandinavia into action against the Berlin-Rome axis.

Small Nations Need Defense.

"The international situation is changing rapidly and it is possible the present uncertainty will continue for some time," he said, "but because the Communist-Fascist ideologies are opposed to each other it is clear that the rights of smaller nations will be respected only so far as we are able to defend them."

The premier declared frankly that "we cannot bind ourselves to either group of great powers because we do not know what the world lineup will be when the war begins."

He reminded his party members that the present Finnish government is really a workers' and peasants' government since Socialists and agrarians are the most important parties in parliament, but it is a workers' and peasants' government operating along democratic lines. Finland's four years of prosperity is persisting, he said, despite the threatening political situation in Europe.

Although the league of nations' influence is waning, Cajander said Finland still valued the league as a place where the voice of smaller nations could be heard.

EXPECTS RESEARCH ON HORMONES MAY YIELD CANCER CLEW

Research being done on hormones may give a clew to the cause of cancer and its possible prevention, Dr. Anton J. Carlson of the department of physiology, University of Chicago, said yesterday. He addressed a luncheon meeting of the advisory board of the Illinois division of the women's field army of the American Society for the Control of Cancer in the Palmer house.

Animal experimentation has shown that in some cases an excessive amount of some of the hormones may produce cancer, according to Dr. Carlson. The cancer problem facing doctors and investigators involves everything that touches on the machinery of life, he said. It is a problem of unusual growth, and little is known yet about the control of growth, one of the fundamentals of life, Dr. Carlson said.

Cancer education cannot be complete until women work side by side with the medical profession, Dr. Clarence Cook Little of New York, managing director of the society, told the board. Mrs. George Hanly Nippert, commander of the Illinois division, also spoke.

Japan's Peers Pass Budget; War Costs in Separate Bill

TOKIO, March 7.—(AP)—The Japanese house of peers today unanimously passed the 1938 ordinary budget amounting to 2,876,000,000 yen [$833,040,000]. The upper house action gave final approval to the budget, making it effective. Military expenses estimates for 1938 were placed in a separate category. This special account amounts to $1,392,000,000. It has not been submitted to the peers.

OPEN VENEREAL DISEASE WARDS FOR RELIEFERS

Leo M. Lyons, Chicago relief commissioner, announced yesterday that the Parkway Relief Convalescent lodge at 51st street and South parkway has been expanded to include wards for relief clients with infectious syphilis and gonorrhea. The isolation facilities, said Mr. Lyons, were established in coöperation with the board of health for 30 men and 15 women.

The WPA will continue to operate the lodge as a home for convalescent CRA patients in general. The venereal disease cases will be cared for in a hitherto unused building, and syphilis patients will be kept only until the contagious stage has passed.

Of 700 youths who have attended 14 social hygiene lectures sponsored by the National Youth administration of Illinois in the last three weeks, 170 have volunteered for free and secret syphilis tests, William J. Campbell, NYA state director, said. The fifteenth and last meeting will be held at 8 p. m. Thursday in Hull house, 800 South Halsted street.

Chinese General Slain; Had Negotiated with Japanese

SHANGHAI, March 7.—(AP)—Gen. Chow Feng-chi, former commander of the Chinese 20th Route army, was shot to death today by two unidentified men as he was leaving his home in the French concession. Police said Chow was understood to have been negotiating with the Japanese for a high post in a Japanese sponsored government.

600 WENT DOWN WITH REBEL SHIP, BRITISH TARS SAY

Refused to Leave Cruiser Torpedoed by Loyalists.

GIBRALTAR, March 7.—(AP)—British naval sources tonight said approximately 600 Spanish rebel seamen drowned when the 10,000 ton cruiser Baleares was torpedoed and sunk by government warships early Sunday.

British warships in the vicinity, seventy-five miles east of Cape Palos, Spain, in the western Mediterranean, saved 200 others from the doomed insurgent cruiser. The estimate of casualties was made by crew members of the British destroyer Kempenfelt and Boreas, which arrived here today.

[After the naval battle Sunday the British admiralty had estimated 400 were saved, a figure based on early reports from British vessels near the scene. British dispatches to London tonight said those saved jumped from the Baleares with lifebelts. The majority of the crew, however, was said to have refused to abandon the ship which remained afloat two hours and a half after being struck.]

Taken to Gibraltar.

The British destroyer Boreas brought to Gibraltar the body of the British seaman killed during rescue work around the Baleares. Three wounded British seamen were placed in the military hospital.

Besides the Boreas, two other British warships were periled in yesterday's battle area. The destroyers Blanche and Brilliant, which, like the Boreas and Kempenfelt, were participating in the anti-piracy patrol, were attacked, but not hit, by five bombing planes. It was believed the planes were loyalist craft.

Cartagena Bombed.

MADRID, March 7.—(AP)—Spanish rebel war planes struck fiercely at the port of Cartagena today in retaliation for a government naval victory which was hailed here as the blow which broke the rebel blockade of the eastern Spanish coast.

Five times Gen. Francisco Franco's planes roared over Cartagena, raining bombs on the port and government naval base. A communique stated the naval base was undamaged, but made no mention of casualties.

Some observers regarded as premature the sweeping declaration that the rebel blockade was broken as a result of the torpedoing and sinking of the 10,000 ton rebel cruiser Baleares in Sunday's naval battle.

Blow to Rebel Fleet.

It was recognized that the loss of the Baleares, one of the rebels' three principal cruisers, constituted a heavy blow. With the Baleares destroyed, the fleets of the opposing sides were much nearer parity.

The government now has two cruisers, about twelve effective destroyers, six torpedo boats, four or five submarines, and a number of smaller craft.

The rebels are left with three cruisers, one destroyer, five torpedo boats, four submarines, four mine layers, two gunboats, and smaller craft, including armed merchantmen and trawlers. [In addition the rebels are said to have four destroyers of Italian origin.]

Assails Risking of Lives.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 7.—The loss of a British bluejacket's life when the destroyer Boreas was bombed while it and the Kempenfelt were transferring survivors from the torpedoed Spanish rebel cruiser Baleares to an undamaged rebel warship aroused wide criticism of the admiralty today.

Geoffrey Shakespeare, financial secretary of the admiralty, ducked a question in the house of commons when asked whether it was necessary to risk British lives in returning seamen to belligerent warships.

Shakespeare announced merely that the navy was "carrying out rescue acts in accordance with the finest traditions."

NORTH CENTRAL HEAD LAUDS HIGH SCHOOL SYSTEM

Prof. A. W. Clevenger, secretary of the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, commended the board of education for its operation of Chicago's high schools.

"The Chicago public high schools were never in better condition in the many years that I have known them than they are at present," he said in a lecture in offices of the board before principals and assistant principals of 37 high schools.

"Charges constantly aired by various groups that teacher morale is at a low ebb are definitly not true. Not in a single school visited by the association has morale and esprit de corps rated less than good or excellent."

MRS. HELEN LEVIN.

NATHAN LEVIN.

Mrs. Helen Benger Levin, 30 years old, divorced wife of Nathan Levin, 1139 Lincoln avenue, Highland Park, representative of the Rosenwald family and former secretary to the executor of the Julius Rosenwald estate, was found overcome from gas in the kitchen of her apartment at 5805 Dorchester avenue early yesterday. She was revived by a fire department inhalator squad.

A note on the kitchen table read: "Notify Nate in New York, he may want to know." Miss Dolores Warden, who lives with her, was not affected by the fumes. Mrs. Levin was found lying on a mattress on the kitchen floor. She had returned from New York City a few hours before she was found. Her former husband, whom she divorced after a marriage of 10 months on the ground of cruelty May 10, 1937, is in New York on business.

MEASLES CASES TOTAL 18,901; SET RECORD FOR WEEK

A total of 3,485 cases of measles reported last week and 404 more in the 24 hours that ended at 8 a. m. yesterday raised the number since the first of the year to 18,901, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, said yesterday. Last week's total set a new record for Chicago and brought the cases for March to 2,791.

Outbreaks of measles usually occur every second year, Dr. Bundesen said, but 1936 and 1937 had comparatively few cases, their combined total having been 6,400. The record for an entire year is 24,199 cases in 1935, only 5,298 more than have been reported in the first 65 days of 1938.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

DISCERNING HONESTY

By CALEB

THE world is not calculated, by easy dealing, to lull to sleep the people who swarm its surface. Everything happens to man. And here of course (no quip intended) man embraces woman.

One time it's banditry, another it's fire, a falling cornice, a cyclone, influenza, fallen arches, or an overdose of taxes. And this simply opens the door on cataloging the things which make men wary, untrusting, suspicious, skeptical, and nervous.

What is called "honor among thieves" is probably simply sensible self-defense.

On the other hand, there are many places where truth stalks abroad in the world. There are businesses and organizations and individuals whose motives, no matter how human, are honest and sincere.

We try to keep ours such a business. Not from any false sense of prudishness are our policies ones of fairness, forthrightness, and honesty; but simply because we believe in these characteristics which took root in our business many years ago and have grown lightwise ever since. We believe it is enlightened to be honest. We believe it is good business for corporations to endeavor to act in accord with the accepted ethics of the individual.

These reflections are occasioned by the fact that a friend of our store recently heard an argument on the street between two men, one of whom contended that our forty-hour week announcement of last year affected only a few employes and that our claim to a $15 a week minimum wage was untrue.

The fact is, there are no full-time employes in our business who receive less than $15 per week. Only a comparatively few receive as little as $15. And the forty-hour week is an accomplished fact for all but a few workers—like engineers, for instance, whose work, due to twenty-four hour requirements, is almost universally in longer than forty-hour weeks.

Paraphrasing Samuel Johnson, we can explain somewhat our viewpoint, which we hope the street arguer will light upon. "We can give you honest facts and honest treatment, but we cannot give you the discrimination to enable you to discern that honesty."

SECRET BRITISH WAR PACT TALK STIRS CAPITAL

Report Hull in Dark on Roosevelt's Deal.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—A circumstantial story that President Roosevelt entered into an informal war alliance with Great Britain will figure prominently in the forthcoming battle in congress over the administration's billion dollar navy increase bill.

Lord Robert Cecil and Walter Runciman in separate visits to the White House and Sir Ronald Lindsay, the British ambassador, are reputed to have negotiated the understanding with the President on behalf of Great Britain.

This understanding was, it is alleged, that Great Britain and the United States would coöperate in meeting any threat to the peace of either, that they would take a united stand against the spread of fascism and communism, that they would build navies complementary to each other and that Britain would defend the common interest in the Atlantic ocean while America would stand guard in the Pacific.

Hull Uninformed, Says Johnson.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull has denied that any war alliance or understanding with Great Britain exists or ever was entered into. Senator Hiram Johnson [R., Cal.] retorted that Mr. Hull apparently did not know what was going on, the intimation being that the President had entered into an agreement behind the secretary's back.

The President to date has not denied that an Anglo-American understanding was arranged. At a press conference he would not answer Senator Johnson's query whether such an understanding existed.

Further confirmation of the existence of an Anglo-American understanding has been seen in the action of the President in proclaiming American sovereignty over two tiny islands in the South Pacific—Canton and Enderbury. This step taken by the President last Saturday was no surprise to the British government, which had been sounded out and had interposed no objection, although Britain always has claimed sovereignty of the islands.

Proposed Joint Control.

The question immediately raised was whether the waiver of British claims to the islands was a part of the alleged agreement whereby America was to guard the Pacific. It was recalled that last summer the British were promoting a suggestion of joint Anglo-American control of key groups of Pacific islands.

To counteract any such notions White House Secretary Stephen Early, at the instance of the President, called in the reporters today and officially denied that the proclamation of sovereignty over the islands was motivated by potential military uses.

"The sole reason for the action is commercial aviation," he repeated. "It has nothing to do with war or war plans."

The interior department announced today that the coast guard cutter Taney has left Honolulu to take possession and colonize Canton and Enderbury for the United States.

Send Nine Hawaiians.

Ernest Gruening, director of the division of territories and island possessions, said the Taney carried nine Hawiians, all American citizens who would take up residence on the islands, late this week.

The cutter also carried plants and building materials for establishment of homes and improvement of the tiny islands, 1,800 miles southwest of Hawaii.

Opposition in both the house and the senate to the billion dollar navy construction bill will revolve around the allegation of a secret Anglo-American understanding because of the conviction of many senators and representatives that so large a navy is not needed purely for the defense of the United States.

The suspicion is growing that the purpose of the larger navy is its use in support of the British in the next world war and that the increase is being sought at the instance of the British.

Because of the character of the President's utterances on international matters Senator William E. Borah [R., Idaho] and others who will lead the opposition in the senate contend that to provide Mr. Roosevelt with a larger navy would increase the danger of this country being drawn into war.

Deny Big Navy for Defense.

Four members of the house naval affairs committee tonight issued a minority report in opposition to the naval expansion bill, charging that the measure was not for the purpose of national defense, but sponsored by President Roosevelt to give him power to implement his foreign policies.

"The President's quarantine or collective security policy is known to the country and has been repudiated by popular protests," the report said. "Since he announced it in his Chicago speech and in his armament message of Jan. 28, it also has been repudiated for Europe by the government of Great Britain which was supposed to coöperate in the quarantine business."

Signers of the report were Representatives Ralph E. Church [R., Ill.], W. Sterling Cole [R., N. Y.], Ralph O. Brewster [R. Me.], and J. B. Shannon [D., Mo.].

Gives Blanket Authority.

"If this bill is passed the President will have a blanket authorization, after congress adjourns, to apply the universal quarantine policy and Asiatic interventionist policy," the report continued. "The chain of events conclusively establishes the fact that the naval message and the naval bill for carrying it into effect actually represent diplomatic maneuvers conducted by the President in relation to foreign policies which he has resolved to pursue.

"Disclaimers on the part of the President, the state department, the sponsors of the naval bill cannot change, obscure, or blot out the chain of established facts which indicate the foreign policies and diplomatic maneuvers behind the message and the bill.

"There is nothing to indicate that the Sir Galahads of our state department would not be quite ready to enlist in another crusade for collective security.

May Change Policy.

"The British may soon determine that their interests will be best served in Asia by a frank recognition of the realities and a proper adjustment with those immediately concerned with due regard to their very large stake in China and the east along the same lines that their policy is now pursuing in Europe.

"Meanwhile America may continue as the stalking horse for British diplomacy with the danger always present of some incident that will involve us in an Asiatic war. Such a war primarily will serve British interests whether we so intend it or not."

HENRY CHANNON III. OF CHICAGO NAMED AID TO BRITISH DIPLOMAT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 7.—Henry [Chips] Channon III., son of Henry Channon, Chicago manufacturer, and Mrs. Westover Channon of 1434 Astor street, Chicago, has become the parliamentary private secretary to R. A. Butler, the new undersecretary of state for foreign affairs it was announced tonight.

Henry Channon III.

Channon, who is a Conservative member of parliament for the Southend-on-Sea district, became a naturalized British subject and in 1933 married Lady Honor Guinness, who is a niece of the new foreign secretary, Lord Halifax. Channon is a friend of Joachim von Ribbentrop, the new German foreign minister, who is due here this week for talks with British ministers.

Channon was born in Chicago on March 7, 1899, but has lived in England since he went to Oxford university in 1919. His wife is the eldest daughter of the earl and countess of Iveagh. The Channons have one son, Guinness, who is now nearly 2 years old. The Channons are friends of the duke and duchess of Windsor.

Prof. Arnold Nominated Assistant Attorney General

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—President Roosevelt nominated Prof. Thurman W. Arnold of Yale university law school today to be assistant attorney general in charge of anti-trust cases. Arnold, recommended by Attorney General Cummings, was named to the post formerly held by Robert H. Jackson, confirmed last week as the new solicitor general. Arnold is a native of Wyoming and is 46 years old. He once was mayor of Laramie.

British O. K. Arms Program; Vote Confidence in Premier

LONDON, March 7.—(AP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain tonight won a decisive vote of confidence in the house of commons for his "almost terrifying" armament building program to back pending talks with dictators.

By a vote of 347 to 133 commons approved Chamberlain's exposition of the rearmament program and his policy of negotiating directly with Premier Mussolini and Reichsfuehrer Hitler. In addition to voting confidence in the government, commons rejected a labor amendment to the arms bill, 351 to 134.

The prime minister broke his usual icy reserve to deny opposition charges he wanted "peace at any price" or was biased toward Fascism.

Gets Great Ovation.

Parliament gave him one of the greatest ovations of his career at the end of his speech in which he made it clear he was risking his political future on conferences with the dictators in an attempt to halt Europe's drift toward "the cataract" of war.

A surprising number of other members expressed the fear war was inevitable unless the British talks with Italy and Germany succeed.

A gloomy picture of Britain's airforce in relation to Germany's was drawn by Winston Churchill, wartime cabinet member, who said the reich was spending more than double Britain's huge sums. He warned against turning Britain's back on her ally, France, or on the league of nations.

Speaks of Navy Deal with U. S.

Churchill told of "excellent arrangements" which have grown up with the United States.

He said that because of these arrangements, and the fact that the United States navy was not "being allowed to fall behind" British expansion, "we are entitled to measure our naval power against the power" of European countries.

"We therefore are in a far stronger position at sea relative to any navy in Europe today or to any likely combination of navies in Europe than we were with the larger fleets we had in 1914."

Churchill did not explain what he meant by "arrangements" with the United States.

Assail Foreign Policy.

Opposition members assailed Chamberlain's foreign policy which they termed a flouting of ideals of the league in favor of a return to the old-time "balance of power" politics which prevailed before the world war.

Sir Thomas Inskip, defense coördination minister, replied to charges of "lagging" air rearmament with an admission all royal air force squadrons are not fully equipped. He said it was because of the difficulty England encountered in buying equipment.

Amid the cheers of his supporters, Chamberlain opened the defense debate with the declaration that "I, myself, would fight for the preservation of democracy."

Chamberlain's Four Points.

He said the "almost terrifying power that Britain is building up has had a sobering effect on the opinion of the world," and told commons that:

1. If the peace talks with Germany and Italy succeeded, disarmament talks would follow, but if they failed, Britain would step up her already staggering rearmament program.

2. Estimates on the five year rearmament program were too small and "substantial" increases in appropriations should be expected.

3. The league, at some future date, may become valuable, but "today it is mutilated, halt, lame, and will require prolonged assistance."

4. Rearmament and defense preparations were proceeding satisfactorily.

The original estimate of the five year rearmament program was 7 billion 500 million dollars and a government statement estimated 1938-'39 rearmament costs at $1,758,750,000.

AUSTRIA'S WAR CHIEF TO ATTEND BERLIN CEREMONY

BERLIN, March 7.—While Germany today was celebrating the second anniversary of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's occupation of the Rhineland, Nazis learned that Gen. Wilhelm Zehner, Austria's minister of war, is coming to Berlin. He will participate with Field Marshal Herman Wilhelm Goering and other Nazi leaders in ceremonies marking the "Memorial Day for Heroes" next Sunday to demonstrate the close ties of the Austrian and German armies.

The Germans feel that Gen. Zehner's visit this year means more than in previous years since they are convinced coöperation among the two armies is developing rapidly. The calling of two annual classes to the colors in Austria last week is pointed out as the first step in this coöperation.

The Nazis also are hopeful that their wartime ally, Hungary, is moving closer to them by preparing new laws on military conscription, thus "breaking the fetters of the treaty of Trianon, the same as Germany has broken those of Versailles."

BRITAIN 'REMINDS' PRESS TO BE VERY NICE TO HITLER

Papers Are Warned to Use Bit of Restraint.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 7.—An indication that the government of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain expects the British press to be nice to Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler during future negotiations for appeasement of relations between England and Germany was given in parliament this afternoon.

It was denied, however, that the prime minister will put a muzzle on the press in response to demands made by Hitler in a recent speech and reiterated last week to Sir Nevile Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin.

Responding to a question by Commander R. Fletcher in the house of commons, Sir Frederick Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, gave assurance that the British government "would under no circumstances interfere at the behest of a foreign government with the right of the press to comment with complete freedom upon matters which concern this country."

A Reminder to the Press.

But Butler repeated a warning Chamberlain made last week.

"I will accompany this assurance, however, with a reminder of the responsibility which the press has in dealing with international affairs," the undersecretary said.

Some sections of the press, which have been protesting violently against the prospect of being gagged, consider this statement an open hint from the government that the press had better take orthodox views on international affairs. The reaction against suggestions from Germany that the press restrictions should be part of a diplomatic bargain has been violent.

Opposition members of parliament, who fear the Chamberlain government is not unfavorable to muzzling criticism of the Hitler régime, recall the prime minister's reply to Miss Eleanor Rathbone, a member of the house of commons, a week ago. Miss Rathbone asked for assurance that any deal with Germany would not include a restriction of the press.

Urges "Self-Censorship."

Chamberlain replied: "I do not think any greater service could be rendered the cause of peace than by exercising restraint and toleration by the press of all countries in dealing with foreign affairs." This is taken as an invitation to what is known among newspapers as "self-censorship."

Further evidence that Chamberlain, wishes to choke off frank discussion of German affairs, is given, according to his opponents, in instruction to the British Broadcasting company to cancel a discussion of "Germany's claim for colonies." The discussion was scheduled for Friday night.

Under a heading "Censorship" the periodical The Week said the British press has failed to print any American or dominion reaction to the resignation of Anthony Eden as foreign secretary and that the British were compelled to learn about what the outside world was saying from the radio.

BERLIN OFFICIAL SAYS PRESS PACTS AID PEACE CAUSE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 7.—"There is no freedom of the press and there never has been anywhere in the world," Otto Dietrich, German press chief, said today in an address to foreign diplomats and newspaper correspondents. He warned world powers that they can help the cause of peace only if they work out international press agreements similar to that existing between Germany and Italy.

He exonerated foreign correspondents in Berlin from any wholesale accusation of unfairness. He told them he and his colleagues fully understood that foreigners cannot be expected to "report like Nazis."

The Germans believe press agreements should be drawn up in the shape of "non-aggression pacts."

Cairo Fears Invasion by Italian Troops.

BY ALEX SMALL.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 7.—Egypt intends to take a part behind the scenes in the "peace" negotiations between Great Britain and Italy, it was disclosed in Paris tonight by a source close to the French foreign office. The conversations will open in Rome Friday. Egypt is expected to urge Britain to make concessions to Italy in the eastern Mediterranean.

The reason for Egypt's attitude, it was explained, is not sympathy with Italy's aspirations, but a state of extreme nervousness which has prevailed in Cairo government circles since Anthony Eden's resignation as British foreign secretary brought Britain's differences with Italy to a head.

The Egyptians have been worried since the Ethiopian war over the dangerous position of their country. Investigations recently conducted by the Egyptian army general staf and a British mission in Egypt seem to reveal a peril greater than previously imagined.

Fear Attack by Italians.

The first factor in the situation is the Egyptian belief that there are 100,000 Italian troops in Libya, a figure which is probably exaggerated.

The Egyptians know that their own army, due largely to political complications, has not made sufficient progress since independence was granted to make it an effective defense force against an Italian raid over the western desert. It totals only 10,000 men and is poorly equipped, the British having been slow in moving supplies to Egypt.

There are also 18,000 British troops in Egypt, but the Egyptians are convinced that in an emergency they will be no more than enough to guard Alexandria and the Suez canal, leaving the Nile valley to fate.

More disturbing is the British discovery of how solidly the Italians are now installed around Lake Tsana, at the source of the Blue Nile, and along the Sudan border. The British fear the Italian force, uniting with an army invading Sudan from Libya, would be capable of cutting Britain's north and south African defense lifeline.

Italians Fortify Island.

The British and Egyptians also are worried over Italian activities at the south end of the Red Sea. The Italians have fortified Port Assab in Eritrea. In 1935 they acquired from the French the tiny island of Dumeira in the strait of Bab El Mandeb by treaty, stipulating it would never be fortified. Violating the treaty, the Italians turned it into a fortress and checkmated the advantage the British have in the strait with their fortified island of Perim. Thus the British are faced with the possibility of the Italians closing the Red Sea at the southern outlet.

The Italians also have been working desperately to gain a foothold on the east bank of the Red sea. Their agents have been inciting Arabs to revolt in the Aden protectorate and in the adjoining territories of Yemen and Hadramaut.

Demand Caution By British.

Italian designs and agitation have created a demand among Egyptian statesmen for the British to end the situation, either by force or bribery. If the British decide to cede the oases and caravan routes in Sudan to Italy or even Egypt proper, the Egyptians, it is reported, will demand "substantial concessions from England."

ADMITS HURLING BRICK.

John Edward Sherman, 42 years old, yesterday confessed to police that he hurled a brick last Thursday night through the window of a cigar store at 848 North Clark street.

KIDNAPED BOY'S FATHER GOES ON MYSTERY CALL

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—Important developments appeared to be impending in the Levine kidnaping late today when Murray Levine, in the company of two men, left his home in New Rochelle for the first time since his son, Peter, 12 years old, disappeared eleven days ago.

Levine and the two men, whose identity was not established, slipped out of the house after making sure their movements would not be hampered by police or reporters. They remained away for several hours.

In the eleven days that his son has been missing, Levine has remained at home, sitting by the telephone, awaiting some word of his son or some attempt by the kidnapers to establish contact and begin ransom negotiations.

His sudden departure from the home took place a few minutes after an interview by telephone in the course of which he said he had reason to believe that his son was alive.

PLEAS OF GUILTY END VOTE TRIAL IN KANSAS CITY

Kansas City, Mo., March 7.—(AP)—The government's twelfth vote fraud case, growing out of 1936 election scandals here, ended abruptly today as it was called to trial when two defendants pleaded guilty and the four others placed themselves at the court's mercy.

It was the first of the long series of cases to end without trial. The result brought the government record to fifty-six convictions, no acquittals, four pleas of guilty, twenty pleas of no defense, approximately 120 indicted persons still to be tried. Three-fourths of Kansas City's 460 precincts remain to be investigated.

Bruno Nicoli, 36 years old, Democratic judge, and Frank G. Fellers, 37 year old, Republican judge, entered guilty pleas today.

Pleas of no defense were entered by Margaret Jewell, 42 years old, Democratic judge; Nina Ruth Fellers, 33 years old, Republican judge; Louise Frances Stroub, Democratic clerk, and Dorothy Brown, Republican clerk.

HOW FAR ARE WE FROM THE BLOOD PURGE?

Persecutions disguised as acts of public policy have been carried to such lengths here that people in the United States may ask how far we are away from the blood purges which characterize such repressions in European dictatorships. TVA, to take one illustration, is the instrument of governmental attack upon a class of citizens who are persecuted fully as much as the Jews in Germany. Hitler, Himmler, Goebbels, and Streicher have driven the Jews out of business life, have denied them the right to support themselves in free enterprise, and have destroyed their property.

The class of citizens in the United States who have been subjected to similar treatment here is composed of the people who invested their savings in public utilities at a time when these utilities were developing large sections of the country which needed them and when the investment was a risk because the future was uncertain.

Because these investors thus used their savings and had confidence, the public utility industry became one of the greatest in the country. It was enterprising and it did pioneer work courageously. In its expansion it was a large buyer of durable goods and it not only raised the standard of living in many backward communities but it promoted other industries and sustained employment by providing power and buying materials.

TVA, a governmental corporation supported by public money and freed from many of the limitations of a government department, was established in the Tennessee valley not only to destroy the utility companies in this part of the south and the investors who had put their money in the private enterprises but also to threaten the public utility business everywhere in the United States. The persecution of this class of investors, people who had made provision for their own social security by their own work and thrift, has been as relentless as anything in the record of Nazi Germany.

With the use of public money the TVA held a gun on the companies and their investors, demanding their surrender and ruin. The intent was to wreck the private companies and their investors and to stop the expansion of such private enterprise every place in the country.

The government, which has conducted this persecution, has been inconsistent enough to blame part of the new depression upon the failure of the public utility people to go ahead, undertake new enterprises, and buy the materials which would put 2 or 3 billion dollars at work in mills and factories. Persecution lacks the simplest moral standards and proof of the lack is superfluous but nevertheless offered.

Senator Norris has said of the persecuted investors: "Let them sweat." Neither Hitler nor Goering ever made a more brutal remark.

This is one illustration of the persecuting intent of the American government, showing how it is put into effect. There are many other illustrations, varied as to practice but similar as to motives and purposes.

In Wisconsin the tax commission has ordered that corporations and individuals with gross incomes of $10,000 a year must provide for the commission on demand an accounting of disbursement of $50 or more to an item.

Thus the individual citizen must have at hand and always available for this American GPU a record of business, domestic and personal expenses, showing by item how all expenditures of $50 or more were made. Outside of Russia such tyranny is not found anywhere in the world.

In Rhode Island a governor threw out the Supreme court and state senate by a coup d'état and has since used the military force of the state to ruin political rivals.

The blood purge is now established practice in many labor and political organizations. There was one in New Jersey, where Harry Redwood, the business agent of a sand hog subway workers' union, was murdered as a result of feuds among racket ridden New York unions; and, although it was indicated that the assassination had been plotted in New York, law enforcement came to nothing. In Minneapolis Patrick J. Corcoran, veteran union man, was assassinated, a crime that bore every mark of being a purge to get him out of the way. Minnesota is accustomed to purges of this character, involving, as they have, the assassination of two newspaper editors whose offense was exposure of the alliance between crime and politics.

There was also a recent instance of such a purge in Chicago, when Lloyd Rourke, delivering laundry under contract, was wiped out after a warning that he would continue to run a picket line at his own peril. In East St. Louis there was a back yard murder of Leo W. Quick, a union business agent, assassinated by two gunmen.

America has its own terrorism with murder adopted as an instrument of policy. This has grown up in an atmosphere of slander and gross attack, persecution, and injustice. The Russian terror works through a mock tribunal. Our persecutions seek fixed courts and use the radio to poison the public mind against the defendants.

JAPAN IN THE PHILIPPINES.

High Commissioner Paul McNutt, now in Washington and there making himself persona non grata to the administration, is not the only news from the Philippines. Since his departure from his post, bringing tidings that nobody in Washington seems to want to hear, it is reported from Manila that the Filipino assembly is about to do something with the Japanese colony in Davao.

The prosperity and the authority enjoyed by the Japanese settlers is proof that they can do very well in the Philippines, that they like the climate and resources, and can domesticate themselves much more easily and comfortably than they can in Formosa or Manchukuo. It has been noted that these intelligent, industrious, and even wealthy Japanese have so established themselves, particularly in this locality, that they have made it almost a part of Japan and, in fact, run it as if it were a Japanese province in which their authority was supreme.

The Filipino leaders say that some of the land has been acquired illegally or by subterfuge and that the Japanese having such holdings should be dispossessed. They also think it would be wise to take the matter up now, while the United States still has responsibility for the islands, rather than wait until responsibility is entirely Filipino. It is fairly certain that any attempt to dispossess the Japanese or restrict their privileges will be met with opposition in Tokio and probably give the United States something to worry about. It also is fairly certain that if the Filipinos were free and endeavored to take property away from the Japanese settlers, get them out of the country or restrict their freedom, the Japanese would be down in force to see about it.

A few incidents of that sort might hasten the day of Tokio's acquisition of a land of many resources which the Japanese would be glad to develop for themselves. Our interest is purely academic. We will not be drawn into a great war across the Pacific ocean by a people who have chosen to part from us.

CONSERVATISM.

Courage is expected of Senator Burke of Nebraska, and it is not surprising that we find him in an address at Pittsburgh the other day daring to use the term conservative with respect. To this generation conservative seems to have lost its former honor and become a term of contempt and reproach. A party that should venture brazenly to adopt the title of conservative would be eliminated from all serious consideration by practical politicians. At any rate until the approval of a substantial fraction of the voters induced respect.

It is true Senator Burke in discussing the possibilities of coalition coupled conservative with the popular term progressive, but he did not flinch from his position and there is no intelligent mind that will find the conjunction illogical or surprising. In fact, the sensible observer of human events will doubt that there is or ever has been any real or enduring progressiveness that has not been conservative or any real conservatism that has not been progressive.

Defining and applying to the present what he has in mind, Senator Burke said that if by coalition be meant "some form of united effort on the part of all who oppose further experiments that seem to endanger the American system of private enterprise" he is heartily for it. And this union should be fundamentally conservative "because of a fixed determination to hold fast to all that is good in a system that has been built up through the trial and sacrifice of many generations." It should likewise be actively progressive "by reason of an equally firm resolve to strike down every abuse that has fastened itself upon the existing order."

If these be truisms they have been treated in the New Deal evangel like fallacies. They need restoration by the common sense of the nation. A nation that ignores them is headed for the dust pan. The mentality that has been exalted at Washington has made conservative an epithet and the results are coming home to all the people.

THE RIGHT OF ASSEMBLY.

[Illinois State Journal.]

Both the constitution of the United States and the constitution of Illinois guarantee to citizens the right of assembly and the right of free speech. These are ancient civil rights, part of our heritage from England. Presumably similar guarantees are made by the constitution of Indiana.

And yet a Superior court judge in Gary in our neighboring state has issued an injunction barring the German-American bund, a pro-Hitler organization, and related societies from holding meetings in the state of Indiana. The writ prohibited the bund not only from holding meetings but from renting halls for meeting purposes.

Many citizens who are not sympathetic with the objectives of the bund will protest against this court action. It is probably true that the bund, with its Nazi principles, is an un-American organization, but we do not believe it is so powerful as to menace the security of our neighboring state.

Certainly our democratic government does not stand in the need of protection by a court injunction which denies the right to assemble peaceably. Democracy's strength is in the open discussion of issues. To drive an organization such as the bund underground is to resort to the tactics of a Hitler.

STUDYING REPEATERS.

[Milwaukee Journal.]

A special building at the federal reformatory in Chillicothe, O., is being fitted up as a laboratory for the study of "criminals who know better but still commit crimes." Psychiatric aid will be offered in this building to prisoners who realize there is something wrong with their personalities, something which drives them to anti-social acts even though they know that their behavior is wrong and capture likely. It is hoped that exhaustive studies of the individual men will lead to a fair proportion of cures and that "repeating" will thus be diminished.

Whether or not a large number of actual cures are effected this experiment should be worth what it costs, for the studies made of individuals may well provide a mass of material useful in crime prevention work. We have relied too much on what we think would deter us from crime in seeking to deter others.

The experiment at Chillicothe, if it does nothing else, will add to the available material pointing to the causes of crime, especially among those with better than average mental endowments. We are badly in need of just that information.

ONE OF THE NEWEST of the professions open to the untrained and one in which there are no age limits is commercial modeling. Babies a few months old and a woman of 82 are registered at a models' bureau in Chicago, as well as some 1,500 pretty girls and about 400 men. Typical of the small town girl who became a successful model in Chicago is Beatrice Imhoff, a redhead in her early twenties whose face you have seen in cigaret ads on billboards and in clothes and cosmetic ads. Chicago photographers say the most photogenique face of all Chicago models is that of Carroll Brady, who photographs well from any angle. Another successful Chicago model is Margaret Brown, just out of high school. Agencies call for her every day in the week to pose advertising toothpaste and cold cream and clothes and gloves. Mrs. Connie Seaman, head of the models' bureau, says that carriage, figure, and style are considered in choosing a clothes model; features and ability to photograph well for other work.

FAVORITES AMONG STYLE SHOW MODELS are Lillian McDonald, the glamor girl of them all, with red hair, gardenia skin, and a svelte slimness that makes any gown she wears look desirable; Mary Jane Kennedy, petite, blonde, at her best in bathing suits and "play" clothes, and tall, blonde Astrid of the page-boy bob, the "personality" model. A famous family of models are the Haydens, with three sisters, Betty, Gay, and Marie. Black-eyed Gaby, often seen at theater openings, is another familiar face in the fashion advertisments.

NEW IDEA—born in Chicago. The use of first names instead of patronymics as firm names. Example, the firm of Trace & Warner at 155 North Clark street is made up of Trace Christensen and Warner Hoople. Originators of the idea, Trace & Warner believe the use of first names creates a friendly atmosphere and stimulates business.

Springtime for Henry.

A young Chicagoan very much in love became engaged Feb. 2. . . . The other day he took his laundry under his arm, went to the Chinaman's on Argyle, deposited seven cents on the table, walked out and boarded a Broadway car, the bundle still under his arm. . . . Instead of mailing business letters to Tennessee he addressed them to Kentucky and they came back stamped "No Such Postoffice in State." . . . Kentucky will be the spot he will honeymoon in May. . . . He deposited his home work in the letter box and took the going out mail home. . . . And instead of getting off the car on Goose Island he landed in the flower market on Randolph street. . . . All this just to prove to you cynics people fall in love just like they used to.

THIS STORY WAS TOLD during a discussion of the difference in educational methods in Europe and in America. "What do you do for fun of an evening?" the child was asked. To which she replied: "O, I read Molière."

Amelia Earhart was the first woman to fly the Atlantic—she was a passenger that year—and Gene Tunney, the world's heavyweight champion, resigned from the ring. SUDDEN HEART ATTACKS.

WHEN a member of the family is faced with a cardiac emergency, a startling incident presents itself. An acute attack with severe pain or breathlessness may be so alarming that we subconsciously sense its seriousness. At times we are likely to do too much; at others, not enough.

Coronary thrombosis is an accident, although the patient probably has been preparing for it—inviting it—by years of overwork and neglect, ignoring meanwhile the rules of hygiene. It differs from the sudden, sledgelike blow of angina pectoris but—on the contrary—may waken one out of a sound sleep—frequently after a too heavy evening meal. Sometimes the symptoms may appear while the individual is sitting quietly engaged in nothing more strenuous than playing cards. Great pain, which is generally complained of, is felt behind the breastbone or in the stomach area. There is a feeling of weakness and the skin is covered with perspiration. In a little while the heart action may become irregular and the temperature may go to 99 or even 100 degrees Fahrenheit. Nausea and vomiting may develop within an hour or two.

We must proceed first of all to ease the distress. If the physician has arrived, a generous dose of a powerful narcotic is in order; and he should remain with the victim for at least an hour to make certain that the supply of opiates is adequate to meet the situation. If cyanosis [blueness] of the lips or the tips of the fingers and nose is observed, oxygen by nasal catheter may be given.

Even after improvement has come we must understand that there is a tendency for this type of distress to recur—perhaps within a few days. For this reason it is necessary to keep the patient in bed until repair has taken place. A portion of the heart muscle has been cut off from the circulation and hence requires time for recovery.

But a blocked coronary presents a sharp contrast to the disorder called "angina of effort," which manifests itself while the patient is walking against a strong wind or indulging in activity in excess of his usual wont. The pain is agonizing enough to cause him to stop in his tracks and after one experience of this sort a vial of nitroglycerin tablets should be carried always—one being placed under the tongue and the dose repeated in five minutes if relief has not arrived.

Cardiac asthma may awake the patient in the middle of the night, whereupon he sits up in bed and leans forward, gasping for breath. So great is the demand for air that he may struggle with those around him in order to reach an open window. Both morphine and atropine are indicated and any one who has exhibited such seizures should maintain close at hand a small tank of oxygen, with a nasal catheter attachment, for prompt inhalation. The entire affair represents true heart disease with a greatly enlarged pumping chamber.

Some of us have seen heart patients run for trains, catch them, and then suffer an acute dilatation in consequence. The pulse is rapid, the face anxious, and there may be considerable perspiration with blueness of the face and lips. But such instances always occur in chronic organs that have been subjected to overstrain far beyond their ability to withstand.

Any one so afflicted should be put to bed at once and given the advantage of rest through the assistance of an opiate. No attempt should be made to force him to lie down. He should be propped up with numerous pillows in a sitting position. The old Morris chair forms an ideal couch.

No heart patient should be given a large quantity of food, particularly after an acute episode of any sort. Even fluids may be restricted. The lightest possible diet is advisable, as the digestive tract is unable—as far as blood supply is concerned—to carry on its functions. Few so-called heart paroxysms are followed by sudden death.

ANOTHER TEST SUGGESTED.

S. B. writes: One doctor has told me I have gonorrhea as determined definitly by a microscopic examination. He offers to cure me for a specified sum. Having no idea how I could have contracted the disease, I went to another physician who sent me to the city health department for Wassermann and complement fixation tests. Both reports are negative.

What am I to think or do now?

REPLY.

The fixation test should be satisfactory evidence that you do not have gonorrhea. On the other hand, if the gonococci have been demonstrated in a smear, the proof is positive. Your next move depends on the skill and integrity of the first physician—the one who said he found the organisms. I would suggest that you ask some high grade laboratory to examine another smear. The first physician may have been mistaken.

CROSS-EYES NOT INHERITED.

B. S. writes: If one parent has crossed eyes and the other very good eyes is there much chance of a child inheriting crossed eyes—or aren't they passed down from generation to generation?

REPLY.

Only the tendency to a muscular weakness is inherited. The chances are remote in this case that strabismus [squint or crossed-eye] will be passed on.

CITIZENSHIP PAPERS.

Chicago, March 4.—[Friend of the People.]—I entered this country about eleven years ago from Europe and intend to take out my citizenship papers, but am afraid I will have difficulty owing to the following: My brother back in Europe got passage to come to this country, but owing to illness in the family had to stay there. However, I used his passage and his name instead of mine. I am using my own name here. What should I do about it? Should I use the name I came under or my own when getting papers?

POLITICAL PROGRAM.

Kankakee, Ill., March 1.—During my lifetime I have too frequently erred and seen others victimized by their own implicit faith in the infallibility of their judgments to think that I may not be mistaken in this instance. However, I am persuaded that the general elections in 1940 will bring defeat to the Republican party candidates unless some definite, mutually agreeable plan is advanced under which all factions opposing the New Deal sophistries can unite.

It impresses me as a futile gesture to invite disillusioned, dissatisfied Democrats to join the Republican party. The time may be rapidly approaching when men, who are men, not mice, will have to decide between party loyalty and loyalty to our country. Uncounted thousands of fine Democrats may be depended upon to stand loyally by their country, while unknown thousands of others will vote the straight Democratic ticket for the sole reason that neither they, nor their fathers before them, have ever done otherwise. Also, untold others may find the New Deal dealings odious to the point where they would not support a candidate sponsored by so radical a group, but rather than vote for a Republican they won't vote at all.

How to solidify this opposition to the New Deal is a question worthy of serious consideration. How best to gain the support of those Democrats who are Americans first and Democrats second without bidding them forsake their party? I fear trades. At this time such tactics would give the opposition ammunition with which to fan the hatreds of large groups of their followers. However, if we can come to some early agreement with the American Democrats and adopt a Democratic-Republican joint action policy that would not be repugnant to either Democrats or Republicans and which would—at least in part—reclaim the name of the Democratic party for the 1940 campaign, thereby forcing the New Dealers to identify themselves by another or a hyphenated name, there may be some immediate hope of regaining control of America, by Americans, for Americans.

CLIMBING THE GATE.

Chicago, March 3.—It is disgusting to see how clever [visiting] aliens are. A woman I met came here to visit early last summer and, of course, she liked this city very much, and also decided to have an operation performed, since we had such fine clinics here. She wouldn't spend any money. O, no. This fräulein was on the lookout for a husband, and found a German who had become a citizen here, and so she got married, for love or to live in this good old U. S. A.

She sails soon, to announce her wedding there and have the privilege of reentering this country. She plans to be back when the roses bloom here. Well, as a native Chicagoan, I hope she is mistaken and can't come back so soon.

She will buy all her linens, etc., abroad as she can't bring any cash to this country. We ought to have great restrictions, too, to prevent alien women or men from sliding in so easily, just by getting married.

APPLIED PSYCHOLOGY.

THE L. V. L. REPORT.

Chicago, March 2.—Being a student of law I have been attentive to the works and acts of the last session of our legislature and am quite familiar with the individual records. I have read the recently published report by the Legislative Voter's league of the records, in their opinion, of the members, and have been led to wonder on what these opinions are based. Most assuredly not on the actual records! Certain Democratic pay rollers are highly commended and cited for their independence when, in fact, with few exceptions, they voted only as their political machine desired. On the other hand, there are examples of independent legislators with enviable records, records above reproach, characterized as unfit.

By whose authority, by what right or reason has this privilege of acting as the guardian of the public welfare been conferred upon this organization?

GERALD R. WEEKS.

MAYBE THEY PAID THE NEXT DAY.

Chicago, March 3.—This morning I happened to be at the Damen and North avenue "L" station. Mary has a paper stand there. She was absent from the stand for a few minutes when three men alighted from the Damen avenue street car. Two of them grabbed TRIBUNES and ran on in the "L" station without paying for the papers they took. The third man laid his 2 cents on the stand, then went on in. I want those two men to know they took papers from a widow with seven children.

A STEP IN ADVANCE.

Chicago, March 3.—Now that the P.-T. A. has taken such a wonderful stand against double features in order to protect my children, I wish the Legion of Decency and the P.-T. A. would get together and ask the city council to pass a law prohibiting persons from remaining in a tavern more than two hours.

This would protect my husband, because when he gets drunk he does not know enough to come home. Then the smoking in the tavern ruins his eyes.

DISGUSTED.

From Across the Sea

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland.—In event of war between Russia and Germany, both Finland and Estonia would fight Russia. Latvia is an unknown quantity. The Letts have a warm spot in their hearts for Russia, for many thousands of them occupied high posts in Czarist Russia. Observers believe Latvia would be the first to rejoin Russia if there were another régime in Moscow.

The Letts dislike the Germans, who ruled the Baltic provinces for 700 years and who did not assimilate the Letts when they had an opportunity. The German ruling class learned Lettish in order to address the Letts in their own language and to keep them in their place. German was the language of the gentry, as English is the language of the gentry in India.

The hearts of the Letts urge them to fight on the side of the bolsheviks, even though it might mean their destruction. Their heads urge them to fight on the side of the Germans, for they believe Germany will be the winner.

Finland can put an excellently equipped army of 300,000 men in the field at 24 hours notice and could defeat any force Russia might be able to send against it. The soviet tanks, armored cars, and airplanes will be useless against the Finns, who are ideally prepared to fight in the granite hills and forests of their frontier. The Finns are just as well equipped as the Germans.

Military observers believe, in the event of war, that the far eastern Red army might succeed in defeating Japan, while the European Red army might take a licking in a conflict involving Germany and Russia's neighbors.

Foreseeing a war with Japan, the Moscow régime for many years has permitted a much milder brand of bolshevism to exist in Siberia. The collectivization of the peasants was not forced so energetically, taxes were much lower than in European Russia, the population was provided with manufactures and products frequently unobtainable in the western provinces, and private trade has been winked at by the Red authorities. Because of this, Siberia today is not so demoralized and terrorized as European Russia.

It is also evident from the futile efforts of Maxim Litvinov, soviet foreign commissar, to persuade France and England to guarantee Russia's western frontiers in case Moscow becomes involved in a war with Japan, and from the tone of articles in the Moscow press, that Russia is confident of winning a war in the far east, but is panic stricken at the prospect of becoming involved in a conflict with Germany.

HOUSE WONDERS WHO ARE FAMILY SURTAX TARGETS

Can't Get Names; Suspect Political Purge.

tions, each with a net income of $300,000 annually, the closely held corporation will have a tax disadvantage of 56 per cent in comparison with the widely held corporation when no dividends are distributed. If 10 per cent in dividends is distributed the tax disadvantage is 47.2 per cent and even when 50 per cent of income is distributed the tax disadvantage is more than 8 per cent."

Bad Politics, Too, Is Charge.

Another Ohio Democrat, Representative Byron B. Harlan, based his plea for repeal of the section on a frankly political basis.

We can't afford to indorse a provision which, in effect, says that the government can control the number of shareholders a corporation may have," he declared. "The tax is unjust, but primarily I am going to vote against it because it is rotten politics."

Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Roswell B. Magill was authority for the statement that the surtax will affect only 300 to 600 corporations.

The surtax of 20 per cent is to be applied to corporations in which:

1. More than 50 per cent in value of the outstanding stock is owned, directly or indirectly, by or for one individual.
2. More than 53 per cent is owned by or for two individuals.
3. More than 56 per cent is owned by three individuals, 59 per cent by four individuals, 62 per cent by five individuals, 65 per cent by six individuals, 68 per cent by seven individuals, 71 per cent by eight individuals, 74 per cent by nine individual,s 75 per cent is owned by ten individuals.

Family Ownership Defined.

Exempt from the surtax are corporations with a net income of $60,000 or less, personal holding companies [which are subject to a far greater tax] and banks.

The section defining stock ownership provides that an individual shall be considered as owning the stock held, directly or indirectly, by or for his family or for his partner. The family of an individual is defined as including his brothers and sisters, spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants.

The surtax of 20 per cent is applied on a net income which is first reduced by the general corporation tax of 20 per cent. The tax base is also reduced by dividends paid out. A corporation which retains all its earnings will pay an effective tax rate of 31.2 per cent when the general tax and surtax are totaled. A corporation which pays out more than 57 per cent of its net income will not be subject to the surtax.

Defeat Profits Tax Elimination.

Later in the day the first attempt to strike the undistributed profits tax out of the administration's new tax bill, was defeated by a standing vote of 78 to 33.
vote of 78 to 33. This is not final because only one-fourth of the membership was present. Later a roll call will be demanded.

Representative Treadway offered an amendment eliminating from the bill the flat 20 per cent tax upon corporate net income with a maximum credit of 4 per cent allowed for complete distribution of profits.

He proposed as a substitute that corporations should be taxed 12½ per cent on the first $5,000 of income, 14 per cent on the next $20,000, and 16 per cent in all income in excess of $25,000.

"The sole purpose of this amendment is to do away with the discredited principle of the undistributed profits tax," Treadway told the house. "Under this amendment all corporations are treated alike without reference to distribution of dividends. They are all taxed solely upon the basis of net income.

"Corporations subject to a 16 to 20 per cent tax under this bill would pay a flat tax of 16 per cent. Under this amendment a corporation with a net income of $25,000 a year would pay a $3,425 tax. Under the bill it would pay a $3,525 tax, a slight difference.

"A $50,000 a year corporation would pay $8,000 to $10,000 tax under this bill. Under my amendment it would pay $7,425. A corporation with a net income of $100,000 would pay $15,425 under the amendment; $16,000 to $20,000 under the bill.

Worth Lower Revenue.

"While the taxes proposed in the amendment are lower than those in the bill, they will still be considerably in excess of those in effect before the undistributed profits tax was added to the act.

"Revenue of course will be less. I am informed by a nonpartisan report that loss of about 81 millions will be caused. But to offset this, there will be the broadening and heartening improvement of business which would be caused which would eventually add to, rather than reduce revenue."

Representative Fred M. Vinson [D., Ky.] opposed the amendment. He disputed Treadway's estimate of an 81 million reduction in revenue, asserting the loss would be 200 to 250 million.

Salary Publication Disputed.

President Roosevelt's assertion that the tax bill should contain a clause making public salaries of corporation officials receiving more than $15,000 yearly was the subject of dispute in debate today. The clause has been omitted from the present bill.

"The President says such publicity is a matter of public morals," remarked Representative Clare E. Hoffman [R., Mich.]. "If it is immoral of corporation officials to fail to disclose their salaries, what can be said of the occupants of the White House?

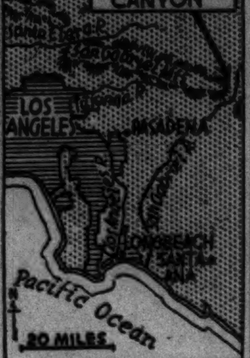
"The President and his son, James, as secretary, receive $75,000 and $10,000 per year, respectively. Following the President's line of reasoning, why should not the public be advised of their total income?

"Why shouldn't they know the value of the by-products which emanate from the executive office? Are they not just as much interested in knowing whether the President receives $175,000 from the sale of his state papers or James Roosevelt received $150,000 from an insurance agency and is now worth $500,000?

"If the question of whether the tax law shall contain a provision requiring publication of salaries of corporation officials is a moral one, and the failure to so require subjects us to the charge of being immoral, how much stronger is the case against those occupying positions of public trust and confidence who fail to disclose to the public the amounts which they receive while in public service?"

PREPARE TO RESCUE INJURED WOMAN FROM FLOOD SWEPT CANYON

Los Angeles, Cal., March 7.—[Special.]—Seriously injured and marooned without food by last week's flood, Mrs. John Weir Troy, wife of the governor of Alaska, tomorrow will be carried out of San Gabriel canyon where she and friends were trapped, it was disclosed tonight.



Location of San Gabriel Canyon.

Dr. E. R. Lambertson, her physician and friend, said he learned of the plans to rescue her as he was about to charter an amphibian plane and go to her aid. He intended to attempt to alight on the upper San Gabriel reservoir, about half a mile from the cabin where Mrs. Troy was isolated. She was moved today to a forest ranger station in the canyon. Mrs. Troy and her friends were guests at an outing in the canyon, where they went before the flood started.

Meanwhile Gov. Frank F. Merriam appealed to President Roosevelt for federal funds for southern California flood rehabilitation. He estimated public and private losses would exceed 52 million dollars.

19 Killed, 168 Hurt When Two Spanish Trains Collide

DIES AT 63 AFTER A FALL.

SOUTH SIDE 'L' FRANCHISE WILL EXPIRE MARCH 26

2 of 4 Divisions to Be Without City Permits.

City ordinances under which the Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] operates its south side division will expire on March 26, examination of the company's franchises disclosed yesterday. The ordinances for the south side division, which was Chicago's first elevated line, were granted nearly fifty years ago.

With the lapsing of these ordinances, two of the four divisions of the elevated company will be operating without city franchises. The franchises for the major part of the Lake street line expired in 1930.

In view of the current efforts being made to unify all local transportation facilities in Chicago, it is believed unlikely that the company will make any move to have the south side franchises renewed.

City's Hand Strengthened.

Transit experts said yesterday that the city's hand should be strengthened in its move to force a settlement of the traction problem by the expiration of the south side elevated ordinances. They said that the city can insist on the company obtaining city authorization to continue its operations.

The expiration of the franchises will result in a situation in which all the transit systems are operating under temporary ordinances or no franchises at all for all or substantial parts of their lines.

The Chicago Motor Coach company has franchises from the Chicago park district for the use of park boulevards and drives, but none for operation on city streets.

Extensions for Street Cars.

The south side elevated began operations with steam locomotives in 1892. The line was electrified four years later. The Lake street division was the second elevated line, beginning operations in 1893. The metropolitan division [other west side lines] started in 1895 and the north side lines in 1900.

Franchises for the metropolitan, union loop, and north side divisions will expire between 1942 and 1945.

PICK FOUR JURORS IN BLACK POISON HIGHBALL TRIAL

The second trial of Corydon A. Black, 35 years old, charged with the poison highball murder of his divorced wife, Cordelia, opened yesterday before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court. Four jurors were selected.

Assistant State's Attorneys Richard B. Austin and Alexander Napoli said they again would ask the death penalty. Black was convicted Jan. 29, 1937, in the first trial, and sentenced to death, but his conviction was reversed by the Illinois Supreme court.

The state contends Black placed poison in his ex-wife's drink, intending to kill her. His attorney, Edwin C. Wilcox of Anthony, Kas., who was brought here by Black's parents, indicated the defense again would contend that Mrs. Black knowingly drank the poison as part of a suicide pact which Black did not fulfill.

$8,000 STOCK TAKEN AT DRESS SHOP.

When employés of the Baers dress shop, 227 South State street, arrived yesterday they found burglars had sawed the bars on a rear window and by way of the fire escape had stolen 540 women's dresses and coats valued at $8,000.

IDLE CHICAGOAN WHO FOUND RICH GOLD MINE DIES

TORONTO, Ont., March 7.—[Special.]—Tony Oklend, former Chicago laborer who went prospecting for lack of a better job and discovered one of the richest gold mines in Ontario, died today in a hospital at Miami Beach, Fla. He was 54 years old.

Oklend, a Lithuanian, worked twenty-seven years as a laborer in Chicago. Losing his job in the depression of 1929 he went to the Port Arthur district to hunt gold. On Little Long Lac he struck a vein so rich it made him a millionaire almost overnight.

He is survived by his widow, the former Miss Sylvia Czarnecki, a Chicago manicure whom he married in 1936. Oklend had retired and they lived on his sumptuous estate at Oakville, twenty miles from here, where the wealthy miner was said to have served champagne for breakfast and used gold nuggets for paper weights.

'L' ASKS RULING ON SPLIT OF BUS TRANSFER FUNDS

The Chicago Rapid Transit company [elevated lines] notified the Illinois commerce commission yesterday that it was unable to reach an agreement with the Chicago Motor Coach company on a division of fares paid by riders making interline transfers between the two systems. It petitioned the commission to fix a basis.

The interline transfer arrangement, which became effective in January, 1936, permits passengers to transfer from one system to the other at designated stations, on payment of a single fare.

SUPREME COURT AGAIN WIDENS U. S. TAX FIELD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—In a 5 to 2 decision of far reaching implications, sweeping aside more than a century of precedents, the United States Supreme court held today that income from leases of state school lands is not immune from federal taxation.

Justice Pierce Butler, dissenting with Justice James Clark McReynolds, said it was impossible to foresee the extent to which the court's opinion upsets the long settled principle of reciprocal tax immunity in our dual system of government.

Climaxes Series of Decisions.

Today's decision climaxed a series in which the Supreme court, at the request of the Roosevelt administration, has drastically narrowed the field of reciprocal tax immunity. The decisions have caused much speculation as to whether, in the end, they will lead to the taxation of government bonds by states, the taxation of income from state and municipal securities by the federal government, the reciprocal taxation of state and federal employés' salaries, and the local taxation of housing and other federal projects. Government attorneys concede that the trend of the court's decisions points to such possibilities.

Last November the court held that states could levy gross receipts taxes upon the income of government contractors engaged in the construction of the Grand Coulee dam in Washington and the Kanawha dam in West Virginia. Attorney General Homer S. Cummings and Solicitor General Stanley F. Reed asked the court at that time to reëxamine the entire doctrin of reciprocal tax immunity. The court was asked to overturn, and it did overturn, three previous decisions in which it declared invalid sales taxes as applied to the vendor of goods to the other sovereign.

Ruling Goes Step Farther.

Last Monday the court held that the federal government can levy income taxes upon the salaries of attorneys and others employed by the states in the liquidation of insolvent corporations.

Today's decision went a step farther, expressly overruling two previous decisions and limiting if not upsetting the principle laid down by Chief Justice John Marshall, in McCulloch vs. Maryland, decided in 1819, that under our dual system one government may not tax the operations of another.

Justice Reed took no part in the consideration of the case decided today because of his participation as solicitor general in the previous tax cases. With Justice Benjamin N. Cordozo absent because of illness, seven justices remained. Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes read the majority opinion.

Levy on Oil Land Involved.

The case involved an effort by Guy T. Helvering, commissioner of internal revenue, to collect income taxes from the Mountain Producers corporation on income received from a wholly owned affiliate under a trust agreement with the owner of an oil and gas lease from the state of Wyoming. The Midwest Oil company leased a section of Wyoming school land for the production of oil and gas, and the Wyoming Associated Oil corporation, subsidiary of the Montana Producers corporation, obtained a half interest in this lease under a trust agreement. The board of tax appeals upheld the tax on the income from the lease, but the Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the board, declaring the tax unconstitutional.

The opinion of Chief Justice Hughes noted that in Burnet vs. Coronado Oil and Gas company, decided in 1932, the court held that the federal government could not tax income derived from a lease of Oklahoma school land. His opinion also noted that in Gillespie vs. Oklahoma, decided in 1922, the court held that Oklahoma could not tax income from a lease of Indian lands, since the lessee was an instrumentality used by the United States in fulfilling its duties to the Indians.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, the great liberal, wrote the opinion of the court in the Gillespie case, which was overturned today, and his argument was cited by Chief Justice Hughes as follows:

"The ground of the decision in the Gillespie case, as stated by Mr. Justice Holmes in speaking for the court, was that 'a tax upon the leases' was 'a tax upon the power to make them, and could be used to destroy the power to make them'; and that a tax 'upon the profits of the leases' was 'a direct hamper upon the effort of the United States to make the best terms that it can for its wards.'"

The opinion, however, examines other precedents and concludes:

"These decisions in a variety of applications enforce what we deem to be the controling view—that immunity from nondiscriminatory taxation sought by a private person for his property or gains because he is engaged in operations under a government contract or lease cannot be supported by merely theoretical conceptions of interference with the functions of government.

"Regard must be paid to substance and direct effects. And where it merely appears that one operating under a government contract or lease is subjected to a tax with respect to his profits on the same basis as others who are engaged in similar businesses, there is no sufficient ground for holding that the effect upon the government is other than indirect and remote."

Justice Butler's Dissent.

In the dissenting opinion, Justice Butler said:

"At least since McCulloch vs. Maryland [1819], the dual form of government resulting from the adoption of the constitution has been deemed necessarily to imply that no state may tax the operations of the federal government in the exertion of powers that the people delegated to it and that, for the same reason, the federal government may not tax the operations of any state in the exertion of any of its essential functions of government.

"As to that principle, the urgency of governmental demand for money does not justify yielding here. No one can forsee the extent to which the decision just announced surrenders it. The transactions of a state for the purpose of raising money to provide for schools are admittedly within the principle as heretofore it has been understood and applied. Now this court makes it lawful for the United States to lay tribute upon them.

"To reach in this case the conclusion that respondent's affiliate is subject to federal income tax on the proceeds of its share of the oil received under the lease of state school lands, this court expressly overrules Gillespie vs. Oklahoma, and Burnet vs. Coronado Oil and Gas company; and with them necessarily goes a long line of decisions of this and other courts."

Kills Her Children

Mrs. Margarette Thomsen.

Babylon, N. Y., March 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Henry E. Thomsen, 25 years old, was charged with killing her two babies today after state troopers found them suffocated in their home. Assistant District Attorney Lindsay Henry said that the mother had given him a signed confession. He quoted her as saying: "Harry [her husband] wouldn't take me out. He never even took me to the movies. That's why I killed those darned brats of his." The husband is a building wrecker. The Thomsen home is a little two and one-half room shack surrounded by a sea of mud in west Babylon. One baby, a girl, was 3 years old and the other, a boy, was 5 months old.

TEACHERS LOSE APPEAL ON AGE OF RETIREMENT

No Federal Issue, Says Supreme Court.

The United States Supreme court yesterday dismissed the appeal of John E. Groves and Mary E. Stanton, retired Chicago school teachers, who are seeking to win back the jobs they were forced to give up under the compulsory retirement act.

Groves, who was a teacher of mathematics at Crane Technical High school, and Miss Stanton, who was head assistant at the Ericcson elementary school, charged they and 242 others were deprived of their jobs to make room for new teachers who would become so many more spokes in the Democratic political machine.

They charged in addition that under legislation enacted in 1917 they acquired vested rights that could not be impaired by subsequent acts. When they were retired in 1935, after both had passed the age limit of 65 years, they were far more capable of efficient service than the inexperienced teachers hired later by the politically controled board of education, their petition added.

The Supreme court, in dismissing their petition, held there was no substantial federal question involved. The court affirmed a recent decision of the Illinois Supreme court, which upheld the law on the ground that it did not take away vested rights.

The Illinois court decision read in part:

"A legislative enactment for the retirement of school teachers at the age of 65 is not in itself an arbitrary or unusual provision. Whether such a law is wise or unwise is a matter with which this court has nothing to do."

Boston, Mass., March 7.—(AP)—An eighteen day nightmare on the stormy Atlantic ended tonight for forty crew members and eleven passengers of the crippled freighter Azalea City.

Three women, two girls and five college students among the passengers told of playing bridge nightly after the wild Atlantic wrenched off the vessel's propeller 130 miles south of Cape Race and left the 5,588-ton boat rolling broadside to a ninety mile gale.

The coast guard cutter Chelan and two tugs towed the freighter 1,235 miles to Boston, the first land it touched since leaving Panama City, Fla., Feb. 8.

SUGGESTS SALES TAX BE SHARED WITH COUNTIES

Springfield, Ill., March 8.—(AP)—Revenue problems received major attention as the new Illinois legislative council met today, received suggestions for 1939 bills, and adjourned until after the April primary.

Representative John F. Petit, Batavia Democrat, suggested that the state refund one-third of the 3 per cent sales tax to the counties for reduction of local levies on property.

Codification and modernization of the voluminous revenue act was proposed by Representative Edward J. McCabe, Chicago Democrat.

Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, Gov. Horner's floor leader, recommended that auditing, budgeting, and tax collection work be centralized in one agency, preferably under the governor's control.

Representative William F. Gibbs, Quincy Democrat, would require municipalities to give preference to Illinois labor in public construction work, with penalties for violations. He said labor favored it.

All proposals were turned over to the council's research committee.

FIND CONFESSED KILLER INSANE BUT INNOCENT

A sanity commission in the county court of Du Page county at Wheaton yesterday returned an insanity finding in the case of William Daigger, 140 East Pomeroy street, West Chicago. On Frida night Daigger confessed that he killed Roger Loomis, 5 years old, near his home in Lombard on Feb. 5, 1937.

Daigger was taken at once to the Elgin State hospital. State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney said Daigger had no connection with the death of the Loomis boy, who was found strangled on a prairie.

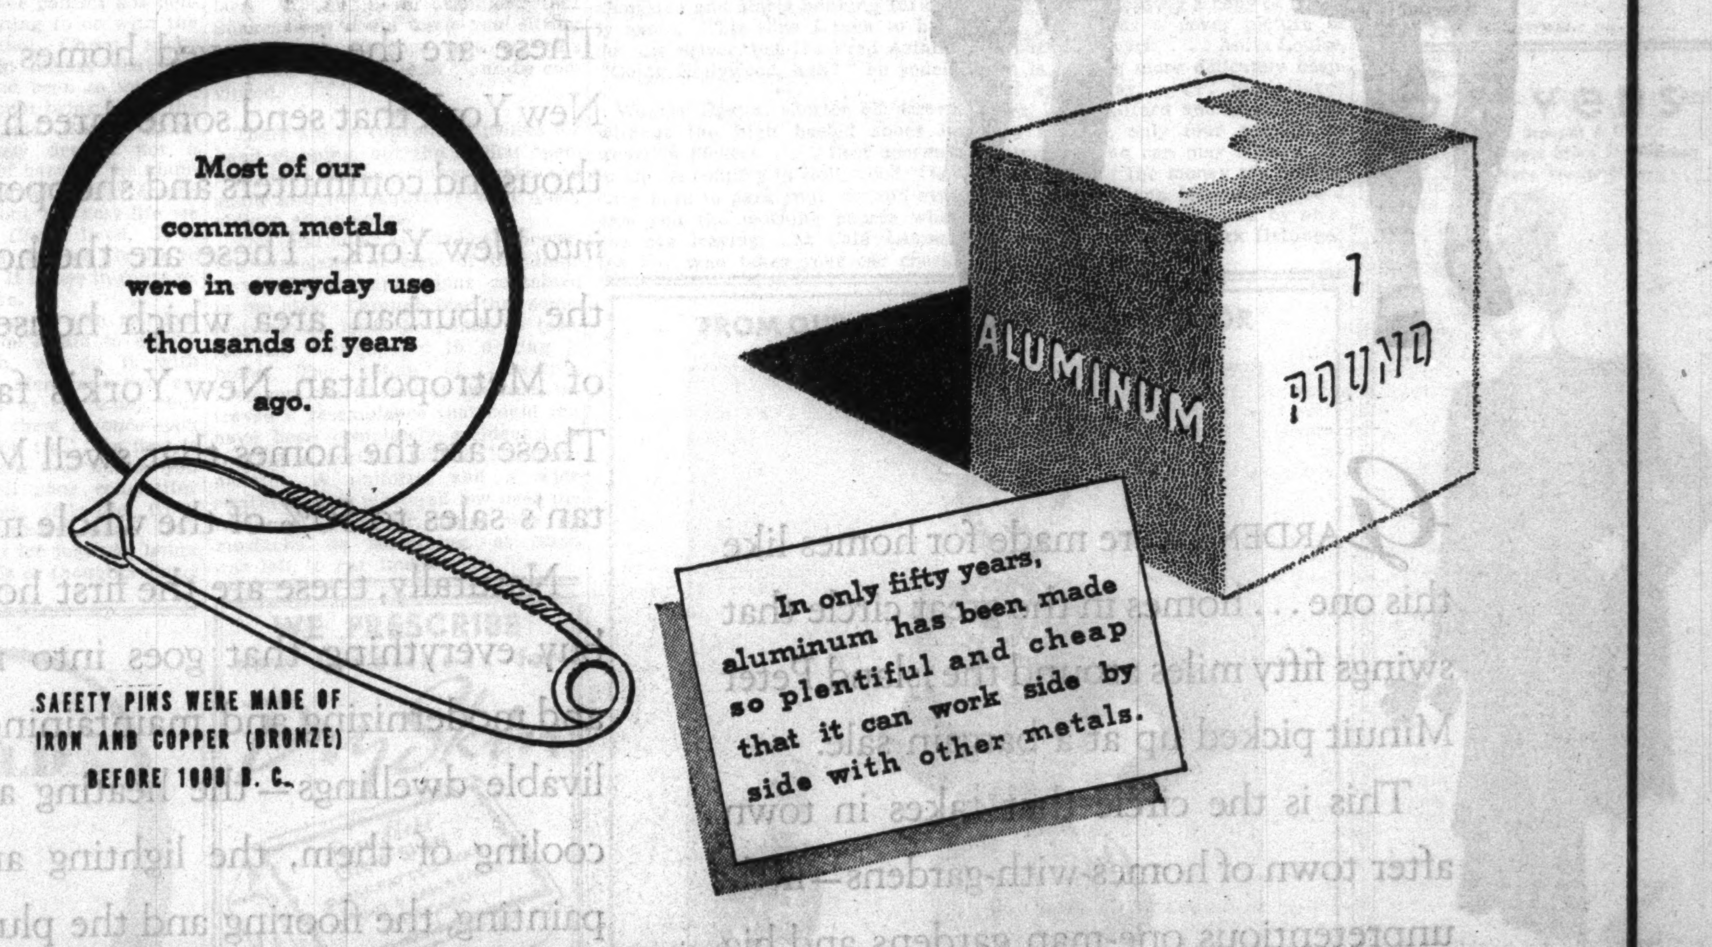
ALUMINUM
IS CHEAP BECAUSE IT WAS DEVELOPED
THE AMERICAN WAY

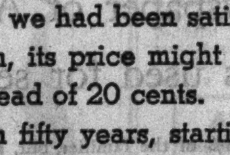


Most of our common metals were in everyday use thousands of years ago.

SAFETY PINS WERE MADE OF IRON AND COPPER (BRONZE) BEFORE 1000 B. C.

In only fifty years, aluminum has been made so plentiful and cheap that it can work side by side with other metals.

FACTS ABOUT ALUMINUM INTEREST EVERYBODY



The American way is to create something useful to everyone and make a lot of it, getting the price down so low that everyone can buy. Working that way, an industry can't help growing.

If we had been satisfied to make only a little aluminum, its price might still be several dollars a pound instead of 20 cents.

In fifty years, starting from scratch, aluminum has been made a common metal of everyday usefulness—right up alongside other metals, which had a head start of thousands of years.

The reason for this rapid growth has been the freedom of incentive which is the birthright and challenge of American industry. In this instance it has been accomplished in spite of the difficulties of getting aluminum out of its ore in a country where the raw materials and the electric power needed for the process are very widely separated.

Research, development and constructive salesmanship have played their part in making the United States the greatest peace-time consumer of aluminum in the world.

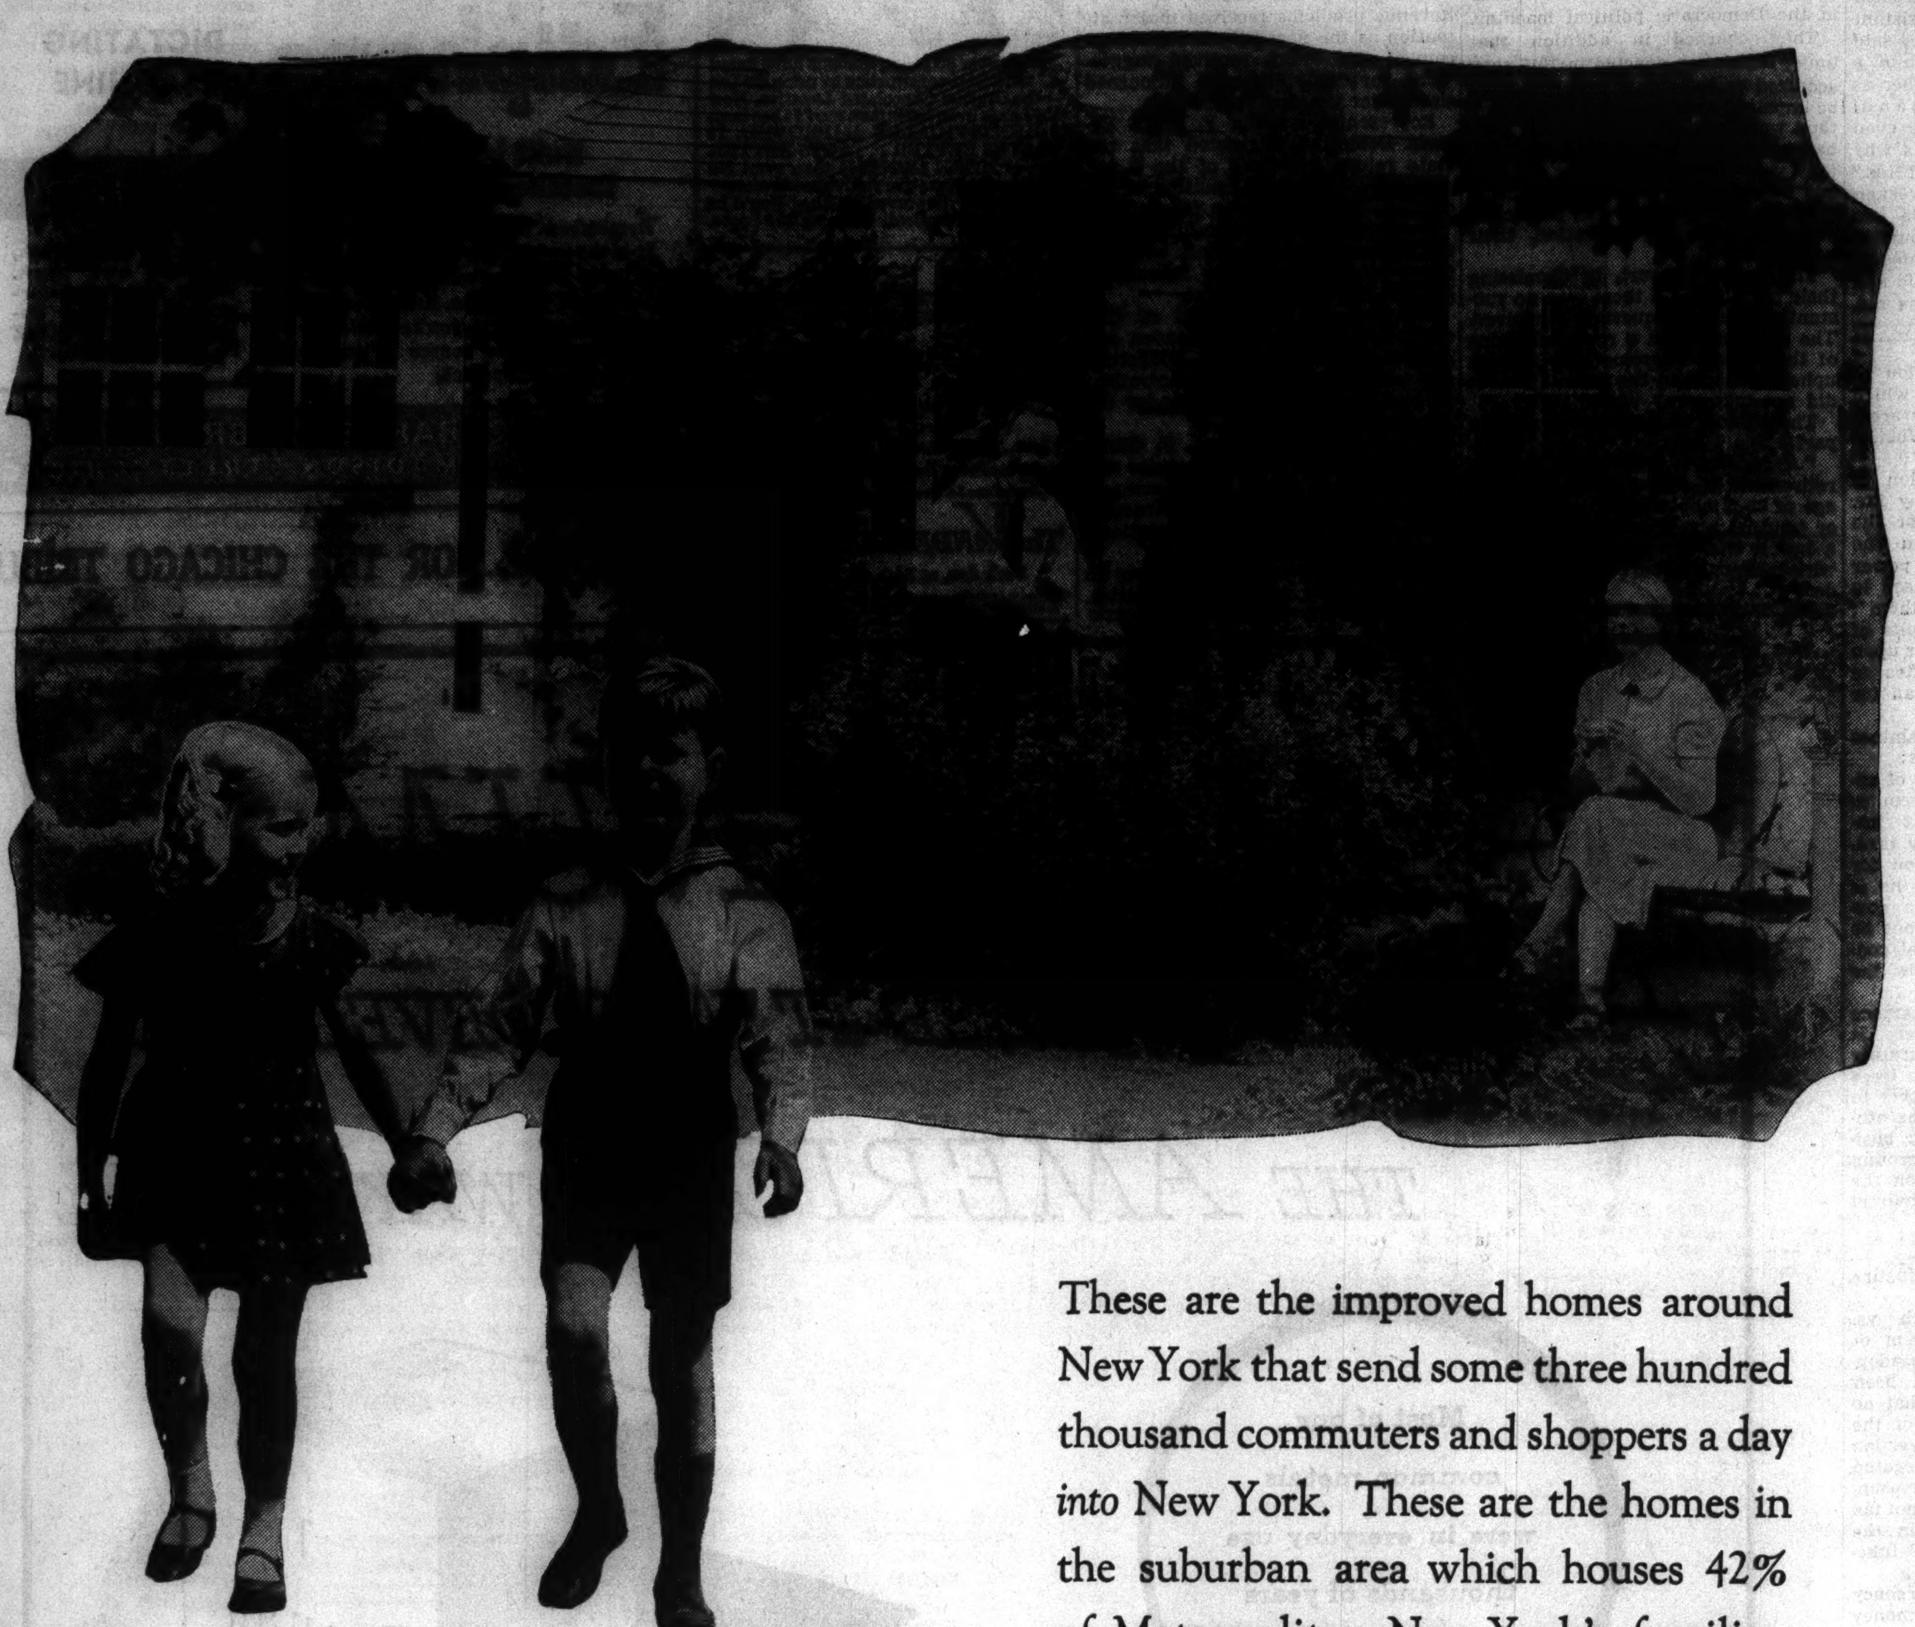
Gardens were made for Homes like this



GARDENS were made for homes like this one . . . homes in the great circle that swings fifty miles around the island Peter Minuit picked up at a bargain sale.

This is the circle that takes in town after town of homes-with-gardens—little unpretentious one-man gardens and big formal gardens. This is the circle that swings East across most of Long Island, North across some of Connecticut and all of Westchester, West across the Hudson and Southward through scores of Jersey cities and towns.

These are the improved homes around New York that send some three hundred thousand commuters and shoppers a day into New York. These are the homes in the suburban area which houses 42% of Metropolitan New York's families. These are the homes that swell Manhattan's sales to 50% of the whole market.*

Naturally, these are the first homes to buy everything that goes into making and modernizing and maintaining more livable dwellings—the heating and the cooling of them, the lighting and the painting, the flooring and the plumbing, and all the equipping. Write it down: if it's a garden home it's a well-kept home, and in New York the Herald Tribune—the garden newspaper of America—is the paper that's used for selling them.

[*Manhattan numbers but 16% of the families, but, aided by suburban buying, makes 50% of the sales in the New York Metropolitan market.]

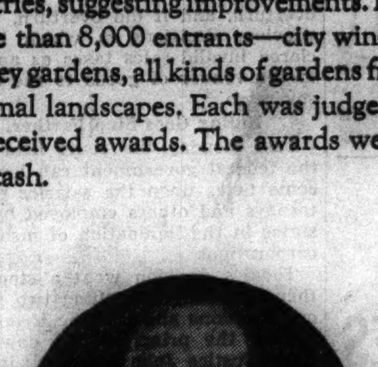
the New York Herald Tribune is the Garden Newspaper of America

The Junior Garden Club Council, inaugurated and sponsored by the Herald Tribune, now numbers 20,000 members living in 800 communities. This group stages its own Junior Flower Show at Rockefeller Center. Last September 1,148 entries were sent in, 216 bronze medals were awarded.

The Yard and Garden Competition run for seven years by the Herald Tribune is like no other. For months a corps of Herald Tribune judges travel thousands of miles examining garden entries, suggesting improvements. Last year they counted more than 8,000 entrants—city window-box gardens, back-alley gardens, all kinds of gardens from one-man efforts to formal landscapes. Each was judged in its class. Near 2,000 received awards. The awards were medals of honor—not cash.



Lectures on Practical Design and Garden Culture—(attendants pay $5.50 a head for the series of 5) are currently being held in the New York Herald Tribune auditorium Tuesday evenings. Hundreds of New Yorkers have been "students" at former lecture courses conducted by horticultural editor J. W. Johnston.

(Many garden enthusiasts subscribe to the Sunday New York Herald Tribune for its regular garden pages—complete news of gardening science by authorities in various gardening fields.)

Pons Concert Will Be Girl Scout Benefit

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Girl Scouts of Chicago will benefit from two parties to be given within the next five weeks, a concert by Lily Pons on April 2 at the Civic Opera house and a card party on April 19 at the Drake hotel.

It has been five years since the board of directors of the Chicago Scouts has been active in arranging a benefit, so the energetic women who compose this board find themselves rather stunned at having a double program. It is a program that should please every one, however, for some will want tickets to hear Miss Pons' only Chicago concert this season, and others will want tickets for an afternoon of contract.

One committee, headed by Mrs. Stanley Gibson as chairman, and by Mrs. Nathan S. Davis III. as vice chairman, is serving for both benefits. An extra telephone has been installed at the Scout headquarters, 35 East Wacker drive, Franklin 6588, to take orders for concert tickets, which are being sold at regular box office prices. A few boxes have been reserved for sale at slightly higher prices.

Former Commissioners Serve on Committee.

Mrs. George Bayrd, Mrs. Richard Bentley, whose official title is commissioner of Girl Scouts for the Chicago council, but who is called more simply the president of the board; Mrs. Howard Jackson, Mrs. John G. Ralston, Mrs. John Bremner, Miss Bonnie-Jean Clark, Mrs. Henry H. Porter, Mrs. A. K. Selz, and Mrs. Arthur Farwell and Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr., former commissioners, are some of those on the committee.

Mrs. Bayrd has a daughter who is 12 and who belongs to a Girl Scout troop in Beverly Hills. Mrs. Davis, whose mother, Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter, was the first Chicago Scout commissioner, is active in Girl Scout work in spite of having four sons and no daughters. She maintains that she will be interested in Girl Scouts for her four boys some day.

Proceeds from the two parties will go to the maintenance of the Girl Scout organization. Seven thousand girls between 7 and 18 years are learning "to meet life as good citizens," as members of Chicago's Girl Scout troops. Troops are limited to about two dozen members each, and in accordance with the new Scout outlook, these girls and young women are given the opportunity to pursue hobbies and to make an avocation into a vocation. Some troops specialize in dramatics, others in journalism, horseback riding, and the like.

Cooking, sewing, and nature study are taught to the troops, which any child may join after learning the oaths and the laws of the organization. Funds for the yearly budget are raised by membership compaigns and by a sale of cookies made by Girl Scouts every autumn.

Chicagoans See Wake of Flood.

On trains, planes, and steamers Chicagoans are traveling to and from vacation lands in a last hectic scramble of winter holidays. Trafic to southern California has been hampered by floods which have provided thrilling experiences for Chicagoans in the area.

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Bremner will leave the end of April to visit their daughter, Mrs. James Truitt, in Santa Ana, Cal. A few days ago when the flood waters were at their highest in Los Angeles and environs and when every one who had relatives or friends in the flood area was fearful Mrs. Bremner talked to Mrs. Truitt for three minutes through the short wave radio.

Woman's Symphony Benefit

Miss Patricia O'Neill, daughter of the Orville A. O'Neills of Evanston, is assisting with plans for an "All in a Day" benefit to be given March 30 by the Woman's Symphony Associates for the Woman's Symphony orchestra. The benefit will be a number of bridge parties held simultaneously at various homes, hotels and clubs in the city and suburbs.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

This is a good month to get in the beauty repairs. If you get skin, hair, and figure in shape you'll greet the spring a much handsomer woman. And another thing about doing it now would be the highly desirable possibility of budgeting your money so that the last minute Easter outlay won't be more than a husband will stand for.

* * *

You should especially get set for the spring permanent. And do it with treatments. A course of good ones will change your hair from straw to a shining halo. Daily hair care, even of the best, can't accomplish quite so much as expert professional massage and brushing.

Some of the soundest and most popular treatments in town are based on brushing. In fact, they work on the principle that it isn't possible to brush hair too much. The operator uses one brush after another as she gives you your workout—and these are brushes that you'll want to steal. Not handsome backed, but, O lady, what elegant bristles!

Naturally, preparations are used in these treatments. But what they are depends entirely on individual requirements. The dry haired and the oily haired get what they need in the way of tonics and lotions. But both get the brushings of their lives.

One treatment makes a difference, we've found. And a course of them is sheer magic in restoring sick hair to health and beauty.

Miss Lombard was on one end of a telephone line in her Bel-air home; Gravet on the other end in Paris.

Producer Mervyn Le Roy was presented with a $1,100 telephone bill today, but he regarded himself as economical.

The censors had cut out an ardent conversation passage in a film, and it would have cost Le Roy more than the telephone charge if he had brought Gravet back from Paris for a retake.

Smart Boleros Are Season's Best Fur Finds

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The best fur finds of the season are the smart, cozy fur boleros! They're well timed for penetrating spring winds, yet so new and smart that you forget you're buying fur, and flattering enough to please the most susceptible. Moleskin, caracul, skunk, or any other flat fur is used for street and daytime models. Most of them just clear the waistline, others reach the hips, and sleeves are either full length, elbow short or a swanky inbetween length that smartly contrasts long, luxurious gloves of vivid tone.

Sensational affairs and tremendously smart on the right streamlines are the clever ink black boleros of monkeyskin. These, too, are brief, snappily styled without collars ready to dramatize all black wool outfits as well as costumes of pale beige or gray. Some of them are matched with small muffs, good duets for stunning fall outfits.

Beautiful short boleros for daytime wear are made of glowing copper colored red fox. The short sleeves are skilfully swirled to show the best of the fox skin. Similar models are made in cross fox, and breath taking creations for frosty silver fox are far more practical buys than they seem, because you can wear them for daytime or evening.

The real beauties are the boleros or longer coats of blue fox—that is, white fox dyed the exact shade of flattering blue fox, light or a stunning smoky gray. Such creations not only lead a double life for afternoon and evening wear, but, because of the briefness of the models, cost less than the longer coats.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Bishop Clinton S. Quin of Houston, Tex., yesterday told his noonday Lenten congregation at the Harris theater that neither politics nor politicians have anything to do with the abundant life that Christ spoke about. He voiced dismay that the famous phrase had been so misused.

"New deals cannot bring about the abundant life," said Bishop Quin. "Neither can new dealers nor a whole new pack of bards. The abundant life requires a new birth. Everybody wants life, but the best life we know is the life Christ lived. It is possible for Christ to give his life to us if we want it. It issues in courage, tolerance, and love.

"Let us experiment with religion. Why should we be afraid to experiment with faith, we do it with everything else. Here are two experiments for us to try today, but don't try both of them at once—you will blow up if you try. The first is to tell the truth for four hours—you business men, tell your competitor the truth. Ladies, tell the truth about your neighbors' hats. The other is to refrain for just two hours from unkind words or thoughts about any one."

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Another piece of Shakespeare has come to town. This is Shakespeare which would cause the bard to rub his eyes and swear with all the picturesque oaths he knew that none of the things which other generations have done to his plays has quite prepared him for this.

The "Julius Cæsar" which moved into the Erlanger last night is a "Julius Cæsar" played by characters dressed in 1938 suits and topcoats, and snap brim hats, and in trim, up-to-date uniforms. And in addition to the modern dress, which has its precedents, the bloody story of conspiracy and murder and civil war is set against vague and abstract backgrounds; lighting is by beams which converge eerily at hugely dramatic moments and content themselves for the most part with adding dimly to the terror of those powerful groupings of waiting, wide-eyed men.

This is the "Julius Cæsar" produced and staged in New York last fall by Orson Welles, the 23 year old ex-Chicagoan who was mixed up in the Woodstock drama festival in this part of the country three and a half years ago. The fame of this "Julius Cæsar" and its precocious producer crossed the Hudson in a flash last September a very few hours after the rise of the first curtain. Since then this fame has raced about the country to such good purpose that Cæsar and Welles have come to be the best known names of the '37-'38 play season.

All of Shakespeare's dramatic qualities [and he had a surprisingly large number of them] are skilfully emphasized by the swiftness of the production. Scenes and acts are telescoped into one another and the headlong action is effectively punctuated by the shoutings and trampings of the changeable Roman populace. If you never thought that Shakespeare could keep you sitting on the edge of your seat, try this new and faster "Caesar" and be convinced.

There are no convenient pauses for hand clapping, but the cordial opening night audience burst again and again into the sequences with quick volleys of applause.

The total effect is extremely powerful, especially in view of the timeless political implications contained in the play. Through fear that somebody would miss the point, no trouble has been spared in driving it home. The get-up of Lawrence Fletcher, the Caesar of the cast, betrayed a resemblance that could not have been completely accidental to that of a certain middle European dictator. A uniform, and a wide swathe of hair plastered low over the forehead. However, there was no mustache, so something, at least, was left to our imagination.

Good Morning!

Lots of people—though I doubt if the number will include those who saw the stage play—are going to be mad at me for the assertion that the film, "Tovarich," is a mighty poor imitation of the "legitimate" production.

My surprise over the situation is quite as great as will be any reader's anger. For Claudette Colbert and Charles Boyer are favorites of mine, and the English version of the screen script is by Robert Sherwood, a pet author. Just the same—

The play has been cheaply Hollywood-ized. . . . Miss Colbert's performance as compared to that of Eugenie Leonovitch is most amateurish and Charles Boyer is unfortunately cast as Mikail. What was finesse on the stage has been translated into farce—and not funny farce—on the screen. Basil Rathbone, to my way of thinking, gives the photoplay its one touch of class.

The story, as you probably know, concerns the adventures of two Russian aristocrats who enter domestic service in Paris rather than use for their own needs—or turn over to the soviets—30 billion francs given them by the czar. . . . Having always been perfectly served they feel that they can serve perfectly. Assuredly this is the only sort of work to which either the grand duchess, Tatiana, or her spouse could turn their hands to.

They land in the household of Banker Dupont. Here the head of the house, his flittery wife, and two spoiled but likable young people, Helene and Charles Dupont, manage to make life complex—but interesting for them. . . . In the long run they present the money to Russia and joyously continue in the service of the Duponts.

Staging, costumes, photography, sound, etc., are commendable. Direction? I guess not. . . . Hard to tell, though, just who was responsible for the general flatness of the cinema, "Tovarich."

See you tomorrow.

SYNOPSIS.

Karen Gilbert meets Gordon Stone returning after eight years in prison. Gordon blames Lyn Gilbert, Karen's ruthless uncle, owner of Bar B B ranch, and his foreman, Curt Ford, for framing him.

INSTALMENT II.
HER UNCLE'S PAWN.

Karen walked to the door, knocked on it, and walked into a private office.

An immense man, slumped in a large, easy chair, looked at her with no sign of recognition. He had a curious resemblance to a rhinoceros. It was not only that his skin was leathery and hung in folds heavily wrinkled, that his gross body huddled into a shapeless mass. The eyes were small and beady, set in a face expressionless as an adobe wall.

"I just got in from your ranch," Karen said. "On the way I picked up a hiker."

"You'll never learn sense," he mentioned in a high falsetto. The squeaky voice coming from such a mountain of flesh was startling. It was so completely unexpected.

"He fixed a flat for me." Karen brushed aside any discussion of her imprudence to make way for more important matters. "He's just out of the penitentiary—been there for eight years."

"Dear me! You pick such interesting friends, my love," he mocked.

"Not one of yours," she flashed back. "He says you put him there, and incidentally he means to thank you personally for your kindness."

The little tawny eyes fastened on her did not move. "I've sent several scalawags to the pen in my time," Gilbert said. "For what was this guy convicted?"

"He didn't say," she answered.

"Just confined his conversation to pleasant social topics—tennis, the next club dance, that sort of thing?"

"He didn't do any talking."

"Outside of telling you he wanted to meet and thank me." On the heel of his sneer he flung out a shrill question. "Who is he? Did you find out?"

"Gordon Stone."

Karen could not have said that the expression on her uncle's face changed, but a flicker of wariness seemed to film his eyes. The news might not be a shock, but it was a warning.

"So that killer is out—and back here?"

"Is he a killer? I'm not surprised. He looks . . . explosive."

Looking down at him, the girl felt a scunner run through her, to use a word she had picked up from her Scotch mother. There was a devil of destruction in him. Whoever stood in his way he would blot out of existence if necessary. It was not only that he had no moral sense. His callousness was combined with a terrible audacity that feared neither God nor man.

Her thoughts included not only this criminal Stone returned to life from a living death. She was herself within the orbit of Lyn Gilbert's plotting, a pawn to be used in his schemes regardless of her wishes or her happiness. She had not given up. She meant to fight. But there were appalling moments when she wondered whether she would be able to escape even in this free America. He was her guardian and controlled the property left by her father. It made no difference that she was of age and had asked for an accounting, that she was independent of spirit and wanted to manage her own holdings. What she owned he held securely in his hands, even kept her ignorant of the value of the estate.

There were no illusions between them, no pretense of an affection that did not exist. Only his power over her held them together. Often rebellion churned in her, but always she recognized its futility. Of course she could walk out and leave her ranch and stock to him. It was an alternative she did not consider. She meant to stand up for her rights.

"Why did you send this man to prison?" Karen asked.

"You've mentioned the reason, my dear. He was explosive, to the point of danger—and a fool to boot."

"I wouldn't say he is a fool," the girl demurred. "You mean he was in your way and wouldn't stand aside."

He shrugged his massive rounded shoulders. "He was tried by a jury and convicted."

"Of what?"

"Of murder."

No doubt that was true. Her uncle did not tell lies likely to be discovered promptly. Given sufficient provocation, Gordon Stone looked capable of killing. There was in the man an urgent and compelling fire.

"Tell me about it," she said. "Who is this Stone?"

"He's a nephew of old John Fleming. Always was a wild and turbulent devil. He killed and robbed a man named Brock after they had quarreled about a woman. He had been annoying me for quite some time before that, so I made it my business to see the law rounded him up."

"You think he is here to make trouble?"

"Not if he knows what's good for him."

"Perhaps he has come back to help his uncle," she suggested, not without malice. Her uncle and Fleming had been enemies for half a lifetime.

"In which case I daresay he would have your good wishes, my dear," he grinned malevolently. "But it's not that way. John cast him off when he went bad."

"No. The evidence showed Stone lay back of some boulders by the roadside and shot his rival. Brock was carrying the pay roll for the Little Bessie mine. The killer took that with him."

"Circumstantial evidence?" she asked.

"An open and shut case against him. He made threats. The killing was done with his gun. He was seen close to the spot, and they found some of the loot in his roll."

Slender and erect, Karen stood frowning down at him considering the facts. It would have been impossible to find any sign of kinship between his inert stolidity and her gracious vitality. The warm glow that beat through the olive skin of the girl, together with the light in the deep gray eyes, gave the lovely face extraordinary vividness. She looked as fine and spirited as a thoroughbred colt.

Suddenly she was sick of the whole business. They were a pretty pair, spewed up from the depth of hell, both her uncle and the convict.

She turned and walked out of the office.

Walking down Jefferson street, Gordon Stone saw that there had been changes in Barranca during the years he had been shut up in prison. The dirt road had been replaced by pavement. The hitch racks and the false fronts of pioneer days were gone. Substantial brick store and office buildings lined the street, though some of the old frame ones remained.

He saw strange faces as well as some he knew. Pete Milan sat at a cobbler's bench in the same little shop, no doubt still telling stories of his days in Cuba with Teddy's Rough Riders.

Stone opened the door and walked in. "'Lo, Pete," he said.

The shoemaker stared at him, hammer in hand. "Holy smoke, it's Gord Stone," he exclaimed after a long inspection. "You've sure changed." Almost instantly he added: "Glad to see you back. Shake, Gord."

Milan's homely puckered face registered pleasure. It was his opinion that young Stone had been given a raw deal, though he had been careful not to say so too publicly. Nor was he at all sure that it was a safe thing for the released convict to return to this part of the country. There was still trouble on the range, and it would be easy for him to be dragged into it if he were not careful.

Acquisition of Good Habits Is Gradual Work

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

That good habits are not only convenient but fundamentally important for our child [whether we mean simple physical habits or character habits] we agreed yesterday. The next point, then, is one that is of interest to a great many mothers—either those who are finding themselves in difficulties with their young children, or those who are looking ahead [while their babies are little] to success in the first few years of motherhood.

They ask: "What can I do to make my child have good habits?"

The answer is going to be general today. Later I am writing several series on various habits, but this article is a sort of introduction, or better, a description of some fundamentals that will help you as you go along in managing your little boy or girl through these years when so much has to be learned.

First, get it firmly fixed in your mind that acquiring good habits is a learning process for your young child; or for your older one, either, for that matter. The habit of eating by wielding spoon and fork, of chewing and accepting new tastes and textures in foods is a learning process. We have constantly to remind ourselves that the simple routine acts, familiar to us through years of repetition, are new to a young child; such things as making a lather on chubby little hands, putting a shoe lace through the eyelets of a little moccasin, or the other acts we've mentioned.

With this angle on habits well in mind, the second suggestion is a foregone conclusion, namely, banish the idea of spanking or punishment. It isn't intelligent on your part; it doesn't appeal to your child's intelligence, and your child doesn't learn. It not only doesn't help him to acquire good habits, but it's a bad habit for you to get!

This subject will be continued tomorrow.

"Establishing the Habit of Truthfulness" is a leaflet helpful to parents and teachers. It is sent on receipt of a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

When "Morning-After Acidity" Upsets Your Stomach

WHEN YOU WAKE UP IN THE morning dull, headachy or out-of-sorts with yourself and the world, don't keep on feeling miserable. Your trouble is probably due to a night-time accumulation of excess acids that cause "morning acidity" and may lead to . . .

Constipation — Gas
Sour Stomach — Heartburn
Acid Indigestion — Loss of Appetite
Headache — or Nausea

To relieve this condition just do this: Take a little condensed JAD Salts in a glass of warm water before breakfast and almost at once you'll start to feel better.

Relief comes so delightfully fast because this sparkling pleasant drink acts on "morning acidity" two ways at once. It counteracts acidity and cleans away the toxic waste matter. As a result, it helps to make you feel fine and look fine.

Now don't endure misery—causing "morning acidity". To feel clean, keen, gloriously alive, start the day right . . . with a little JADS in a glass of warm water. Get a bottle of Condensed JAD Salts from your druggist —today!

Eyes Must Be Clear Before Makeup Use

Have eyes clear before you start to use eye makeup. It's just as important to an effective eye makeup as a smooth, clear skin is to a flattering facial makeup.

Eye makeup is becoming more and more popular for daytime as well as for evening wear, but it must be applied subtly, just enough to lend allure, never enough to give an artificial effect.

Eyebrow pencil may be used on scanty brows or those that are too fair, applied to the hair only, never to the skin beneath. When skin is darkened it gives an air of artificiality. Use eyebrow pencil to "sketch in" the brows, filling in uneven places. Do the filling in first, then brush to a natural effect. Try using the side of the pencil, and use lightly. Taper off to a point.

Mascara may be used to darken lashes. Brush from the root of the lash upward to tip. Curl lash as you brush. Tinting the lashes lends softness and allure to the eyes.

A "youthifying" and flattering trick is to smooth a few drops of oil or cream on the upper lids. It gives a moist, transparent effect. Eyeshadow blends smoothly after an application of oil or cream.

Eyeshadow is chosen to match the color of the eyes. It is applied to the upper lids only. Dot it on the center of the lid and blend with fingertips. Use it sparingly.

Eyeshadow and mascara applied to outer half of lid and lashes only tend to give a wide set look to the eyes.

For very wide set eyes, or eyes referred to as "pop eyes," blend eyeshadow from center of eye to bridge of nose.

Small eyes, without much depth, are given added expression by applying eyeshadow evenly and lightly over lids.

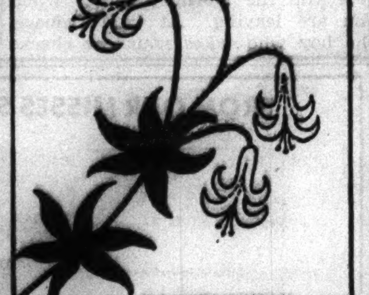
TODAY'S QUILT



Canada Lily.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The beautiful and exotic "Canada Lily," which blooms profusely in northern America from early June to late August, served as the inspiration for this dainty applique design which is as unusual as it is decorative. Soft yellow, orange, and leaf green are set against a white background. The blocks are large, measuring 17½ inches square, and 15 applique and 15 plain blocks are set together in an alternate arrangement. A one and a half inch binding serves as the border. The quilting in the plain blocks is the old acorn leaf design, while the applique blocks are quilted in outline.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

The Housewife

If you are hunting for dessert, fruit or salad plates that are delightfully new and different you'll enjoy the ones we saw displayed the other day. Each plate had a design of a huge apple, pear, or a gigantic strawberry on it in natural colors. The background was white.

Beside each place also was a large red china apple with a top that lifted off. Place mats were turquoise blue linen with fringed edges, and the tall tumblers were of turquoise Mexican glass. EDITH WEIGLE.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—The Czechoslovak minister and Mme. Hurban were hosts at a reception this afternoon celebrating the 88th anniversary of the birth of the late Thomas Garrigue Masaryk, first president of Czechoslovakia and its great statesman. Santa Barbara, where the floods were not so bad. The Philip K. Wrigleys and their children are at their Catalina Island home, surrounded by water anyway, until April. The Eugene E. Fords and his daughter, Miss Joan Ford, found rain instead of sunshine for the first few days of their vacation at Palm Springs.

Mrs. George R. Deane arrived in Pasadena at flood time to stay with friends until early April. Arthur Meeker will arrive at home Saturday from his place in Monticito. Mrs. Meeker and Arthur Meeker Jr. will return next week.

Ira C. Darlings at Chandler, Ariz.

The Ira C. Darlings chose Arizona rather than California for their winter holiday. They have gone to Chandler, where they are occupying a bungalow on the San Marcos estate that was built originally for Owen D. Young.

It must be a roomy bungalow, for the Darlings have with them their entire family, including Mrs. Leland H. Danforth and her daughter, Nancy, who live in Kenilworth; Mrs. R. Harvey Whidden and her son, who live in Kansas City, and Mrs. George V. Holloman and George Jr. of Dayton, O. Mrs. Darling's father, J. M. Cornue, of Del Mar, Cal., also is with them.

Mr. and Mrs. James Scott Kemper will leave tomorrow for California, stopping en route at Tucson, Ariz., to see Mrs. Kemper's son, Frank Stout, who is in school there.

The numbers traveling west apparently do not equal the numbers who already have gone south, or who are leaving shortly. Mrs. Caswell Alan Sharpe has gone to Nassau to be with her son, Walter G. Rodiger, of Greenwich, Conn., and his family, who have a house there for the winter. Mrs. Sharpe will return to Lake Forest May 1.

Thomas E. Wellses at Fort Lauderdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Wells are in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., until April 1. The Vaughan Spaldings are at Boca Grande, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Otis left Thursday to spend two or three weeks in Jamaica. The junior Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Otis have gone to Sea Island, Ga., for ten days. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Otis will go south at the end of the month.

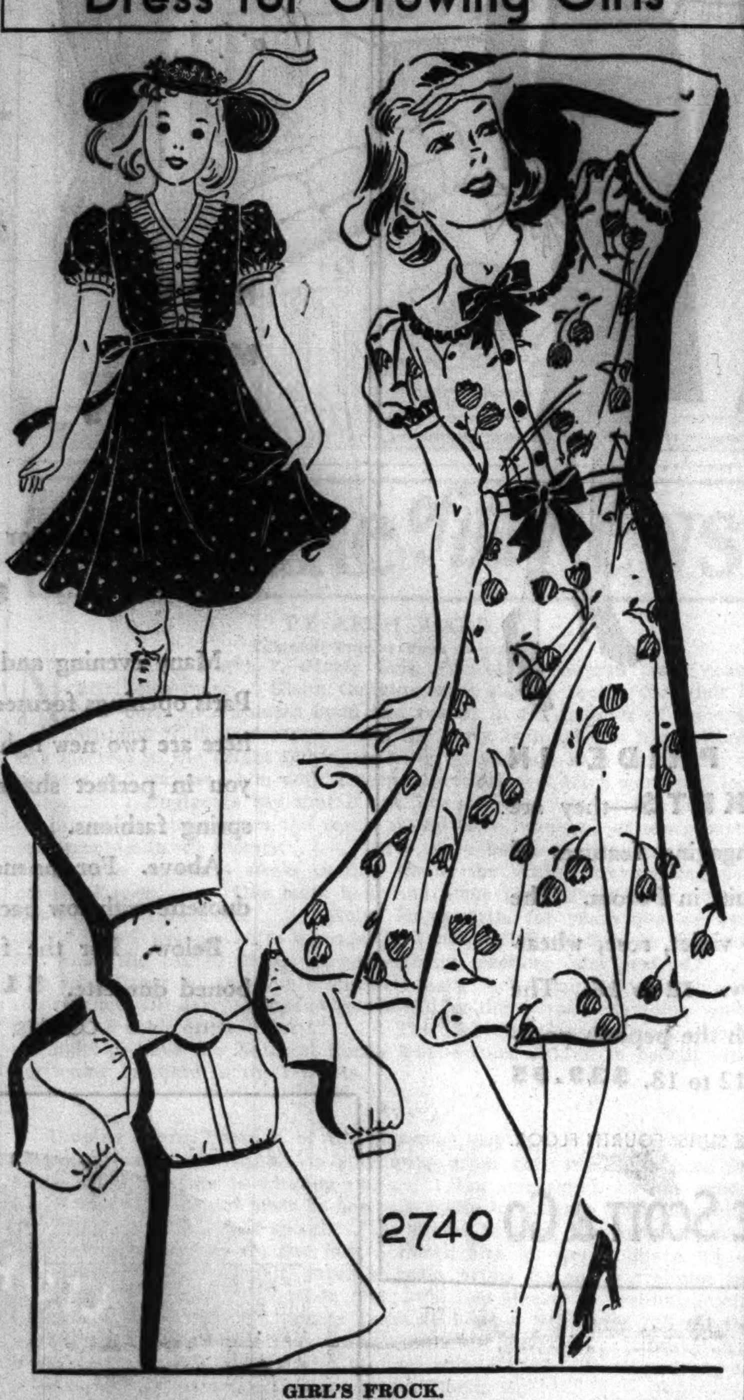
Dress for Growing Girls



GIRL'S FROCK.

The clothes problem of the growing girl is a constant tax on the ingenuity of mothers. Keeping daughter clothed adequately on a modest budget IS a problem, you will admit, but we're here to help you. The pattern offered today suggests a trim yet dressy frock which will serve for all types of occasions, even parties, and it makes up beautifully in all the inexpensive fabrics. Colorful prints with contrasting plain collars are a grand bet.

Ruffled ribbon or other trimming lends smartness to the Peter Pan collar and to the puffed sleeves. Matching buttons and bow on the belt keep up the color theme. The skirt has wide flare.

Cottons and linens are the best bets for school and everyday wear. For parties there are printed silks to be considered.

Here's another tip to mothers. If you're frightfully busy—and what mother isn't—give your energetic daughter something to do. Assist her in cutting the frock and sewing it herself. It is excellent training in dressmaking which will stand her in good stead when she reaches womanhood. The pattern today is wonderfully easy to follow.

Style No. 2740 is designed for sizes 8, 10, 12, 14, and 16 years. Size 12 requires 2⅜ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 39 inch contrasting and 1¾ yards of ruffling.

If Promising Beau Vanishes, What to Do?

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What to do when a young man extends you one invitation, which you accept and enjoy, and he overlooks the fact that you might like to hear from him a second time?

It's Eleanor's question. She did like that young man to whom she was introduced under the most pleasing circumstances. She was pleased when he asked if he might take her to the theater some evening soon; delighted when he came through with the invitation; pleased as punch when he took her to a nice dancing spot after the theater.

"But there it ended," Eleanor confieds. "No sign of anything that might have offended the young man. He asked for no kiss reward for the evening, so there was no trouble over that. He left, saying he hoped the evening would be repeated soon. But here three weeks have gone by and not a word. What is the procedure for a young woman who doesn't want to appear 'on the chase,' yet would adore seeing the man again?"

I wonder if some of you other young women would not tell us and Eleanor how you go about picking up the promised romance where the boy leaves off? Do you plan a party or something, and make it your business to see that the boy is included? Do you telephone him, suggesting that you were wondering what he was doing and why you hadn't heard from him again? Do you wangle a foursome for bridge, leaving a chair for the new interest to occupy? Or what do you do to encourage the young person?

It is reasonable to assume that the young man may be awaiting a word of encouragement. Maybe your formal aunties and uncles or parents still nurse the illusion that the man pursues at all risk. But they would be very formal aunties and parents, yes?

But you younger ones probably realize that boys are made of the same stuff as yourselves, that a little of the right sort of encouragement is relished by them, too. That competition today is pretty lively and if you remain indifferent, or seemingly so, the young man isn't going to leap hurdles to get to you. But what we want to know is what have you found the best approach under the circumstances? Naturally, you do not want to frighten a youth by ringing his 'phone and demanding to know what he means by raising your hopes and then forgetting you. That has been proved a not especially clever plan of attack.

What then?

Or, do you think it better to let the whole thing rest in the lap of the gods, praying they will arrange an early meeting at which, by your manner, you can impart the message that your life would be happier for seeing more of the young man in question?

Women's Federation Seeks School Yards for Summer Play

The Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations hopes to keep the play space in school yards open during the summer months, Mrs. Walter H. Hermsdorf, president of the organization, announced yesterday.

Mayor Kelly will be asked to recommend that the board of education consent to the free use of the yards.

Mrs. Hermsdorf said the federation would try to provide the proper personel for supervision for 90 play yards. It might be possible to get play equipment through the National Youth administration," she said. "Unless something is done many children forced to play in the streets are going to be killed by automobiles."

According to CULBERTSON

TACTICS.

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

The most difficult thing to teach a player is tactics. Hand valuation, bidding conventions, playing technique, all of these can be set down in a form that is easily absorbed. Sound tactics, however, which include partner and opponent psychology, and general strategy, seem to come to players only through experience, and considerable experience at that. Part-score situations, such as the one in today's hand, place a heavy burden on this department of tactics.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 spade
2 clubs	2 diam.	2 no trump	Pass
3 clubs	3 hearts	Double	4 diam.
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

With vulnerability and part-score conditions as they were, North's fourth hand spade bid can best be described as naive. True, North had three honor tricks, the prescribed minimum with a four card suit. Nevertheless, along tactical lines his bid was absurd, and was directly responsible for the 500 point penalty into which his partner innocently walked. There was not much to the play.

West opened the club jack. Declarer won, and attempted to get a club discard on a third round of spades. East ruffed, however, declarer discarding his club anyway and ruffing East's club return. He then led the heart queen. West covered, and the ace won. On a trump return the king covered East's jack, and West won. West laid down the spade jack, which declarer had to ruff. The heart jack was cashed, and a third round led. Now, on another club lead, declarer could discard his heart, but West made the seven of diamonds. The diamond queen accounted for the second setting trick.

To refer back to the opening bid, North should have realized, after his partner passed, that it would be almost impossible to buy the contract from the nonvulnerable opponents. Admittedly, the opponents might bid so vigorously in defense of the part-score that they could be penalized, but that was the best that North could expect. Surely he did not expect them to sell out to a low contract that would give North-South a two game rubber.

Thus, since the best that North could expect was an insignificant number of points from the defenders, and the worst, that he might incur a large penalty or drive the opponents into a makable game, his opening bid must be adjudged a particularly inept exhibition of tactics.

Merida Baffles in Strato Tour of Modernism

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exhibition of paintings and water colors by Carlos Merida, contemporary Mexican painter, is the March show in the Katharine Kuh gallery, Diana Court building. So ultra modern and intensely abstract is Merida's work that it scarcely seems worth while attributing any particular country to him.

His painting, one feels, is of international origin, sharing, too, something of the distant atmosphere of geometrics. The sphere, the circle, the line, stardust, and smoke crystals are the elements into which his conceptions easily dissolve.

One can say, truly but unkindly, that certain of these difficult passages with art look more like something upon which the muddied foot of a cherished pet has been allowed to rove at will, than like a picture. This would be your mistake. For those who appreciate the refined atmosphere of the higher circles of nonrepresentative painting it is just this work that is important.

Again, when you or I might feel that Mr. Merida's paper had been unfortunate enough to have been exposed to a blast from the exhaust of a car, that black sooty substance [to those who are in the know] is really of great and exquisite quality.

There are a few pictures which any one can see are pictures, the portrait of a lady, for one, a herd of cows for another. In these the feeling is one of primitive limitation. The color is dull and the drawing stiff in both paintings.

But these two pictures, the contents of which are easily recognized, are not as important as the many abstractions. The curious creatures and convolution of form and the manner in which these are suspended in space [color being a negligible item], these are the factors on which the painter prides himself.

Two Social Players Win Women's Pair in Eastern Bridge

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. J. A. Dykman and Mrs. L. W. Noel, two socially prominent players who never before had won a major title, today ran away with the women's pair event of the eastern bridge championships, closing event of the 1938 tournament. Their score was 201.4 match points, fourteen points ahead of the second place winners, Mrs. Robert F. S. Harris and Mrs. Arthur Hess.

The two smiling winners were presented with the big Wainwright trophy, which probably will wind up on the mantlepiece of the Crockford club, where they are inveterate players.

The two women have been playing together for several years.

Timbale cases and patty shells may be purchased in most bakeries these days, so there aren't many women who bother to make their own. Yet with the proper equipment lovely pastry cases may be made at home, and they have a delicious, crisp home made flavor.

I wouldn't advise the woman who presides over a small apartment kitchen to bother with timbale making because, as a rule, there is no space to store more than the essential pieces of equipment for everyday cooking. But if you have plenty of cupboard space and time for experimenting with cookery, and if you like to entertain, you'll find timbale making a pleasant adventure.

The new timbale irons aren't irons at all, for they are made of heavy cast aluminum. A standard set, which sells in Chicago for a dollar, consists of two molds, one a heart shape, the other a rosette, and a small cast iron kettle for the deep fat used in frying the shells.

To make a timbale case or a rosette one holds the mold by its long handle and places it in the kettle of heating fat. When the fat reaches approximately 370-375 degrees, and the iron is thoroughly hot, it is removed from the fat and dipped into a prepared batter. Then it goes quickly again into the hot fat for a few seconds, until the case or rosette is lightly browned. The cooked pastry must be slipped quickly from the iron to be drained on absorbent paper. The process is repeated as many times as there are cases to be made.

The finished shells make crisp and tender cases for all kinds of creamed meats, fish, and vegetables. Rosettes often are served with fruits or sweet sauces as dessert.

Batter for Timbales and Rosette Cases.

[Eighteen or More Cases.]
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
¾ cup milk
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1 tablespoon olive oil

Mix dry ingredients. Add milk and egg yolks gradually. Add olive oil. Let the batter stand for several hours to prevent bubbles. Pour into a cup or a small, deep bowl. Heat the iron in fat until the fat reaches a temperature of 370 to 375 degrees. Remove iron and drain it a moment on absorbent paper. Dip into batter, but do not let batter cover more than three-fourths of the iron. Sink batter covered mold into the hot fat and fry until delicately brown. [It is well to let the batter cook somewhat on the hot mold before frying. Any bubbles which appear may be broken.] Remove from fat and slip timbale from the iron. Drain inverted on absorbent paper. In making rosettes remove them from the iron as soon as sufficiently cooked to hold their shape, and drop into the hot fat to complete the frying. Otherwise they may stick to the mold. Sprinkle finished rosettes with confectioners' sugar.

It is best to use a deep fat thermometer in order to be sure that the proper temperature is maintained. If the batter does not cling to the iron the temperature is not right.

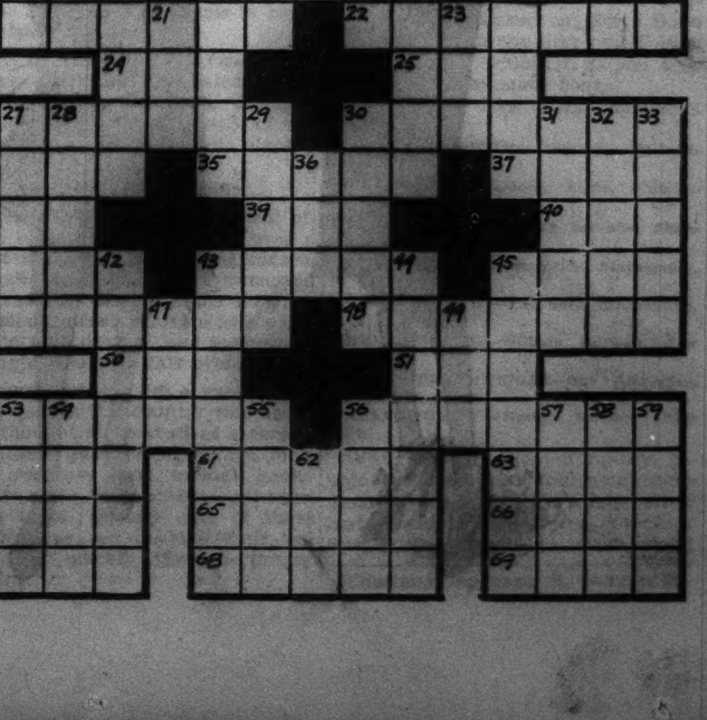
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



14,900 HIGHWAY JOBS TO OPEN UP WITHIN 30 DAYS

State Prods Contractors on 17 Million Program.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 7.—[Special.]—F. Lynden Smith, director of the department of public works, estimated this afternoon that 14,900 men will find employment in Illinois within thirty days, as the state highway department opens its 1938 construction season. As a move against the business recession, contractors are being prodded by Springfield officials to begin work earlier than usual this spring on a road building program calling for an expenditure of 17 million dollars.

Few of these new jobs will be on public pay rolls, it was explained, so that critics will not associate this highway department activity with the political campaign. Outstanding contracts call for 11 million dollars worth of paving, grading, resurfacing, and bridges. The contractors will need 3,000 men in the next thirty days and 7,000 in the next sixty days.

Estimate Based on U. S. Data.

The United States Bureau of Public roads has found that for every one man working directly on highway construction there are 1.7 men employed in the production and transportation of materials and supplies.

With pressure from the state administration to start work with the first favorable weather, contractors will have to order materials and supplies promptly.

On the basis of the U. S. Bureau of Public roads computations, 11,900 men will be needed in cement plants, gravel pits, stone quarries and the like within the next month so that 7,000 others can man shovels, scrapers, and concrete mixers within the next sixty days. The first 3,000 of these 7,000 to be employed on the right of way can be started to work the first of next month on grading and bridge jobs throughout the state and on pavements in southern Illinois where spring is a couple of weeks earlier than in Chicago.

Larger Margin of Profits.

Without this pressure from the state administration, contractors postpone highway work until after the early spring rains, which threaten profits. This year, a large number can afford this risk because 9 million dollars of outstanding contracts were awarded late in 1937 when prices were higher than at present.

Today there are a little more than 9,000 men employed on state highway work, approximately the same as for the same date a year ago. In 1937 the roll was not swelled to 16,000 until May, and it did not reach its peak of 23,325 until August.

"With the acute demand for unemployment relief," said Smith, "we hope to be in full swing on the road building program months earlier this year."

Plane Trip in Vain

Mansfield, O., March 7.—(AP)—Jay Neil Dirlam, 55 years old, building and loan company official, died of a heart ailment at his home here yesterday, unaware that two of his children, Tracy and Mary Lou Dirlam, Stanford university students, were aboard the airliner which has been missing near Fresno, Cal., since last Tuesday night.

Tracy and Mary Lou boarded the plane to hasten to the bedside of their father after he suffered a heart attack. When the ship vanished a few hours later, Dirlam was not informed for fear the news would make his condition worse.

Snow Hides Plane's Fate.

Fresno, Cal., March 7.—(AP)—Treacherous weather and the snow-filled chasms of the great Sierra Nevada range still shrouded the resting place of a TWA passenger plane and its nine occupants tonight, six days after the ship vanished in a rainstorm. There was no new clew to where the plane might be found; there was no new hope that the nine persons might survive.

WOMAN STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE DIES IN HOSPITAL

Miss Jane Howe, 33 years old, 120 East Cermak road, died yesterday in Mercy hospital of injuries suffered Feb. 28 when she was struck by an automobile as she stepped off a safety island at Indiana avenue and 21st street. The car was driven by Agis Bray, colored, 3556 Rhodes avenue.

An inquest into the death of Jeanette Goodwin, 8 years old, 2105 Huron street, who was killed Sunday in an automobile collision at Ohio street and Oakley boulevard, was continued yesterday until March 30. Her mother, Mrs. James Goodwin, and her twin sister, Bernice, who were slightly injured, attended the hearing.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 173 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county thus far this year. Of these 138 were killed in the city, where 2,996 were injured in the same period.

7 Killed When Air France Plane Crashes in India

NEW DELHI, India, March 7.—(AP)—Three French passengers and the four man crew of an Air France airliner were killed today when the plane crashed in flames near Datia, capital of the state of that name in central India. One of the passengers was a woman. The bodies of all aboard were trapped in the flaming wreckage. The plane, in the regular service between Hanoi, French Indo-China, and Paris, crashed after taking off from the town of Dum Dum in Bengal.

GEORGE DID IT, DIVORCEE TELLS SAFETY JUDGE

It wasn't her driving ability, Mrs. Angie Frederick, 23 years old, a Niles Center divorcée, told Judge J. M. Braude in Safety court yesterday. And it wasn't the beer—she only had three glasses. It was George Crowe, she said, whose attempts at love making caused his car, which she was driving, to waver down Ridge boulevard at 5:15 o'clock in the morning at fifty miles an hour. Police arrested her for reckless driving.

Crowe, who runs a tavern in Niles Center, was fined $100. Mrs. Frederick was placed on probation for six months, during which time she is not to drive a car.

Six other drivers were fined or sentenced to jail. They are:

EUGENE KANE, 4511 North Lowell avenue, reckless driving; $50 fine and a 30 day driving suspension.

THOMAS CALLAGHAN, 8243 South May street, drunken driving; $150 fine and a six month driving suspension.

SIGNAL IN ROOM TEACHES YOUNG PUPILS SAFETY

Although there are no trafic lights in the immediate vicinity of the Bright Elementary school at 10740 Calhoun avenue, first grade pupils of Miss Genevieve E. Dwyer will know what to do when they see one.

Miss Dwyer, impressed by the number of trafic fatalities involving young children, is teaching her pupils what the trafic lights mean when they flash red, green, or yellow.

A miniature trafic signal is set up in the center of her schoolroom. The floor is chalked off into "street" and "sidewalk." The children, singly or in couples, come to the sidewalk and, as the lights flash, she holds up cards labeled "stop," "get ready" or "go."

JOB TO INCLUDE FULL CHARGE OF BASKETBALL

Franklin Cappon.

Princeton, N. J., March 7.—[Special.]—The appointment of Franklin C. Cappon, assistant director of athletics at the University of Michigan since 1930, as head basketball coach and football back field coach of Princeton university was announced tonight by Prof. Burnham N. Dell, chairman of the university council on athletics.

Tonight's announcement from the council offices completed Princeton's football coaching staf, inasmuch as Dr. Dell also made public the appointment of Edgar L. Walker, head coach at the University of Mississippi, as end coach, and Charles B. Ceppi, tackle at Princeton in 1933, as line coach.

The new assistants were named, Prof. Dell stated, upon the recommendation of Head Coach Elton E. [Tad] Wieman, who will formally replace Fritz Crisler a week from today with the opening of spring practice.

Other vacancies here were created by the resignations of Campbell Dickson, end coach, and Earl Martineau, back field coach, both of whom accompanied Crisler to Michigan.

Cappon Succeeds Fairman.

While the terms of the contracts were not published, it was pointed out that Michigan and Mississippi have granted leaves of absences to Cappon and Walker, respectively, so that they may be on hand for the spring session. Ceppi, now completing a four-year medical course at Syracuse university, will be unable to devote full time to the spring period.

In basketball Cappon will succeed R. Kenneth Fairman, whose retirement from the coaching post at the completion of the current season was announced last fall when he was named acting graduate manager of athletics. Since 1931 Cappon has produced winning varsity combinations at Michigan.

OOSTERBAAN MAY GET JOB.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 7.—[Special.]—University of Michigan athletic authorities are expected to issue an announcement tomorrow to the effect that Bennie Oosterbaan, now a member of the Wolverine football coaching staf, will be appointed to succeed Franklin Cappon as basketball coach.

An announcement that Wally Weber is to retain his place on the football staf is also expected.

"I deem it a high honor to be invited to join Princeton's coaching staf," Cappon said tonight. "I enthusiastically welcome the opportunity of again being associated with Tad Wieman, whose exceptional ability and sterling character I have always held in highest esteem. Fielding Yost, Michigan athletic director, has granted me a leave of absence for the duration of spring practice which begins at Princeton next Monday."

NEW YORK, March 7.—Matty Geis, Princeton's veteran track coach, attributes most of Glenn Cunningham's success to the fact that he was born on a Kansas farm and reared in the manner of the west without frills or fanfare. . . . His early training left him without any interest in the bright lights, cheering crowds and hero worshiping associates and endowed him with a deep appreciation of hard work and long sleep. . . . Ann Arbor, Mich., March 7.—[Special.]—The University of Michigan defeated Northwestern tonight, 30 to 22, to end the Western conference basketball season.

Michigan's victory gave it a record of six and six and raised it to a tie for fifth place in the conference while Northwestern, with seven triumphs and five losses, dropped to a tie for third place.

A tightly woven Michigan defense which smothered Wildcat passing in the second half gave Michigan its final edge after it had led at half time, 17 to 16. Northwestern did not score until after more than fifteen minutes of play in the second period, when Les Harman connected on a shot from outside the foul circle.

Townsend Breaks a Record.

Capt. John Townsend of the Wolverines celebrated his last college appearance by shattering the all time Michigan scoring record for a season in conference competition. He made five field goals and three free throws. His thirteen points gave him a season's total of 135 points, to eclipse the mark of 129 made by Bennie Oosterbaan in 1928. It also gave Townsend Michigan's three year record with a total of 366 points.

Michigan Clinches It.

Michigan pulled away with four minutes gone in the second period on a one hand shot by Beebe and added eight more points to clinch the game before the Wildcats connected. Nagode followed his long shot with another goal on a quick break under the basket but the Wildcats did not score again until the final minute of play when Harman tapped in Vance's free throw attempt.

Secondary awards were announced for Russ Dobson, Dave Wood, Bob Palmer, and Fred Trosko.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 7.—Prince Bernhard Zu Lippe-Biesterfeld, husband of Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, has instructed the Dutch legation here to inquire into the whereabouts of his cousin, Gottfried von Cramm, Germany's highest ranking tennis player. Dutch diplomats say they understand Von Cramm, who returned to Munich from a world tour last week, was arrested by the GSP [secret police] on "suspicion of moral delinquencies."

Authorities stated today that Von Cramm had been summoned to police headquarters "for clarification and examination, pending which he was held in custody."

Police declined to divulge the exact nature of the charges or the place or time the arrest took place, nor would they reveal where Von Cramm is being held. Von Cramm arrived in Munich on Friday in the company of his Davis cup teammate, Heiner Henkel.

Attends Homecoming Fête.

There they were accorded an official reception in celebration of their homecoming from an Australian tennis tour. Henkel then came to Berlin and Von Cramm supposedly left for Hanover, apparently bound for his home near Hildesheim. He never reached there.

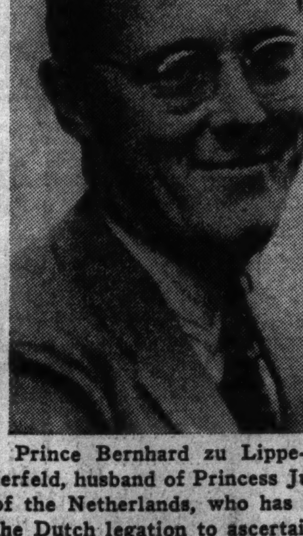
Von Cramm comes from a Nazi family and is typically Nordic in appearance, but his wife, the former Lisa Van Doberneck, is the granddaughter of a wealthy Jew, Louis Hagen, according to statements by Von Cramm's friends. It is reported that the money inherited from his wife's side of the family afforded Von Cramm the leisure to develop his tennis ability.

PLAYED IN CHICAGO.

Baron Gottfried Von Cramm and his German Davis cup teammate, Heiner Henkel, visited Chicago last September to play a series of exhibition matches against Donald Budge and Gene Mako of the American Davis cup squad. The matches were held at the Onwentsia club in Lake Forest.



Prince Bernhard zu Lippe-Biesterfeld, husband of Princess Juliana of the Netherlands, who has asked the Dutch legation to ascertain the whereabouts of his cousin, the imprisoned Von Cramm.

Previously Von Cramm had competed in the national tournament at Forest Hills, N. Y., where he was runnerup to Budge in the singles. Earlier he had teamed with Henkel to win the United States doubles. During the 1937 season he also was runnerup to Budge for the British championship at Wimbledon and gave him a terrific match before losing in the interzone finals of the Davis cup competition.

Runnerup to Perry.

Von Cramm, who is 28 years old, has been listed among the ten leading players of the world since 1932, being rated second for the last two seasons. He was runnerup to Fred Perry of England in 1936 and to Budge in 1937.

Von Cramm has won the German championship four times, the French championship twice, and has reached the final round at Wimbledon three times and at Forest Hills once.

GRIMM SELECTS BATTING ORDER; COLLINS MISSING

Cavarretta Gets Call at First Base.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March. 7.—As the first step in preparation for the opening of intracamp games on Wednesday, Manager Charley Grimm today split the Cub squad into two sections. There was more or less eagerness to learn how the boss had constructed the so-called regulars, but he offered no surprises. He picked a layout strangely similar to the one in use when the Wrigley field occupants were sloughing off a seven game lead last August and September.

What Grimm failed to do, and this was what caused the surprise, was cast a couple of the outfield rookies who have been highly touted, in rôles with the first team. These supposedly prize freshmen are Jim Asbell, and Herman Triplett, delegates from the Southern association who were picked up in the fervent hope that at least one of them would help to solve the Cubs' outfield problem. Of course, Grimm's choice is not final.

This Seems Very Familiar.

Placing Cavarretta on first base indicates Grimm hasn't weakened on returning the Italian to the infield as a reward for his work late last season. Rip Collins, who had the front door to himself until he experienced an ankle fracture last August, must perform with the goofs or whatever the second team will be called. Giving O'Dea the call over Hartnett shows that Grimm also is hoping to go through with the scheme to prime the former to take the place of Gabby, who is getting along in years.

Now It's a Laboratory.

During the workout today Ducky Drake, the Cub's contact man, announced that the club is going to try something new in baseball. A laboratory is to be opened and in the future the harvesting of budding stars will be simple.

The idea is so fantastic it might be best to attempt an explanation in the words used by Ducky in his copies to the press as follows in part:

"A fully equipped, scientific baseball research laboratory under general supervision of Coleman Griffith of the University of Illinois is being established by the Cubs.

"Mr. Griffith will supervise the activities, which will be located in Chicago under the immediate direction of John E. Sterrett, recently of the University of Iowa athletic department.

It's All Very Scientific.

"The laboratory operators will attempt to develop information over a period of time as to personal, muscular, and mental attributes possessed by great ball players. This information should prove valuable as a yardstick to both baseball and youngsters seeking a career in this profession.

"There probably are a great many young men in this country who never have thought of baseball as a career, who possess just the proper eye, muscular response, and mental equipment to make them professional baseball players. Usually men of these qualifications can develop their talents very quickly through proper coaching."

3 PHILADELPHIA BOXERS TO FACE CHICAGO SQUAD

17,599 See Finals in Garden.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 7.—The fistic dreams of eight young men came true in Madison Square Garden tonight. They were the winners in the twelfth annual Golden Gloves tournament conducted by the New York Daily News Welfare association, an event that attracted 8,700 entrants in territory stretching from Florida to Maine.

Three for Philly.

The New York tournament proved that Manhattan and the other boroughs which make up the nation's greatest city no longer monopolize the east's fighting talent. Only two of the eight champions are from Greater New York. Philadelphia gained three titles when William Speary, John Aiello, and Tony Saraullo won the flyweight, bantamweight, and featherweight championships in succession. The boys from the City of Brotherly Love almost made it a sweep when their fourth candidate, Vincent Gallotto, dropped a split decision to Phil Shea of Binghamton, N. Y., in the welterweight final.

As usual, Golden Gloves attracted the crème de la crème of New York's social, business, political, entertainment and sporting fields. Broadway stage, radio and night club celebrities spiced the ringside, primping for batteries of newsreelers and radio hookups. Hollywood lovelies, Washington and New York big shots sat elbow to elbow with Hell's Kitchen and Park avenue residents.

Barney Was There.

Among the 17,599 customers were Dolores Del Rio and Gladys Swarthout. Benny Fields and his wife, Blossom Seeley, celebrated their 20th wedding anniversary at the ring side. Eleanor Holm, stormy petrel of the 1936 Olympics, was one of the early arrivals. So was Billy Rose.

Seated in one group were Guy Lombardo, Abe Lyman, Eddie Davis, Jack White, Sheila Barrett, Frank Chapman and Tommy Manville. Nearby were Mike Jacobs, Tex Rickard's successor as No. 1 promoter, and Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling. Barney Ross, welterweight champion, was telling one and all that he didn't care how good New York's team was. Chicago's would be better. Tony Galento, Bob Olin and Fred Apostoli were there to see if there were any amateurs coming along to crowd their professional standing, if any.

The guest of honor was Judge Samuel E. Hoyt of New Haven, national president of the Amateur Athletic Union. Col. Jake Ruppert, who likes hitters, got his fill watching the east's finest sluggers. Others whose voices occasionally rose above the ringside chatter were Peggy Hopkins Joyce, Bill Robinson, Jimmy Braddock, Frances Farmer, and Willie Hoppe.

Novices Provide Action.

The New York team will open training tomorrow for the intercity bouts. Chicago's champions, who will not be crowned until Friday night, will have only nine days to get ready for their invasion of the Garden.

There was more action in the novice finals than in the open round. Jerry Fiorillo of New York, 147 pounder, put up a whirlwind offense to stop Dan Gill in the third round. Gill, who works 12 hours a day for $1.50 picking tobacco leaves in Georgia, never had worn shoes until he entered Golden Gloves. Fiorillo couldn't knock him off his feet, but he had the southerner in such distress that the referee put an end to the uneven contest.

The first open division contest produced the classiest fighter on the New York team. He was Speary, 1937 New York and Intercity champion. He was the only champion from last year's squad to survive the 1938 tournament. He knocked out Steve Bono of New York in the first round after as finished an exhibition as you ever will see in an amateur bout.

BANTAMWEIGHT—John Aiello, Philadelphia.
FEATHERWEIGHT—Tony Sarauilo, Philadelphia.
LIGHTWEIGHT—Steve Kukol, Binghamton, N. Y.
WELTERWEIGHT—Phil Shea, Binghamton, N. Y.
MIDDLEWEIGHT—William Addison, New York.
LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT—Gus Alexander, Trenton, N. J.
HEAVYWEIGHT—Harry Mullins, New York.

With the exception of Speary, tonight's contests produced no extraordinary punchers. The only other match which ended in a knockout was William Addison's three round

DISPUTE OVER OLYMPIC GAMES FLARES UP AGAIN

Japanese Ranks Split; British Reiterate Views.

LONDON, March 7.—(AP)—Japan's internal dispute over the advisability of playing host to the Olympic games two years hence flared anew today as British olympic officials reiterated their opposition to Tokio as a site for the games.

War Minister General Gen. Sugiyama precipitated a new argument over the Olympic situation by announcing, at Tokio, the military authorities had decided to prohibit soldiers on the active list from taking part in the games and recommending that the games be canceled entirely if the Chinese-Japanese conflict continues.

This view brought an immediate protest from Prof. Jigoro Kano, Japanese delegate en route to Cairo for the international Olympic committee meeting opening at Cairo Thursday.

British Favor Shift.

"I know of no reason for any one saying anything about abandoning the games," Prof. Kano said at Alexandria, Egypt. "The war in China? that's nothing."

Meanwhile Lord Aberdare, British delegate to the I. O. C. meeting, reaffirmed his intention of opposing Tokio as a site for the games if an occasion arises during the ten-day session.

"The fact that Japan herself is wondering whether she will be able to hold the games makes the I. O. C.'s position difficult," Lord Aberdare said. "Just the same it is Japan's privilege to keep the games if she wants them."

[The British A. A. A. recently adopted a resolution boycotting the 1940 games if they are held in Tokio, basing its opposition on the Japanese-Chinese war.]

Japanese sources in London revealed that Japan was waiting on developments at the Cairo meeting before issuing invitations to the 1940 games. If opposition is not too great at Cairo, the invitations, which already have been printed, will be mailed.

Get German-Italian Support.

Though Great Britain will be in the opposition camp, Japan will be able to count upon Italy and Germany during the Cairo sessions, it was indicated today.

Italy's political friendship with Japan probably will mean a neutral delegation from Rome to the I. O. C. meeting.

The German delegation, leaving Berlin for Cairo, expressed the opinion that the fate of the 1940 games was "up to Japan."

EDDIE WILLIAMS TO BE GOLF PRO AT BRYN MAWR

Eddie Williams, Elgin professional, yesterday was appointed professional at the Bryn Mawr Country club succeeding Frank Walsh. Williams was formerly with the River Forest Country club.

Douglas Tweedie has severed his connection with A. G. Spalding & Brothers after 31 years of service. He has gone to Florida for a few weeks of golf. Douglas is the son of Herbert J. Tweedie, one of the pioneers of golf in Chicago.

Howard Brundage, president of Butterfield Country club has accepted a place on the board of directors of the Chicago District Golf association, filling the vacancy, occasioned by the death of Thomas L. Grace, who also represented Butterfield.

Mackerel Give Anglers Thrills in Florida Waters

BY BOB BECKER.

With the mackerel and kingfish on the move in Florida waters the fishermen who like to use light tackle are having their fun these days. Both of these salt water species are geared for high speed, so it's lots of fun hooking them and playing them on light tackle.

When we had a chance to play with the mackerel and sea trout a short time ago near Punta Gorda, Florida, we struck large specimens which had us all tangled up at times, because the big fellows seemed to take a running start before they banged our lure and then kept right on going.

We found a good sized school of mackerel playing ring around the rosey with countless minnows. Our boatman dropped anchor close by. Then we started in with a tubular steel casting rod [Chicago made], a bait casting reel and a 15 pound thread silk line. The mackerel would hit small feather lures or a spoon. If any one had a live shrimp around it wasn't safe to take it out of the bucket, as the fish would all but climb aboard to swat a shrimp of any form or size.

While some of the fishermen have been going after mackerel and trout on light tackle others have been getting tarpon on the west coast.

One of the best fishing experiences of the season to come up from Florida waters concerns a Chicago angler, Henry Windsor, Chicago publisher. Windsor and Atherton W. Hobler of Connecticut were fishing together near Cat Cay, the island near Bimini owned by L. K. Wasey of Chicago. A blue marlin hit Windsor's bait. It stripped off 300 yards of line at the start.

While Windsor was trying to take up the slack a big marlin took Hobler's bait. Both men fought their fish desperately for forty minutes so that their lines would not cross. Finally, licked, a marlin came to the top. Then it was found that both Windsor and Hobler were hooked into the same marlin which weighed 398 pounds!

35 Sprinters Will Race in Big Ten Meet

Although the Big Ten conference no longer has such flashy sprinters as Grieve of Illinois, Collier of Indiana and Stoller of Michigan, there are two undefeated dash men who will oppose each other in the twenty-eighth annual track meet to be held in the University of Chicago fieldhouse Friday and Saturday.

John Davenport of Chicago and Roger Verran of Minnesota are undefeated in both conference and nonconference dual meets this season. Verran has been timed three times in :06.3 and once in :06.4 in the sixty yard dash. Davenport, a sophomore, has won all his races this season in :06.4.

Allan Smith of Michigan, who took third place in the conference indoor sixty yard dash a year ago, has been out of competition for a month because of illness and is not expected to be in top shape for the meet.

Thirty-Five on List.

There are thirty-five entries in this year's sixty yard dash, including twelve who ran a year ago. Of that group, however, Smith is the only returning point winner.

Besides Davenport, Verran and Smith, a number of others have done :06.4 or better. They are William Lehman of Illinois, Bob Lewis of Ohio, John Allen and Fred Elliott of Indiana, Bill Watson of Michigan, Ed Wiggins of Iowa and Jim Delaney of Northwestern.

Watson, who holds both Big Ten shot put records and who scored three firsts for Michigan in the 1937 outdoor meet, is expected to add at least one foot to his present indoor record of 50 feet, 4¼ inches. It is not unlikely that he will send the shot to the 53 foot mark.

Others Are Only Fair.

The shot put field, however, will be devoid of close competition. Krezowski of Minnesota, Christianson of Wisconsin, Harris of Iowa and Wise of Indiana, point winners last year, all have been graduated. The second place winner this year probably will be five or six feet behind Watson's mark.

Thompson of Hawks Takes Scoring Lead

Paul Thompson's play last Thursday against the Boston Bruins and Sunday against the Montreal Maroons sent the Blackhawk wing to the top of the scorers of the United States section, three points ahead of Cecil Dillon of the New York Rangers, official statistics revealed yesterday.

Thompson made six points in the two games on two goals and four assists. Mush March, a Blackhawk teammate, kept pace with Thompson. The little right wing made two goals and three assists to bring his point total up to 28. Barring injuries that kept him from eleven games, March might be well up among the leaders.

In preparation for Thursday's game against the Montreal Canadiens, which will close the Hawks' home schedule, Manager Bill Stewart will hold practice at the Stadium today and tomorrow.

Doc Romnes, barred by club physicians at the last minute Sunday night, will be available for the remainder of the schedule. Romnes' presence is important if the Hawks are to maintain their two game lead over the Detroit Red Wings in the race to qualify for the Stanley cup finals.

Senior Fives to Play Today for Place in Finals

Contests deciding junior and senior finalists in Chicago public high school basketball competition will be played today and tomorrow.

The north division senior quintets of Schurz and Von Steuben meet in the Lane Tech gymnasium today, having gained the semi-finals with victories over Marshall and Kelvyn Park, both of the west section.

Silverstein Evades Holds of Von Schacht to Win

Ruffy Silverstein was awarded the decision over Friedrich Von Schacht in a special fifteen minute match last night in White City. By agreement between the wrestlers, Von Schacht was to lose if he could not toss Silverstein in fifteen minutes. Ruffy kept away from his foe and, though outpointed, was on his feet at the finish. Joe Corbett defeated Fred Grubmier in thirty-seven minutes, the latter being counted out after a fall from the ring. Walter Palmer threw Jack Roberts in 18:16, and Ken Fenlon threw Charley Fox in 16:27.

WYATT PUNCHES WAY TO VICTORY AGAINST BOLDEN

Scores 16th Triumph in Last 17 Starts.

King Wyatt, Fort Wayne fighter, made it sixteen victories in his last seventeen stars by defeating Nate Bolden in eight rounds in Marigold Gardens last night.

Wyatt, who won the Golden Gloves welterweight title three years ago, survived a stormy fifth round to continue his march. All three officials, Referee Davey Miller, and Judges Ed Hintz and John Bray, voted, 43 to 37, for Wyatt. Wyatt weighed 154¾ pounds to Bolden's 158.

Gamblers Are Stopped.

The gambling problem, which is becoming a nuisance to Co-promoters Irving Schoenwald and Jack Begun, was solved by the presence of a gambling detail. It was reported not a single quarter changed hands during the show. As a consequence, the 1,289 paid customers did not have to listen to the petty bickerings of the betters as has been the rule in the past.

Gross receipts were $1,507.00.

Billy Celebron of Rockford scored his third victory as a middleweight when he stopped Nick Nicholson of Indianapolis in the fourth round of a match set for eight. The boys battled on even terms in the first, but in the next round Nicholson ran into a series of rights to the head which floored him twice. Referee Davey Miller stopped the bout.

Milling Wins Easily.

American Bowling congress leaders held their positions during yesterday's minor event in the Coliseum and what there was of excellent bowling was produced by two youngsters from Salamanca, N. Y.

The only important change of the day in the doubles competition was scored by Ed Hook and Bill Smith, Grays Lake, Ill., who moved into eighth place in the standings with 1,189. However, had the Salamanca youngsters, Bill Solarek and Elmer Funk, who were receiving their A. B. C. baptism, shot their individual totals in the doubles class, they would have vaulted to the top spot in the two man division.

Shoot Day's High Singles.

After chalking up a mediocre 1,148 doubles score, the Salamanca bowlers found the range and rolling side by side clicked off the two best singles performances of the day.

Solarek shot a consistent series of 213, 205, 213 to bag a prize winning 631 total while his partner put together games of 237, 213, 194 for 644 to top the day's solo card. The combined totals, 1,275, would have placed the pair sixty-seven pins ahead of the present leaders, Joe Colombo and Jules Bennetti, Clinton, Ind., who scored 1,209.

Unable to Roll With Mates.

Solarek was unable to roll with his Salamanca mates in the five man event, due to an A. B. C. ruling, which prohibits more than one pro—either bowling alley owner or manager—to roll in the same lineup. The 23 year old bowler preceded his 631 singles count with a 605 doubles score but his rating totals will not bring any extra compensation in the all events division, as he was unable to roll in the main event.

Chicago and Elgin teams will take over the drives today, the entire group of 140 teams being listed in the booster division.

The opening shift will take the drives at 5 p. m. and will be followed at two hour intervals until the final at [illegible] p. m.

Giants Line Up Moore; Expect Bartell Today

Baton Rouge, La., March 7.—(AP)—Manager Bill Terry today announced the signing of Joe Moore, New York Giants' outfielder who had been regarded as a holdout.

The salary was not announced, but it was estimated at $12,500, or a raise of $500. Terry said Dick Bartell, the only other Giant holdout, would arrive tomorrow for a conference. Manager Terry said he was not interested in acquiring Buddy Hassett from Brooklyn. Grapevine reports had it that a trade was in the offing whereby the Giants would exchange Gus Mancuso for Hassett and some cash.

CARDS PRACTICE SLIDING.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—Manager Frankie Frisch sent the St. Louis Cardinals through sliding practice today—the first of the spring camp—and expressed pleasure at the speed with which the players were working off their winter accumulation of fat.

"I'd rather see the boys underweight when they complete spring training in the south," he said. "They'll gain when they swing north."

GRIMES GOES CALLING.

STREET USES A WHISTLE.

San Antonio, Tex., March 7.—(AP)—Gabby Street blew his whistle at fifteen minute intervals today as the St. Louis Browns opened spring training. Each whistle meant the players must run around the park.

Nearly all the players reporting were pitchers and catchers. Infielders and outfielders are due next Monday.

HEATH SNUBS INDIANS.

YANK REGULARS ARRIVE.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—The second squad of New York Yankees joined the early arrivals today, and the world champions performed for the newsreel cameramen for an hour before settling down to serious practice.

Frank Crosetti, Babe Dahlgren, and Bill Knickerbocker, all infielders, were in uniform for the first time. Crosetti, at 167 pounds, reported heavier than he has been in years, and said he was glad to have the extra weight. Outfielder Ernie Koy arrived after the workout, completing the squad, except for the noted holdouts, Joe Di Maggio and Lou Gehrig.

PIRATES SIGN BRUBAKER.

Arky Vaughan, hard hitting shortstop, is expected later this week for a salary conference. Southpaw Pitcher Ed Brandt, the only other holdout, got to camp today, but didn't see the boss.

MYER PLEASES HARRIS.

Orlando, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—A physical comeback by Second Baseman Buddy Myer inspired Manager Bucky Harris today to predict Buddy would win third place in the Washington Senators' batting lineup this year.

Myer, who led the league in batting in 1935 but had a poor season last year, reported at the training camp ten pounds heavier at 170.

REDS PLAY GAME TOMORROW.

Tampa, Fla., March 7.—(AP)—Manager Bill McKechnie sent fifty Reds through a strenuous practice today. Intra-club games will start Wednesday, McKechnie said.

WHITNEY READY TO REPORT.

Mosconi Beats Diehl to Tie Ponzi for Billiard Lead

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Willie Mosconi of Philadelphia again went into a tie with his townsman, Andrew Ponzi, for the first place in the world pocket billiard tournament tonight when he beat Joe Diehl of Rockford, Ill., 125 to 121. It was Mosconi's fourth consecutive victory.

M'KEEVER DEATH REVIVES PUZZLE OF DODGERS' FATE

New York, March 7.—(AP)—The death of Stephen W. McKeever, 83 year old president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, led to speculation over what will be the next step in the reorganization of the club. McKeever died early today of pneumonia following a week's illness.

James Mulvey, McKeever's son-in-law and vice president and secretary, is the likely choice to head the organization, which has been in a continual state of turmoil since 1925.

The heirs of Charles H. Ebbets, who own 50 per cent of the stock, and the Brooklyn Trust company are other factors to be considered. The trust company, which through mortgages, loans, and liens is said to hold virtual control of the baseball property, may want to sell the club. Its president, George V. McLaughlin, opposed any sale during McKeever's lifetime.

Take Half for Loan.

There has been little peace in the club since Ebbets and Edward J. McKeever, brother of Stephen, died within a few months of each other in 1925. The two McKeevers had obtained half interest in the club in 1912 in consideration of a loan, which helped the Dodgers out of financial difficulty.

McKeever became treasurer and Wilbert Robinson, who had been managing the team since 1914, was named president. Robinson and McKeever soon split. The situation became so bad that John Heydler, the president of the National league, was called in as mediator.

Heydler Takes Hand.

Heydler broke the deadlock in 1929 by installing Walter [Dutch] Carter, old Yale star, as a fifth or neutral member of the board of directors. Carter, in effect, represented the league. McKeever was elected president in 1932, but the club failed to improve.

Funeral services for McKeever will be held at 10 a. m. Thursday in the St. Francis of Assissi church, Brooklyn.

Honorary bearers will include Commissioner K. M. Landis, Ford C. Frick, president of the National league; Gov. Herbert Lehman, Mayor league; the presidents of the other seven clubs of the league; Gov. Herbert Lehman, Mayor Fiorella La Guardia, Borough President Raymond V. Ingersoll, and Postmaster General James Farley.

New Baseball Dead? Not if Robot Connects

Wheeling their mechanical home run swatter out to Griffith stadium, bureau of standards experts loaded it up with American and National league balls and aimed it at the far flung fences.

The very first shot was a dandy—it cleared the center field fence, soared over the bleachers and fell beyond the wall—the longest base hit ever banged out in the American league park.

Move Back the Fences.

"We've got to tame the machine down," said Dr. H. L. Dryden, "or it'll bankrupt us."

Balls Don't Really Matter.

Along about the seventh inning they came to their first conclusion—that the much talked of difference between the two big league balls is not enough to count scientifically.

They all flew about the same distance from home plate.

"The science of the home run," Dryden said, "is hard to pin down. Give me two baseballs and I can prove almost anything. The emphasis should be on the batter, not the ball."

Covers and stitches—long discussed as the reasons for the liveliness or deadness of the balls—are but trifles in hitting, he explained.

MOLYNEAUX TO TAKE PLACE OF INJURED COULTER

New York, March 7.—(AP)—Larry Molyneaux, defense man of the Philadelphia Ramblers, will replace the injured Art Coulter in the New York Rangers' lineup when the Blueshirts meet the Toronto Maple Leafs in a National Hocky league game at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Although he has six years' professional experience, it will be the first big-time chance for the 200 pound Canadian youngster. Coulter suffered a severe charley horse in the game with the Americans last night. The extent of the injury has not yet been determined.

DYKES PLEASED; HIS SOX MAKE WPA LOOK BAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 7.—The White Sox seemed to have an enormous amount of pepper today in their third workout of the training season. WPA workers were back from the floods and again engaged in the improvement of Brookside park, Sox's training camp. Their presence may have made the Sox look faster than they really were.

Manager James Dykes said the contrast between WPA and Sox didn't fool him any—that it really was a dandy workout and had taken the lads out of the stiffness phase of their preparatory endeavor. He said all the pitchers would be ready to throw plenty of stuff at the batsmen, who are scheduled to arrive here Wednesday. James also allowed he would have a full team of able bodied fellows to play in an exhibition game arranged for next Sunday.

Bob Uhle, George Gick, and Jess Dobernic are slated to pitch. Mr. Dykes said he might start his regular infield, but soon would replace the vets with Rupert Thompson at first, Jesse Landrum at second, Boze Berger at short, and Bill Martin at third. Second squaders will play the outfield. Thompson is the only outfielder here and he's been working out at first base pending word on the perennial Bonura holdout nuisance.

Incidentally rumors have reached camp that Zeke may show up Thursday. He has been instructed not to do so unless he is prepared to sign his contract. If Zeke is tardy he will have to pay all his training expenses, according to Vice President Harry Grabiner.

Marvin Owen, veteran third base star obtained in the big winter deal with the Detroit Tigers, reached camp at noon today and hurried to the ball park.

NOBLE B. JUDAH LEAVES ESTATE TO 2 DAUGHTERS

Trust Fund Established; Will Probated.

The will of Col. Noble Brandon Judah, former ambassador to Cuba and world war veteran, was filed for probate yesterday with Mitchell C. Robin, clerk of the Probate court. Col. Judah died on Feb. 26.

The bulk of the estate, under terms of the will, is to be held in trust for his two adopted daughters, Ann Patterson Judah and Katharine Patterson Judah. It will be impossible to make an estimate of the value of the estate for several weeks, according to Alexander F. Reichmann, a member of the law firm of Judah, Reichmann, Trumbull, Cox and Stern.

Two Employés Remembered.

The estate is expected to be large, however, despite the heavy settlement of property and money Col. Judah made to his former wife at the time of their divorce in 1933.

In addition to the trust fund for the daughters, Col. Judah left $5,000 to Miss Alice G. McIntyre, his office secretary, and $2,500 to Martin Feher, who was his orderly in France during the world war and later his chauffeur.

Arthur M. Cox of the law firm and the Northern Trust company were named joint executors and the trust company was appointed trustee.

Miss Abel's Will Probated.

The will of Miss Minnie Abel, 3240 Sheridan road, was admitted to probate yesterday by John F. Keeley, assistant to the probate judge. Her estate was valued at more than $600,000, the bulk of which will go in trust to the Uhlich orphan home, 3730 North California avenue. Income from the trust will maintain a memorial building given to the home several years ago by Miss Abel's brother, Edward, a manufacturing chemist, who died in 1929.

In addition, the will leaves trusts of $12,000 each to a cousin of Miss Abel, to her chauffeur and for the upkeep of a mausoleum. The First National bank is executor and trustee through A. S. Thorwaldson, assistant trust officer.

ORSON WELLES: Lots of listeners who have been cheering all winter for your work as the Shadow on W-G-N-Mutual are not aware you still are in New York awaiting a new arrival in the Welles household. Watch out for those student hecklers who will be cutting in on your company's modern Shakespeare forum over W-G-N at 4:15 p. m. today from the Erlanger. We shall be glad to hear your voice over the Mutual lines from New York.

EDDIE CANTOR: That was a grand gesture—your offer to take over any of the Hollywood show periods last Thursday night with your own troupe in New York in case they had been unable to go on because of the floods. . . . Listeners are cheering because Bobby Breen is back with you. Lots of luck on your forthcoming Monday evening show under new sponsorship.

WALT DISNEY: Most everybody seems to be getting a big kick out of your Mickey Mouse air series, but could you have Donald Duck use a throat lozenge? If he would clear that voice up a bit everybody could understand him.

ETTA MOTEN: Words of praise for you are filtering into this corner. While we missed you yesterday reports coming in contend that you were at your best in "March Down to Jordan" on the Cabin at the Crossroads show yesterday morning. And we hear that your dress rehearsal of "Summertime" yesterday which you are to sing today was really fine!

DANIEL DOHERTY, American Legion commander: Reports here are that you have lined up Jack Benny, Dick Powell, Marion Talley, Priscilla and Rosemary Lane, and Olsen and Johnson for your special broadcast March 15, the Legion's 19th anniversary. What, no Charlie McCarthy?

MAJ. LENNOX R. LOHR, NBC President: CBS admits that Betty and Bob, Arnold Grimm's Daughter, Betty Crocker, Hymns of All Churches, and Valiant Lady are leaving there May 30 and joining your favorite network. But then remember, they got that telepathy series away from you not so long ago. . . . The Guiding Light, Goldbergs, O'Neills, Ma Perkins, Road to Life, and Kitty Keene which you also have on NBC are to go into the spot on CBS the above shows are vacating.

RUTH GLASCOTT: Your characterization of Minerva Dimwittie on Mutual's On a Sunday Afternoon proves you a real comedienne. May you long continue on this show.

FRED ALLEN: Our New York informant reveals that you have been saving your best gags for the studio audience before and after broadcasts. Is it true that you burst in late on them the other evening with this apology: "Sorry to be late, folks, but I was over to Jersey City to see Mayor Hague to get his permission to broadcast."

BILL BACHER: Is it true that you are planning a show to star Leopold Stokowsky and Deanne Durbin? Yes? And what about Greta Garbo? Will she be available for a guest appearance?

DAVID SARNOFF: No doubt about it, listeners have appreciated the Toscanini Symphonic series and are rejoicing that the maestro has been signed for more next year.

ANDRE KOSTELANETZ: You are providing superb music in the modern manner. It's tough to have Fred Allen on the air at the same hour but you do give him real competition.

COMMANDER E. F. McDONALD: Question asked most often about your new invention, the Radio Nurse, is: Will it actually change the baby?

AUTOTHIEVES GET SURPRISE; FIND POLICEMAN IN CAR

Three men who allegedly attempted to steal a Chicago Lawn police squad car last night made one fatal error. They neglected to look inside the car.

The car was parked in front of a poolroom at 63d street and Central avenue. Sergt. Joseph Leonard and one of his men alighted, and went into the poolroom on a routine inspection. Suddenly three men darted across the street and started to enter the squad car.

Great was their surprise to find a policeman, John Nash, in the back seat of the automobile. He collared John Bodenchak, 18 years old, 5253 South Campbell avenue. Police later on seized his alleged companions, Robert Heim, 20, of 5304 South Artesian avenue, and Frank Krohaska, 23, of 6337 South Campbell avenue, said to be an ex-convict from Michigan.

SUPREME COURT HITS MITCHELL FOR TAX FRAUD

Rules Banker Must Pay $364,454.

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—Reversing a decision by the federal Circuit court at New York, the United States Supreme court today ruled that Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank of New York must pay the government a $364,454 assessment imposed for alleged "fraud with intent to evade 1929 income taxes.

Charles E. Mitchell.

The Supreme court also granted the federal trade commission a review of its effort to continue in effect an order directing the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company to stop selling tires to Sears, Roebuck & Co. at prices lower than those granted other retailers here.

Rebuffs Mitchell's Argument.

In arguing that he should not be held for the $364,454 assessment, Mitchell contended that his acquittal on a criminal charge of attempting to evade a $728,709 tax prevented the government from collecting a 50 per cent penalty. The court, however, disagreed by a six to one vote.

Justice Brandeis, who delivered the majority opinion, said it had "long been settled" that "acquittal on a criminal charge is not a bar to civil action by the government, remedial in its nature, arising out of the same facts on which the criminal proceeding was based."

The government had complained that Mitchell deducted from income an alleged loss of $2,870,305 arising from a "purported" sale of National City bank stock to his wife, and that he had failed to report income of $666,666 received from the National City company. Mitchell was acquitted in June, 1933.

Lower Court Denied Penalty.

An attempt was made by the commissioner of internal revenue in civil proceedings to collect the $728,709 tax, plus the 50 per cent penalty. The Circuit court at New York sustained the $728,709 assessment, but not the penalty.

In granting the federal trade commission a review of its efforts to continue a "cease and desist" order against Goodyear, the Supreme court agreed to pass on a decision of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals setting aside the commission's order on the ground that Goodyear had can-

The commission argued, however, that Goodyear is under every inducement to renew the relations with Sears-Roebuck because the arrangement was extraordinarily profitable to both parties.

Denies Labor Case Review.

The Nashville Chattanooga and St. Louis railroad was denied a review of a federal circuit court of appeals decision that it must recognize the railway employés departments of the American Federation of Labor as the representative of five crafts of its shop employés.

The high court granted the Denver Union Stock Yard company a review of its challenge of the constitutionality of an order by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace fixing maximum rates to be charged in operating a public stockyard. The rates against which the company protested on the ground that they amounted to "confiscation" were fixed after the secretary of agriculture valued the stockyard at $2,792,681, on which it was entitled to earn 6½ per cent.

AAA PAYS OUT 72 MILLIONS IN FARM BENEFITS

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—The Agricultural Adjustment administration today reported the payment of about $72,000,000 since Jan. 1 in benefits to farmers for coöperation in the 1937 agricultural conservation programs.

The administration estimated about $335,000,000 in benefits would be distributed between March 1 and June 30, compared with $287,000,000 and $168,000,000 in the same periods of 1937 and 1936, respectively.

This estimate does not include $130,000,000 price adjustment payments which were authorized, but for which funds have not been provided.

Workers Told Where Firm's Earnings Go

The Johns-Manville corporation, which last week issued its annual report for 1937 to stockholders, yesterday for the first time made a special report of operations to its employés, who numbered 11,242 last year.

Lewis H. Brown.

The report, made by Lewis H. Brown, president, carried a breakdown of the company's dollar volume of orders, and showed how many cents of each dollar went for pay rolls, dividends, taxes, and other expenses [after deduction of raw material purchases, transportation costs, and order cancelations by customers].

In the report to stockholders, Johns-Manville had shown 1937 net income of $5,451,843, against $4,373,707 in 1936. The company manufactures building materials.

Explains Purpose of Report.

"It has long been the custom," Brown said, "for business firms to issue annual reports to their stockholders—the persons whose money invested in a company makes it possible to build factories, buy materials, create employment, sell to customers on credit, and provide for expansion.

"I propose this year to make a report to jobholders—the persons whose time and labor invested in Johns-Manville make it possible to manufacture, distribute, and sell our products.

"Our stockholders put their money into the company. The jobholders put their work into the company. It is the chief concern of the managers to try to plan for the best possible annual wage or salary for both the jobholder and stockholder. Then neither will have to be 'laid off.'"

Total Billings 64 Millions.

Brown told jobholders that customers last year were billed a total of $64,161,722, from which the company paid $20,311,813 for raw materials, $3,144,166 for transporting products from factories to customers, and deducted $844,164 for canceled orders.

This left $39,861,579, which Brown termed "the actual amount Johns-Manville received for the value it added by manufacturing raw materials into our finished products, and for handling certain products manufactured by other companies."

He said that a breakdown of the $39,861,579 showed the following division: Wages and salaries, 51 per cent [$20,354,000]; dividends, 11.5 per cent [$4,562,500]; depreciation and depletion, 6 per cent [$2,179,000]; taxes, 5 per cent [$2,077,000]; addition to surplus, 2 per cent [$889,000; research, 1.5 per cent [$603,000]; all other expenses, 23 per cent [$9,197,000]. The "other expenses" item includes repairs and maintenance of equipment, advertising, and sales promotion, telephone, and light bills, rent, etc.

For each employé, Brown said, there is an investment in buildings, machinery, tools and other property of $4,561, or a total of $51,281,512.

Brown told employés that the company in 1937 paid $20,354,000 in salaries and wages, an increase of 26 per cent over 1936; that salesmen brought in 23 per cent more dollars than in 1936, and that the average hourly wage rate increased 11 per cent over 1936, 9 per cent over 1929, and 30 per cent over the 1933 depression low.

He said that net earnings in the ten years 1928-1937 had averaged about 6 cents for each dollar of sales.

COMPROMISE OFFER BY MEXICO REPORTED IN OIL WAGE FIGHT

MEXICO CITY, March 7.—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports tonight said President Lazaro Cardenas of Mexico had proposed a compromise between the government and foreign oil companies over an arbitral award raising wages of 18,000 workers by an amount estimated variously at $7,200,000 and $12,000,000 a year.

Informed sources said the president advanced his proposal to representatives of seventeen American and British companies who conferred with him after the noon deadline passed without their compliance with the award.

The compromise was said to include a suggestion that the government authorize price increases in the domestic market to cover the difference between concessions the companies offered the workers and the terms imposed by the award.

While the conference was under way the labor board filed attachment proceedings against bank accounts of the companies to cover wages awarded the workers during a 12 day strike last spring. The amount was $221,000.

Warns Price Fixing Can't Defeat Economic Forces

H. L. Smith of Day and Zimmerman, Inc., engineers, last night warned members of the Illinois Manufacturers' Costs association that "legislative tinkering" would not overcome economic forces which were the real basis of prices for commodities. The meeting was held at the Hotel La Salle.

TEXAS SUES SIX CEMENT MAKERS; ASKS $30,000,000

Austin, Tex., March 7.—[Special.]—State Attorney General William McCraw today filed against six Texas cement manufacturers an anti-trust suit asking a possible maximum of $30,000,000 and forfeiture of charters. The suit charges price fixing violations of state laws.

The companies were accused of entering into price fixing agreements under a "code of ethics" about Jan. 3, 1929, when the cement institute, with headquarters in Chicago, was formed. Statutory penalties of $50 to $1,500 daily against each of the defendants for 3,348 days to March 7, 1938, were asked.

Named as defendants were the Lone Star Cement corporation, with principal offices in New York and Dallas; the Southwestern Portland Cement company, Los Angeles and El Paso; Trinity Portland Cement company, Chicago and Dallas; Universal Atlas Cement company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, Chicago and Dallas; Longhorn Portland Cement company, San Antonio, and the San Antonio Portland Cement company, San Antonio.

RAIL WORKERS ASK LONG-SHORT HAUL REVISIONS

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—Railroad workers asked the senate commerce subcommittee today to "give the railroads a break" by approving the long and short haul bill to permit the roads to adjust rates to meet competition from other forms of transportation.

The railroad labor representatives testified that buses and trucks now have an unfair advantage because the railroads cannot adjust rates to meet this competition.

Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.] told J. A. Farquharson, legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, that he agreed "the rates on water and rail transportation should be on a comparable basis."

U. S. Dollar Gains Ground on European Currencies

The dollar advanced in terms of leading European currencies yesterday. Despite apparent support by the French control fund, the French franc sliped 0.02¼ of a cent to 3.23¼ cents on selling attributed to a renewal of internal political differences.

How Much Can You "Afford" to Lose?

You have automatically created a reserve for credit losses which you have included in your selling costs. If your losses do not exceed that reserve, well and good. Otherwise—otherwise.

Suppose excess losses occur. Are your profits so great that you can "take it"? Can your capital be impaired with impunity? Can you afford to lose potential sales through timidity engendered by a few unexpected failures?

American Credit Insurance is a wise and inexpensive precaution against unexpected losses. That's why policyholders continue their insurance year after year whether or not they have claims to file.

An Ohio policyholder (name on request) expresses the general sentiment when he writes: "We adopted this insurance as a precautionary measure with little thought that we would ever have reason to call on you for reimbursement. . . . Now, quite unexpectedly, the utility of the contract has been proven in the cold measure of dollars and cents."

"American" Credit Insurance reimburses Manufacturers and Jobbers on insolvencies, "77-B" reorganizations, delinquencies. Insure all accounts, special groups, individual debtors, non-rated debtors, sales from branches and subsidiaries. Investigate. Telephone or write this office.

AM. TOBACCO'S 1937 NET RISES TO $26,197,493

Greyhound Profits Up to $4,915,475.

The American Tobacco company yesterday reported net income for 1937 was $26,197,493, equal after preferred dividends to $5.03 a share on the combined common and class B common stock outstanding. This compared with net in 1936 of $20,184,000, or $3.71 a share.

Although the company has paid regular dividends at the rate of $5 annually on the common and B stocks since 1930, when they were issued, 1937 was the first year since 1932 that earnings reached $5 a share. In 1932 net income was $43,269,026, or $8.,46 a combined share.

A few other large corporations reported increased earnings in 1937, but several showed decreases.

Greyhound Earns More.

The Greyhound corporation in its annual report for 1937 showed a moderate gain in gross and net earnings over 1936. Net income for last year amounted to $4,915,475, or $1.77 a common share, including $597,987 equity in undivided profits of affiliated companies. This compared with 1936 profit of $4,239,216, or $1.59 a share, including $221,687 equity in undivided profits.

Operating revenues of Greyhound bus companies in 1937 totaled $44,285,505, a gain of 11.2 per cent over the $39,828,074 in the preceding year. C. E. Wickman, president, told stockholders that the improvement occurred largely in the west and south, and that companies in the east were handicapped by a drivers' strike in November.

Revenues Improve This Year.

He pointed out that the number of bus miles in 1937 increased in practically the same proportion as operating revenues. The company's combined net profit from operations, after deducting expenses, was $7,466,582 against $6,705,260 in 1936.

Taxes during 1937 totaled $6,215,479, compared with $5,623,321 in the preceding year and $4,904,922 in 1935. This was equivalent to 14 cents of each $1 of gross revenue in 1937, 14.1 cents in 1936, and 13 cents in 1935.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool.

Consolidated net profit of Chicago Pneumatic Tool for 1937 was $1,476,884 or $2.26 a share on 335,320 common shares, compared with $1,148,813 or $2.58 a share on the 199,469 shares in the preceding year. For the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1937, indicated net

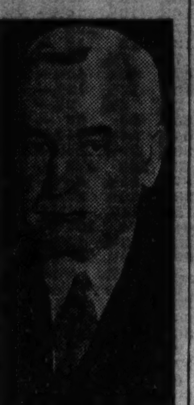
Broad Trade Treaty Signed by U. S. and Czechoslovakia

Washington, D. C., March 7.—(AP)—The United States and Czechoslovakia signed today one of the most sweeping of the seventeen recent United States trade agreements thus far concluded.



Secretary Hull.

Negotiators worked into the agreement tariff concessions covering 76.7 per cent of American exports to Czechoslovakia and 55 per cent of Czechoslovakian exports to the United States.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Vladimir Hurban, Czech minister, signed the pact in Hull's office. The agreement will go into effect provisionally April 16, pending ratification by the Czech parliament, and is for one year, also thereafter until six months after notice of termination.

Grant Concessions on Shoes.

The new agreement embraces compromise arrangements to meet opposition that developed in some quarters, particularly the shoe manufacturing section of New England.

The United States granted Czechoslovakia limited concessions on shoes. The duties on sewed shoes and fabric shoes—this category forms less than 10 per cent of imported Czech shoes—were reduced respectively from 30 per cent ad valorem to 20, and from 35 to 25. However, the duties on cement-soled shoes were retained at 20 per cent.

An upper limit was placed on imports of cheap shoes from all countries. This limit is 1¼ per cent of the average total annual American production of this type of shoe during the last five years. Czechoslovakia is the largest foreign supplier of the cheap shoe in the American market.

Cheap Shoes Limited.

The 1¼ per cent limit will permit importation of about 4,800,000 pairs of cheap shoes, which would be 600,000 to 700,000 more than last year. This compares with the domestic production in 1937 of 410,000,000 pairs of all types of shoes.

Czech concessions on American exports covered: Reduction of duties on 7.8 per cent of imports from the United States; binding of duties on 4.4 per cent [this means duties may not be increased]; binding of 64.5 per cent on the free list.

LAKE SHIPPING SEASON OPENED BY OIL TANKER

Cleveland, O., March 7.—(AP)—With the departure of the Gulf Oil tanker Regent from Toledo to Detroit today the 1938 season on lower lake ports is under way.

Although numerous small ships are expected to clear from Lake Erie ports with coal for Detroit in the next two weeks, depending on weather conditions, shipping men predict that the bulk shipping season will not get under way until late in May.

With steel mills operating at only 29.9 per cent of capacity iron ore stocks on docks and at furnaces are the highest in many years. Vessel men at this time foresee only nominal activity the first part of the season, the total iron ore movement depending on steel mill activity.

STEEL OUTPUT ESTIMATED AT 29.9% CAPACITY

Steel ingot production this week is scheduled at 29.9 per cent of capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday. This is an increase of 0.6 point, or 2 per cent, over last week's schedule, but nearly a point below the rate of 30.7 per cent a month ago.

In the corresponding week of 1937 steel production was at the rate of 87.3 per cent of capacity, a gain of 1.5 points over the week before. In the like 1936 week the indicated rate was 55.8 per cent, an increase of 2.3 points over the preceding week. In 1935 the schedule was at 48.2 per cent.

PHILBIN SENTENCED 18 MONTHS IN PRISON FOR STOCK SWINDLE

New York, March 7.—[Special.]—Philip H. Philbin Jr., the broker who traveled around the world hunting big game while the federal government wanted him for an alleged $1,000,000 Atlas Tack swindle, was sentenced today to eighteen months in a federal prison. He also was placed on probation for five years, to begin when he has served his sentence, and was forbidden during that period to reenter the brokerage business.

Philip H. Philbin Jr.

Philbin, who said he pleaded guilty to the mail fraud indictment because he was not well enough to endure a trial, was called to the witness stand by Federal Judge John G. Knox. Philbin attempted vainly to convince the judge that he was the innocent victim of criminal associates.

Philbin and twelve others were indicted on March 25, 1935, charged with acquiring 45,000 shares of Atlas Tack stock, boosting its price from $6 to $34 a share by wash sales, high pressure salesmanship and use of a Boston tipster sheet and selling out at the peak.

STOCKS RECEDE FOR FIFTH DAY; LOSSES LARGER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 7.—For the fifth successive day stock market prices sought lower levels today, with the recession accelerated to the extent that declines reached about 2 points in many leaders.

Although industrial shares, including steels, motors, coppers, and chemicals, were leaders on the downside, several carrier issues also incurred larger losses. Utilities kept their losses to minor fractions. The decline was accompanied by a slight increase in volume, the total for the day approximating 620,000 shares, compared with 488,930 shares last Friday.

Zonite Active and Higher.

Featuring the list today was Zonite Products, which moved in the best volume of the day to close at 5¼ for a net gain of 1½ points. But that stock was one of the relatively few exceptions of dealings, which saw 508 of 707 issues traded close lower. Of the rest 65 advanced and 134 closed unchanged from previous finals.

U. S. Steel common, off ⅞, and Bethlehem, off 1⅞, were leaders in the steel group. Except for Republic, which lost only a fraction, other steels declined between 1 and 2½ points.

Anaconda paced the coppers, with a loss of 1¼ points in rapid turnover. Similar declines were shown by American Smelting, Kennecott, and several less active issues. International Nickel slipped a fraction.

Railroad Stocks Sold.

Reputedly tired of waiting for the I. C. C. ruling on the rate increase, holders of carrier shares offered stocks at sizable price concessions. Baltimore and Ohio was fairly freely traded and lost ½ point to close near its low for the year. Other leaders to lose between that amount and 1 point were Southern Railway, New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, and Great Northern. Chesapeake and Ohio and Santa Fe were still more reactionary, slumping 1⅞ and 2¼ points, respectively.

Utilities were little changed, with interest small. Losses rarely exceeded half a point. In the automobile group, Yellow Truck, General Motors, and Chrysler, in that order, were among the first ten most active issues of the day. Losses were ⅝, 1¼, and 1⅛, respectively.

NOT DEDUCTIBLE

When you have cast up your tax return and taken all legitimate deductions, you will still have found no place provided to "write-off" the work and worry of managing your investments single-handed in these hectic times. And it is a complicated worrisome task, as you well know if you are managing even a modest investment fund today.

For today you are concerned not only with the outlook for business and for individual corporations. Today you must also manage your investments as a fund to yield the greatest "net after taxes." Thus you must add to your role of political observer, monetary expert, and investment analyst, the arduous task of considering the effect of taxation on your investment policy. Manifestly, these many functions are more than a spare-time job—far more even than a full-time task for any one man.

Successful management of investments demands the facilities, manpower and organized knowledge of a large group of investment specialists to scrutinize each new situation and judge dispassionately how it will affect the value of securities. That is the job that Moody's Investors Service is doing for investors.

Which of our services will help you most, we cannot tell until we have examined your list and know your investment requirements. Your inquiry will be held in confidence and will involve no obligation.

equipment shares lost fractions to 2¾, the big loss accruing to Case Threshing. Allied Chemical was a weak spot in the chemicals, dropping 4 points in nominal trading. Du Pont, Union Carbide, and Air Reduction lost around 1 point or so.

Oils ruled fractionally lower for the most part, although Standard of New Jersey lost nearly 2 points. Pure Oil was an exception, gaining a minor fraction on better demand.

Montgomery Ward and Sears-Roebuck each lost more than 1 point each in the merchandising group. In the building shares, Johns-Manville and U. S. Gypsum both dropped 1¾ points. Westinghouse in the electric equipments declined 2⅝ points, and General Electric lost a fraction. Communication issues eased fractionally.

Meanwhile, the "street" continues to wait for the interstate commerce commission ruling on the freight rate increase petition, which was regarded as being long overdue. Another decision being awaited expectantly is the Supreme court ruling in the Electric Bond and Share case involving the constitutionality of the public utility holding company law. Some quarters expected the decision to come today, but this failed to materialize.

London Market Lower.

LONDON, March 7.—[Special.]—Fears of higher taxation forced stock prices lower again today on the London Stock exchange. As measured by the London Financial Times averages, industrials reached the lowest point since Aug. 2, 1934, and rails the lowest level since Jan. 9, 1936. Trans-Atlantic issues joined the decline.

Prices were firm at the close on the Paris bourse and slightly lower in Amsterdam.

New York Bonds.

New York, March 7.—(AP)—The bond market drifted moderately lower today, with railroad liens prominent in the decline. Sales amounted to $4,859,000, face value, compared with $5,025,850 Friday.

Losses of a point or more were shown by B. & O. convertible 4½s, Great Northern 4s of '46 G, M-K-T 5s of '62, New York Central 5s, Nickel Plate 4½s, Northern Pacific 5s, and Southern Railway 6s. Fractional losers included Southern Pacific 4½s of '68, and Santa Fe 4s of '95.

Industrial and utility issues generally were slightly lower. American Telephone 3¼s of '66, Anaconda 4½s, Bethlehem Steel 3¾c, National Dairy 3¾s, United States Rubber 5s, Western Union 5s of '60, and Youngstown Sheet and Tube 4s were all fractions lower. Slightly ahead were Texas Corporation 3½s, Goodyear 5s, Consolidated Edison 3¼s, and International Paper 5s.

United States government obligations were uneven, ending 3-32ds of a point higher to 4-32ds lower.

Chicago Stocks.

Most stocks on the Chicago exchange declined yesterday in another quiet session. Of the 63 issues traded, 9 advanced, 36 declined, and 18 were unchanged.

Kerlyn Oil continued to advance against the market, moving up ¼ at 4⅜, apparently still influenced by the company's report of new oil discoveries near Magnolia, Ark. Trading in the stock amounted to 1,450 shares.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were weak yesterday. First National dipped $2 a share and Continental Illinois National was $1.50 lower. Chicago Title and Trust eased $1. Others were about steady.

Commodities

Raw sugar prices declined another 0.02 cent a pound yesterday, falling to 3.06 cents, a new low since 1935. Refined prices were unchanged at 4.55 to 4.65 cents a pound for fine granulated. Futures moved lower. The domestic contract was 0.01 cent a pound lower, and world futures, after advancing 0.01 cent, finished at net losses of 0.01 to 0.01½ cent a pound.

Most commodity futures prices moved irregularly within a narrow range. The Dow-Jones index of futures closed at 53.03, up 0.03 for the day. Cash prices slipped a shade lower on the whole, with the Associated Press index of 35 weighted wholesale staples falling to 71.20, against 71.24 Saturday.

Advances were made yesterday by contracts in hides, silk, cocoa, coffee, and cottonseed oil. Nonferrous metals, except for lead, were lower, and so were rubber and wool top futures. Lead was unchanged.

Cottonseed oil declined early in the day 0.02 to 0.05 cent a pound, but rallied later on covering by refiner interests. Closing prices were 0.01 cent lower to 0.06 cent higher, with the March closing price at 8.25 cents a pound.

Egg futures moved ⅛ to ¼ cent a dozen higher yesterday on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, influenced by a higher cash market and further word from Washington on the price pegging program of the Federal Surplus commodity commission.

The government announcement said that purchases in Chicago, New York, and at shipping points would be made to keep a fixed relationship between cash and futures prices, and between prices at major receiving points and shipping points.

The Walgreen company yesterday reported that its sales in February established a record for the month at $5,296,828, but most other companies reporting on the month's results, including the J. C. Walgreen's February sales exceeded the $5,186,620 total of February, 1937, the previous record for the month, by 2.1 per cent. FORBIDS UTILITY IN WISCONSIN TO PAY ON ITS LOAN

Madison, Wis., March 7.—(AP)—The Public Service commission issued an order today forbidding the Northern States Power company of Wisconsin to pay principal or interest on loans of nearly $17,000,000 from its affiliate, Northern States Power company of Minnesota.

The commission said that of 10 directors of the Wisconsin company, nine are directly or indirectly associated with the Minnesota company or with Northern States Power company of Delaware, a holding company for the two firms.

The order said there was evidence of a conflict of interests in the management of the two utilities and "it is questionable whether directors of the Wisconsin company exercise independent, unbiased judgment of transactions between the companies."

Recently the commission disapproved a proposed $14,000,000 refinancing plan of the Wisconsin company. The order said the utility was "grossly over-capitalized."

This makes the second large insurance company to lease space in this building in the last month. The John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance company rented quarters there recently.

St. Louis, Mo., March 7.—(AP)—The Inland Waterways coroporation announced today it had awarded a contract for five barges to a St. Louis firm for $312,000. The firm said the barges will be part of a new flotilla of twenty for use on the Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

'More for Your Money' Since 1929 Helps Ease Tax Burden

While government has been taking more from each citizen each year since 1929 in the form of taxes, business has been giving the citizen more for his money, thereby adding to his buying power, the Chicago Association of Commerce said yesterday.

"In 1929, cost of government—state, local, and federal—consumed 12 per cent of the nation's earned income and in 1938 slightly more than 23 per cent of that income will be required," the association said. "The amount in dollars in 1929, the peak year of business, was 9 billion 700 million dollars; this year the figure will approximate 15 billions. Because wages paid to labor constitute two-thirds of the total national income, workers will contribute approximately 10 billion dollars to the 1938 tax fund.

Helps Offset Rising Burden.

"While the cost of government has grown steadily, constantly tending to reduce the consumer's purchasing power, manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers have added to the consumer's income by giving him constantly more and more in goods and services for his money. It is possible that the purchasing power thus created may far exceed that created by the federal government through pump priming over the last few years."

The association gave a number of examples to show how industry has created larger buying power for the consumer.

A radio which in 1929 cost $150 now may be purchased for $25. The price reduction releases $125 for the purchase of other articles.

The same pair of shoes that cost $10 nine years ago may be bought today for $6.50.

Big Saving on Stoves.

A woman's dress that formerly sold for $16.50 may now be purchased for $9.95.

An automobile that sold for $2,475 in 1929 may now be bought for $1,075. The decrease releases $1,400 for the purchase of other articles or for saving. A predecessor of this same automobile sold for $5,500 in 1910, demonstrating how manufacturers and distributors have stretched the buying power of the consumer's dollar.

LONDON LLOYD'S TO LET ILLINOIS AGENTS RESUME

Acting on cable instructions from London yesterday, John S. Lord, attorney for London Lloyd's, informed agents that they may now transact new business. The order applies only to licensed Illinois agents. Since Jan. 5, 1938, agents for the British insurance group have not written any new business.

Lord also said that in compliance with a ruling of the Illinois insurance superintendent, policies issued by Lloyd's covering fires, automobiles or workmen's compensation must be terminated at the next anniversary date.

The booklet records that on Christmas day, 1865, the Union Stockyards received its first shipment of live stock, but that by 1868 live stock receipts had reached a total of 2,304,099 animals valued at $52,506,288.

BANK BORROWING BY BUSINESS DIPS FOR THIRD WEEK

Loans in 101 Cities Down 21 Million.

Loans by banks to business in the week ended Maarch 2 declined 21 million dollars—the third successive week in which there has been a decline—the federal reserve board disclosed yesterday in its weekly report on member bank conditions in 101 leading cities.

Loans made by the member banks to commerce, industry, and agriculture on securities declined 3 millions and such loans otherwise secured and unsecured dropped 18 millions, making a net decline of 21 millions. The total outstanding on March 2 was 4 billion 357 million dollars.

Rated Business Barometer.

The amount of loans made by the member banks to commerce, industry, and agriculture is rated as one of the best business barometers. When business activity declines the need for loans to finance normal business activities also declines.

Loans made to brokers increased 38 millions to a total of 769 millions—an amount, however, which is far below the total outstanding on March 3, 1937.

There was little change in bank holdings of federal obligations, a decline of 10 millions in holdings of direct obligations of the federal government being offset by an increase of 8 millions in holdings of fully guaranteed obligations.

JELKE ACCUSED OF UNFAIRNESS IN OLEO SALES

Washington, D. C., March 7.—[Special.]—The John F. Jelke company, Inc., Chicago, distributor of Good Luck oleomargarine, has been served by the federal trade commission with a complaint charging unfair competition.

The company is alleged to have represented that its product is made from whole milk from which no part of the cream or butterfat content has been removed. The complaint charges that this product is made from skimmed milk.

A representation by the company that its product contains 43.8 per cent more milk solids than more expensive spreads, meaning butter, is so used as to imply a substantial difference in the food value of its product and of butter because its product contains 43.8 per cent more milk solids than butter, said the complaint.

GLIDDEN OMITS ITS DIVIDEND ON COMMON STOCK

Gen. Fireproofing Cuts Quarterly Payment.

Directors of the Glidden company yesterday took no action on a dividend on the common stock for this quarter, and directors of the General Fireproofing company reduced the common dividend to 20 cents.

The Glidden company previously had paid quarterly dividends of 50 cents on the common shares. Adrian B. Joyce, president said:

"While the company is operating currently at a profit, we are approaching our peak sales season when our cash assets will all be needed to properly take care of our big volume of business. We paid out our earnings last year to escape the tax penalty and, as the recession in business prevented our shareholders from taking up the stock recently offered them, it behooves us to conserve our assets now. If all goes well, satisfactory interim dividends may be declared later in the year."

Pays Preferred Dividend.

The regular quarterly dividend of 56¼ cents was declared on the preferred stock. The company makes paints, food products, and industrial chemicals.

General Fireproofing last year paid a total of $1.60 a share in dividends on the common stock, including payments of 25 cents in April, 30 cents each in July and October, and a final dividend of 75 cents in December.

Directors of the United Specialties company took no action on a common dividend at their meeting yesterday. Last year the company paid 15 cents on March 31 and 35 cents quarterly on July 1, Oct. 1, and Dec. 24.

TELLS COURT HE CAUSED QUIZ ON $12,000,000 POOL

Frederic N. Wilhelm of Independence, Kas., a former official of the Prairie Oil and Gas company and the Prairie Pipe Line company, asserted yesterday before Federal Judge John P. Barnes that he was the person who a few years ago gave federal investigators information that started them on an inquiry into a stock pool that netted participants $12,000,000 profit.

Wilhelm and A. W. Drohen, also of Independence, and also a former official of the companies, are suing William Roy Carney, chairman of a minority stockholders' committee, for $150,000 which they allege he owes them on a "gentleman's agreement" for services performed.

The stock pool involved an official of the company, said Wilhelm, who added that he gave the information on that official which started the probe. He said he gave the data to Ferdinand Pecora, then chief investigator for a senate banking committee, and now a New York judge, who brought out as alleged members of the pool Harry F. Sinclair, Elisha Walker, and the late Arthur W. Cutten.

SUIT ATTACKS TRANSFER OF 2 BANKS' ASSETS

Loans to Officers' Wives Charged.

Charges that assets of the Security bank of Chicago and of the Second Security bank of Chicago were transferred illegally to the First National bank of Chicago and that two former officers of the two Security banks illegally obtained loans by using their wives' names are contained in a suit filed in the Circuit court yesterday against the First National bank and others.

The suit was filed by Attorney Arthur F. McCormick in behalf of Walter Behrens, 2004 Walton street, a former employé and holder of three shares of stock. It asks an accounting of all transactions in connection with the transfer of the two banks' assets and the return of the money loaned to the officers' wives.

The Security bank of Chicago was located at 767 Milwaukee avenue and the Second Security was located at 1965 Milwaukee avenue. Both banks were controled by the same board of directors.

Total Deposits $3,000,000.

The plaintif asserted that on March 13, 1933, since which date the two banks have transacted no banking business, the Security bank had 3,500 depositors with deposits of $2,000,000 and the Second Security had 2,500 depositors with deposits of $1,000,000.

In March, 1933, Behrens' petition said, officers of the two banks entered into contracts with the First National by which the Security bank admitted an indebtedness of $1,141,704 to the First National and the Second Security admitted an indebtedness of $825,000. To cover the debts, the petition said, the banks turned over all their assets.

In May, 1933, the petition said, a new bank was formed by Norman B. Collins, R. J. Kittredge, and J. H. McNabb, directors of the two Security banks, known as the National Security Bank of Chicago. The petition said that the First National bank transferred to the new bank a large part of the assets of the old banks on a valuation below actual value.

Claims Loans Are Unpaid.

The petition said Collins and Martin J. Grau, in their respective capacities of president and vice president of the Security bank and the Second Security bank, caused money to be loaned to their wives in violation of state law. It said Mrs. Collins obtained $98,000 and Mrs. Grau $22,000 and added that the plaintif believes the loans never were repaid.

The plaintif said he received a letter from Collins dated Feb. 17, 1938, asking that stockholders approve the sale of the two banks' assets.

An official of the First National bank explained that the loan contracts were made speedily to protect depositors in the 1933 crisis and subsequently were ratified by stockholders.

NEW RATING PLAN AGREED ON FOR AUTO INSURANCE

Automobile insurance companies which based their rates on the occupation of the person taking out the insurance have settled their differences with the Illinois insurance department over this practice, Ernest Palmer, state insurance superintendent, said in Springfield yesterday. Palmer contended that writing of insurance which granted certain persons reduced rates because of their occupations was a discrimination.

"The companies involved have agreed to drop this method of setting rates," Palmer said. "However, they will establish rates based on whether the automobile of the insured is used for pleasure or for business. The person who uses his car for pleasure will pay less than the other."

Palmer said that the insurance companies involved have stated that they will bring in new ratings within 10 days.

Self-Sufficiency.

Until a few years ago the term "economic self-sufficiency" as applied to nations was of little more than theoretical interest. It was occasionally said that the United States and possibly a few other countries were nearly self-sufficient in regard to raw material requirements, but few economists were convinced that self sufficiency was workable as a national policy. Today some of the major nations of the world are striving for economic self-sufficiency. No country, however, has yet demonstrated that it is practicable.

Briefly, economic self-sufficiency on a national scale calls for production within the home boundaries of virtually all goods and services needed by the civil population and the military forces. The most important exponent of self-sufficiency at the present time is Germany.

Economic self-sufficiency is usually expensive and, incidentally, not always appetizing. The German, for example, pays more for rubber goods because synthetic, or chemically produced rubber made at home, is more expensive than natural rubber which must be imported. He eats fish sausage part of the time because fish can be caught in the North sea by German fishermen and part of Germany's meat supply must be imported.

WHEAT RECEDES ON LIQUIDATION IN CHIEF MARTS

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Saturday.	Year ago.
Wheat	$ .89½	$ .90¼	$1.36
Corn	.59	.58¾	1.09
Oats	.29½	.29⅝	.46⅜
Rye	.70⅝	.72	1.06⅝
Soy beans	.99⅝	1.01	1.53¼

Liquidation developed in North American wheat markets yesterday, with prices receding 1 to 2⅛ cents from Saturday's finest. Chicago May wheat touched 89⅛ cents on the break, the lowest level since last November, and in new ground for March since 1934.

Continued lack of export demand more than offset dry weather in the southwestern part of the American winter wheat belt. Weakness in securities also tended to increase bearish sentiment.

Short covering brought about a fair reaction from the low point, with the close on the Chicago Board of Trade at net losses of ¼ to ⅝ cent a bushel, the latter on the May contract.

Wheat Loses Early Gain.

There was a short burst of buying of wheat futures early yesterday in sympathy with Liverpool, the English market climbing 1¼ cents at one time as the result of purchases of more than 1,500,000 bushels of Australian grain by Spain. This was offset later by increased pressure to sell Indian wheats, and the Liverpool market closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

Department of agriculture efforts to bring about higher prices for agricultural products were regarded by traders yesterday to have broken down. Attention was called to the fact the average price of contract grades of winter wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade was about 95 cents a bushel, the lowest price quoted for March since 1916, with the exception of the depression period of 1931-'33.

Corn Steady to Firmer.

Corn futures held within a range of about ½ cent a bushel and showed stubborn resistance to selling, closing unchanged to ¼ cent a bushel higher, the latter on the May delivery. Houses with export and cash connections were fair buyers of futures, and hedging pressure was light. Export sales were estimated at 250,000 bushels, largely representing the disposal of grain which was on the ocean and which had been shipped unsold.

With the exception of corn, the September deliveries of all grains sold at new low prices for the season yesterday.

New York Central.

[This is the second of a series of articles on railroads. Inquiries for reports on railroad and other types of securities should be addressed to the Investors' Guide department.]

The New York Central railroad, an 11,219 mile system extending westward from New York and Boston to Chicago, Detroit, and St. Louis, is the second largest railroad in the United States from the standpoint of annual gross revenues.

A landmark in development of the system was the leasing in 1930 of the Michigan Central railroad and the New York, Cincinnati, Chicago, and St. Louis, better known as the Big Four. Under the present setup, the system now taps important agricultural regions of the middle west, the Detroit automobile area, the Pittsburgh and Youngstown steel districts, certain coal areas in Pennsylvania, and the industrial areas of New England.

Products of mines, chiefly coal, have on the average constituted 57 to 60 per cent of total trafic. Manufactured and miscellaneous goods, a profitable type of freight, have supplied another 26 to 29 per cent, and products of agriculture 6 to 9 per cent.

Because it serves the industrial regions where the depression has been felt most, New York Central's revenues have dipped sharply in recent months and are now running around 20 per cent below year ago levels.

Revenues for 1937 rose to $366,226,126 from $361,063,872 in the preceding year, but 1937 net income fell to $6,352,612, or 99 cents a share, on 6,447,570 shares, from $8,933,175, or $1.79 a share on 4,992,597 shares in 1936. Fixed charges were 1.12 times covered in 1937, against 1.16 times in 1936.

Net income in 1935 was only $115,045, and heavy losses were incurred in 1934, 1933, and 1932. In 1932 the system lost $18,256,400. Consolidated profits of roads now comprising the system totaled $78,272,292, or $16.88 a share, in 1929.

Current assets were $71,308,247 and current liabilities were $44,400,807 on Dec. 31, 1937, against current assets of $78,997,041 and current liabilities of $51,837,092 a year earlier.

As a result of the conversions from interest bearing obligations into stock the number of capital shares was increased nearly 1,500,000 shares to 6,447,570 shares at the end of 1937. No common dividends have been paid since November, 1931.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

A Turkey Hobby Story

February 23, 1938.

THE two Bourbon Red tom turkeys recently brought to the Wheaton farm from Indiana came from a large flock that was built up by Mrs. John S. Capper, who started raising pure bred turkeys as a hobby ten years ago. She bought six hens and a tom to start with and raised 175 birds from the six hens the first year.

Mrs. Capper kept fifty hens for the breeding flock the next year and raised a thousand birds. The following year the breeding flock was increased to 300 hens and has been kept at that number each year since. Turkey raising now is a definite part of the yearly business plan at the Capper farm, although dairying still is the chief enterprise. There are about seventy cows in the farm's dairy herd.

Definite Production Plan.

A definite turkey production plan is followed at the Capper farm with the idea of raising large, early maturing birds with short legs and full, deep breasts, and well rounded bodies. Birds for the breeding flock are carefully selected each year. The best young hens are picked out of the flock in October and saved for producing hatching eggs for the next spring. Mrs. Capper has found that young hens are likely to lay more eggs than older birds.

The young birds are put into the breeding pens the first of January and given a good laying ration. Lights are installed in the breeding pens and, beginning Feb. 1, are turned on at 4:30 o'clock in the morning and gradually set fifteen minutes earlier each few days until they go on at 3:30 a. m. Under this plan the hens usually start laying about Feb. 20 and are in heavy production all through March. This allows for early hatching and permits the poults to develop into large birds in time for the Thanksgiving market.

About 12,000 eggs are laid each year from the 300 hens during the spring laying season. Part of these are sold for hatching eggs and the others incubated on the farm.

Enough poults are kept from each year's hatch to supply breeders for the next season, to supply the private market for breeding stock that the farm has built up, and to provide a flock of 1,500 birds to be fattened on the farm for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday markets. Any additional poults are sold at hatching time.

Young poults are kept in brooder houses, never more than 200 in a group, and cared for in much the same way as baby chicks. They require more attention than young chickens because they are more timid and delicate, and often have to be coaxed out from under the brooder to keep them from starving or piling up and smothering one another.

Good Growing Ration.

The young poults are kept on a good growing ration from the start. They are put on range when 10 to 12 weeks old and moved to fresh ground each week. They run on rape pasture. The same field is not used for turkeys oftener than every two years. The roosts and shelter houses are moved to a different part of the field each week so the turkeys will not contaminate the ground.

The poults that are kept for market gradually are put on a fattening ration early in the fall. Marketing begins in September and continues until after Christmas. Most of the birds are dressed on the farm and sold to individual consumers at a premium.

Mrs. Capper thinks the chief factors in her success with turkeys have been the careful selection and improvement of the breeding flock every year, a definite program of handling the young poults, and the building of a steady market for the finished birds.

The "Why" of the Annual Report

Why should corporations ADVERTISE their annual reports? Because in this way their annual reports are read by a wide and interested public of whom investors in specific corporations are only a part.

Many corporations place their annual reports in The Times advertising columns, because The Times is read by more investment-minded persons than any other newspaper.

PRICES OF LIVE STOCK RISE TO NEW 1938 HIGHS

Hogs and Lambs Firmest; Receipts Are Light.

New 1938 highs were established in practically all classes of live stock on light receipts yesterday. Hogs and lambs led the rise, with cheaper grades of steers and butcher stock making the biggest upturns in the cattle division. Top hogs reached $10 per 100 pounds for the first time since Oct. 25. Best lambs at $9.60 were highest since Dec. 10. Best steers on the market reached $10.10.

The additional advances in live costs were made in face of the unsatisfactory returns for most cuts of meat. Lamb meat prices increased 50 cents to $1.00 over last week's close, but other kinds of meats have not kept pace with the advance in costs of live animals.

Pork Prices Weaken.

Packers encountered more buyer resistance in pork, and took off as much as 50 cents per hundred pounds from last week's closing rates in some fresh cuts.

Advances in hogs ranged from 10 to 25 cents, the biggest upturns being in the medium and heavy butchers. Fancy 226 pound averages brought the new top. The average for the session increased 15 cents to $9.70.

Most of the slaughter lambs sold quickly within a range of $9.35 to $9.60, or fully 25 to 35 cents above last week's close, and 75 cents to $1.00 higher than a week ago. Shorn stock shared in the rise, one load reaching $8.25.

Steers and Yearlings Rise.

Steers and yearlings advanced 10 to 15 cents and in spots as much as 25 cents over last week's closing prices, with the most gain in stock selling downward from $8.00. The bulk brought $7.60 to $9.25, with one load of 1,407 pound averages reaching the $10.10 top.

Strong to 25 cents higher prices prevailed in hefers, the most gain being in the stock selling downward from $7.50. Medium to good beef cows bulked from $5.60 to $6.25, strong to slightly higher than at the close of the week. Bulls were strong to 15 cents higher. Calves sold weak to 50 cents lower. Urgent country demand for replacement stock sent stockers and feeders up 25 cents.

COTTON

Cotton prices declined moderately yesterday. Houses with Bombay connections were sellers in New York, presumably closing spreads with Bombay. Trade buying absorbed most of the offerings on the decline. Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were unchanged to .05 cent lower. Other American markets declined .02 to .05 cent a pound.

Sales of gray goods in New York last week were estimated at only 5,000,000 yards, the smallest business in weeks. Reports from the south indicated field work was making fair progress in the more western sections of the belt, but wet soil was delaying plowing in the eastern sections.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to .05 cent lower with New Orleans, 9.35 cents; New York, 9.16 cents and Galveston and Houston at 8.95 cents a pound. Prices following in cents per pound:

POSITIONS NOW OPEN.

An executive of our organization will be in Chicago on Tuesday to interview reputable, industrious men for permanent positions. Such men should apply in person at once.

We will hire men in Chicago and adjacent suburbs, train them thoroughly at our factory branch, and employ them immediately. Can only use men of a mature age as positions are responsible. We require no investment or deposit from you. However, you must be reliable and able to learn this elec. appl. work as taught.

These are permanent and well paid positions. Our product is so unusual that you must be trained in it. While learning new men must be satisfied with earnings from percentage amounting to between $25 and $40 per week, but later can increase it substantially. Previous experience not important because our method is so unusual. Applicants must be willing to work hard and steady to qualify for these higher incomes.

Ask for Mr. Crabb, La Salle hotel, Tuesday morning, between 9:30 a. m. and 12 noon, March 8th.

1,000 Leads Waiting

We will employ ten men; 25 years or over for these contacts. This is educational work and calls for willing and ambitious men. Our leads are built up and are less than 72 hours old. Our work is continuous and offers unusual opportunity to the right men at this period. We will select some men who have but little experience in the selling field. We can also use 4 men for out of city work after they are familiar with our business. When you come in and meet some of our experienced men who are earning $40 to $75 comm. per week, you will be given the same opportunity in this business. Apply Tuesday, 11 to 12, and 2 to 5 p. m., Room 320, Harding hotel.
